Flammable liquids packager

Chemical plant makes gain in planning move to village

Sunnyside Products Inc., a Chicago firm that packages flammable liquids, passed its first hurdle in obtaining a variation needed for the firm to move its operations to Wheeling's industrial park.

The Wheeling Zoning Board Tuesday night voted to recommend a variation that would allow the firm to store highly flammable liquids in underground tanks and to process these liquids from above ground tanks.

Wheeling zoning ordinances currently limit the bulk storage of volatile liquids according to the temperature at which they will ignite.

Sunnyside Products is asking that these regulations exclude storage in underground tanks and those tanks which are used to process the liquids during the daytime.

MEMBERS OF the zoning board expressed concern over the safety of such an operation. They questioned William Leuders, the firm's president, at length on the construction of the proposed plant, the history of accidents at the plant, and the firm's willingness to comply with various fire codes.

Representatives from the Wheeling Fire Department were also present at the hearing.

If the variation is approved by the village board, Leuders said Sunnyside Products plans to construct facilities in the Wheeling Industrial Park on Carpenter Avenue.

Leuders said his firm would construct a one-story brick building on about four acres. He said the plant would be built to exceed most fire safety codes, and would include both chemical and water sprinklers, explosion proof rooms, and completely spark-proof equipment.

Sunnyside is now located on the north side of Chicago. The firm packages and mixes both industrial and commercial solvents and oils. Products include various paint and lacquer thinners.

LEUDERS SAID Sunnyside's move to Wheeling would allow for the expansion of the firm's operations. He said this move would benefit Wheeling by increasing the village tax base and providing job opportunities for village residents.

Sunnyside now employs 50 persons. Leuders said he plans to expand the work force to 75 after the move to Wheeling.

The company president said the accident rate at Sunnyside is fairly low, with most accidents resulting from normal industrial activities instead of the highly volatile nature of the materials handled. He said his plant now has a lower insurance rating than most gasoline stations.

"We have never had an explosion or a fire," he said.

FRANK WOJEK, chairman of the zoning board, said he was concerned about what might happen in an industrial area if a fire or explosion did occur. He said this might cause a chain reaction.

"The result of that could be mile wide," he said.

Fire department officials, however, said they were equipped to handle any emergency. They noted that the Hintz Road fire station is close to the proposed site.

"I'm quite sure it could cause a lot of criticism," Wojek said of the plant's proposed move to Wheeling. "I'm quite sure it could instill a lot of fear in the minds of people."

Wojek added that he was sure the plant would be constructed with the maximum safety precautions if the village did approve the variation.

ALTHOUGH WHEELING Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen was not at the meeting, he instructed his representatives that there would be no problem with the plant as long as safety codes were followed.

In voting to recommend granting the variation, the zoning board also asked that plans for the plant be approved by the fire department before a building permit is issued.

Leuders said Sunnyside would work with both the fire department and the plant's insurance companies in all aspects of construction.

Zoning board member Alan Martin was not present at the meeting.

For additional information call 537-0356.

Buffalo Creek reservoir may come soon

Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) officials yesterday said an agreement is expected soon for construction of a $1.2 million reservoir on Buffalo Creek.

The project is a cooperative venture by Buffalo Grove, the Lake County Forest Preserve District and the MSD. The reservoir is to be constructed on a 100-acre site just west of Arlington Heights Road in Lake County.

Roy Carlson, principal MSD civil engineer, said MSD attorneys have drawn up a preliminary draft of the agreement. He said the agreement will be submitted to the other agencies for review as soon as possible.

CARLSON DID not know when final approval of the agreement could be expected.

"It's impossible to say when it will be finalized," he said.

Buffalo Grove officials are anxious to see construction begin on the facility that is expected to provide a significant part of the solution to area flooding problems.

Village Mgr. Dan Larson said condemnation proceedings by the Lake County Forest Preserve District on the site will probably take about six months. He expects construction to begin late this year or early next year and take four months to complete.

THE MSD IS scheduled to assume the major portion of the cost of the proposed facility. About $1,000,000 will be needed for the land and $800,000 for the construction of the dam and reservoir. The forest preserve district has applied for a federal grant that would reimburse the MSD for half the land acquisition cost.

The MSD will engineer the project, and Buffalo Grove will assume the responsibility for maintenance of the proposed spillway and 700-foot dam.

Plans are to develop the reservoir site as a public park with recreational facilities. MSD officials have said the area surrounding the lake would probably be inundated about five per cent of the time. This area is expected to drain in about two or three days and be suitable for picnics and sports activities.

Get ready to bike, swim

Haile and hearty bicycle enthusiasts are invited to take part Saturday in a bike hike and swim planned by the Wheeling Park District and the Wheeling Wheelmen Bicycle Club.

Participants are scheduled to meet at 7 a.m. at the Heritage Park building, 222 S. Wolf Rd. Members of the Wheeling Wheelmen will lead the group on a five-mile ride to the forest preserve. The trip will take about 45 minutes.

The group will be escorted by Wheeling police and a "shag wagon" will follow along behind to pick up stragglers.

At the forest preserve, a breakfast of eggs, bacon, toast and juice will be prepared and served outdoors. Games will be played following the meal.

All participants in the bike hike will be eligible for a free swim Saturday afternoon at Neptune's Pool at Wheeling High School.

The entire day of activities is free. Children under 10 years of age must be accompanied by an adult.

Exemptions weighed for annex homes

by LYNN ASINOF

Wheeling officials are taking steps to exempt from the zoning codes those single-family homes involuntarily annexed.

Many of these homes do not meet present zoning requirements and as such are considered non-conforming uses. Buildings which do not conform with zoning codes are subject to eventual razing.

The Wheeling Zoning Board Tuesday night voted to recommend that such homes be removed from the non-conforming classification. This action was recommended by Bill Bieber, director of building and zoning, during last month's hearings for the rezoning of the West Strong Street area.

The zoning board also recommended that a contradiction in the R-4 multiple-family zoning to be corrected to allow single-family homes. The current ordinance defines the purpose of R-4 zoning as providing a multiplicity of housing types from single-family to apartments. In the next paragraph, the ordinance expressly prohibits single-family residential uses.

This contradiction also was discovered that a contradiction in the R-4 multiple-family zoning to be corrected to allow single-family homes. Residents in the area complained that their single-family homes could be removed as non-conforming uses if the village approved changing the zoning to R-4 to allow apartments.

In approving the rezoning of Strong Street, the village board assured the residents that action would be taken to protect their homes from being torn down. Both ordinance changes would remove the W. Strong Street homes from nonconformancy.

Zoning board member Alan Martin was not at the meeting.

Bottle drive to aid foreign student

Empty bottles that carry deposits will be collected Saturday by the Wheeling High School chapter of American Field Service.

Students will exchange the bottles they collect for deposits to help pay the expenses of a foreign student. Each year, a student from overseas spends a year studying at Wheeling High.

Pickups will be between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. at all homes in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area.

Drivers are needed to cover the pickup routes. Anyone interested in helping should contact Betty Kerr at 541-4119.

"OKLAHOMA!" will be presented Friday and Saturday at Adlai Stevenson High School in Prairie View. Greg Frantz is one of more than 200 students, teachers and parents who will combine their talents to produce the show. Performances are set for 8 each evening. Admission is $2 and seats may be reserved by calling the school.

WHIP delays recount bid

Candidates of the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) have delayed filing for an informal recount of several precincts in last Tuesday's closely contested village election.

WHIP campaign chairman Sheila Schultz said the candidates are expected to file with the village clerk today. The candidates originally said they would file yesterday.

The deadline for seeking an unofficial recount is five days after the official vote canvass. That canvass was conducted Monday night.

The WHIP candidates have declined to reveal which precincts they will ask to be recounted. The law provides that only 25 per cent of the village precincts can be recounted by this process.

The unofficial recount would not change the outcome of the election. It would merely indicate whether the WHIP candidates have any grounds for contesting the election in court. The candidates are given 30 days after the canvass to file a challenge to the election with the Cook County Circuit Court.

Village board cancels Monday meeting

The Wheeling Village Board has cancelled a special board meeting scheduled for Monday night to discuss changing the license fees for restaurant operations.

The meeting will be rescheduled at a later date, and the revision of the license fees will be discussed before the newly elected village board.

Defense rests its case in Jayne trial

George drugged horses, cheated buyers, Silas testifies

by Roger Capetini

The defense rested its case in the George Jayne murder trial yesterday after Silas Jayne, one of three defendants charged with the October, 1970 slaying, said his brother was drugging horses in order to win shows and cheat horse buyers.

Silas, 65, of Elgin, said he became very upset over the drugging and feared George would be caught and disgrace the entire Jayne family. He hinted that was the basis of his feud with his brother.

Silas, Joseph LaPlaca, 50, of Elgin, and Julius Barnes, 39, of Chicago, all are charged with murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the rifle slaying of George Jayne, who was shot to death as he played cards at his Inverness home.

The prosecution is expected to call several rebuttal witnesses when the trial resumes at 10:30 a.m. today in the Cook County Criminal Courts Building. Attorneys for both sides say they expect the trial will end tomorrow or Saturday, following lengthy closing arguments.

EARLIER IN the day, LaPlaca gave his version of his association with Melvin Adams, the state's star witness who has been granted immunity from prosecution in return for his testimony.

Adams, of south suburban Posen, has testified he was paid $30,000 by Silas Jayne and LaPlaca to kill George Jayne. He said he later subcontracted the job to Barnes, who he said pulled the trigger the night of the murder.

Moments after he took the witness stand late yesterday afternoon, Silas Jayne said he learned in the early 1960s that his younger brother was tranquilizing race horses to make them appear they had been better trained than they actually were. He said George was cheating horse buyers who were not getting as good a horse as they saw exhibited in the show ring.

Silas said he and George quarreled over the druggings several times "then he (George) started making a lot of money." Silas said. "He was going down to Texas a lot and meeting a Col. Morales who used to ride for the Mexican team and who was in the dope business. I knew something was going on that was not quite right."

Silas said George first tried to deny the doping accusation, then argued, "That's my business." Silas said George owed him $40,000 and came up with the money within a few days after Silas asked him for it. He said George could not have earned that kind of money in the horse business.

SILAS SAID, however, the feud ended at an April, 1967, reconciliation meeting called by one of the Jayne sisters. He said no other member of the family knew about the druggings and he agreed not to mention it at the meeting.

"I told George if he would straighten up and fly right we could shake hands and be friends. He said he was going to straighten out and we agreed to go our separate ways," he said.

Silas said he started his brother in the horse business by giving him his first stable. "Everyone in the family helped him — he was the baby brother of the family." He said he also helped George after the 1967 meeting by intervening in a $50,000 lawsuit brought against George. Silas said he talked to the man who brought the suit and it was dropped.

Silas' attorney, F. Lee Bailey, concluded his questioning of the defendant by asking, "Did you ever hire anyone, ask anyone, urge anyone, or influence anyone to harm your brother George?" Silas answered firmly, "I did not."

On cross examination by Assistant State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway, Silas denied he had any cross words in public with his brother between 1961 and 1967, disputing testimony given earlier by prosecution witnesses — including two of George's children — they heard Silas threaten George's life.

In answer to a series of questions by Motherway, Silas said at the time of his brother's death he had $100,000 in a savings account; $25,000 to $30,000 in a checking account; and $15,000 to $20,000 in each of two safes at his farm.

EARLIER YESTERDAY, LaPlaca admitted on the stand that he lied to a county grand jury in December, 1970 when he denied knowing either Adams or his girl friend, Pat Farmer. He contended yesterday the only reason he lied was because he didn't want anyone to know about the women he was "running around with" in the company of Adams and Miss Farmer.

He admitted on cross examination, however, he knew Adams was a suspect in the murder when he testified before the grand jury.

LaPlaca said he never met George Jayne nor saw a photograph of him. He said he has never been in Inverness, never went to San Antonio with Adams to point out Jayne and never made any surveillance trips with Adams to Inverness, as Adams has previously testified.

LaPlaca said he first met Adams early in March, 1970, not in January of that year as Adams has stated. LaPlaca said he was introduced to Adams by Edwin Nefeld, former chief of detectives in Markam, who is now serving a three-to-10-year prison term for conspiring to kill George Jayne.

LaPlaca said his association with Adams centered on business dealings they considered making. He said he met with Adams many times in the spring of 1970, but denied the meetings were held to discuss killing George Jayne.

LaPlaca said he and Adams planned to buy used cars, recondition them and sell them through Nefeld's auto repair shop. He also repudiated earlier testimony by Adams that he had accompanied Adams to Texas and Louisiana stalking George Jayne. He said those trips were made, but their purpose was to arrange still another used car business with a friend of Adams.

LaPlaca also attempted to provide an explanation of Silas Jayne's fingerprint that was found on a $50 bill discovered in Adams possession when he was arrested. The prosecution has alleged the bill was part of the payoff money.

LaPlaca said that on at least six occasions between March, 1970 and November, 1970, he gave Adams several $50 bills which he received from Silas for various business reasons. He said he gave the money to Adams once for assisting him in guarding valuable horses and several times when Adams borrowed money.

A SWING-OUT ENGINE, designed to simplify repairs, is the only innovation George Roots has added to the 1937 Cessna Airmaster he has spent 10-years lovingly restoring to mint condition. Roots, a member of the Antique Airplane Association, began flying 36 years ago when the airplane was first marketed.

George Roots — always crazy about airplanes

Come fly with me . . . in my nifty '37 Cessna

by PAT GERLACH

Nine years ago George Roots picked up a fast little model. His wife Jean has so far offered only limited objections even though Roots and his second love spend many evenings and most weekends together.

At the apex of the triangle stands a 1937 Cessna Airmaster — which makes Mrs. Roots' attitude more believable. Her tolerance, though, is still to be admired.

The Airmaster, being more than 25 years old, qualifies as an antique and the single-engine model is being painstakingly rebuilt by Roots, a 58-year-old Hoffman Estates resident.

IF ALL GOES well, reassembly should be completed this summer and after nearly a decade, the splendidly aging beauty will again be airborne.

"Only flew her once. Back in January, 1964, when I ferried her in from Elgin to Schaumburg Airport where we've been ever since," Roots said.

But he knows she is fast. "Cruises at about 145 mph," he said, adding, the Air-master model was voted the world's most efficient plane in 1937. Roots is a member and avid booster of the Antique Airplane Association based at DuPage County Airport.

An A & P (airplane and power plane) mechanic for TransWorld Airlines, Roots purchased the plane in good condition from its former owner, a Fox River Valley automobile dealer.

BEING A perfectionist, though, he immediately disassembled the plane and started rebuilding from scratch.

While the plane is being restored as closely as possible to its original state, Roots has added a significant innovation . . . a swing-out engine which makes repairs a snap.

The modification required obtaining drawings of the Cessna 1955 swing-out engine and mount with proper adaptations for the Airmaster. Federal Aviation Administration certification for the newly engineered mount was also required, Roots said.

A fabric model, the plane is covered with Ceconite, a dacron material, applied and tightened by Roots using an iron borrowed from his wife. Cotton tape reinforcements were also ironed on. The original wing fabric was left intact since Roots determined early in the game that it "tests good."

Radios have now been installed and Roots soon plans to begin upholstering the interior of the four-place aircraft.

THAT COMPLETED, Roots and his next-door neighbor, Hank Starman, will begin applying seven, or possibly eight coats of "dope" to the exterior fabric sanding and rubbing down the Ceconite between applications. Then the sleek little bird will have her fuselage painted red with wings and tail becoming a frosty white.

"After a final FAA inspection — away we'll go," said Roots, eager with anticipation. With a "loaded" weight of 2,400 pounds Roots expects the Airmaster to lift-off at between 45 and 50 mph and slow land at about the same speed.

"If there are no obstructions, she'll land in a quarter-mile field," he boasted. And with between 2,000 and 3,000 hours of flying time logged over the past 36 years, George Roots knows what he's talking about.

But why go to all the trouble of rebuilding an old plane instead of going out and buying brand new?

"Because the Airmaster is something that everyone just doesn't see every day," Roots explained. "It brings back a lot of memories," he commented wistfully. His plane just happens to have been built the same year he earned a private license.

BACK IN southwestern Kansas, a young George Roots was known as the kid who was "always nuts about airplanes." Because of this he took a job as a farm hand which brought with it a chance to learn to fly.

"We worked ten hours a day for 20 cents an hour, were given room, board and $15 a month spending money — everything left over went into the promised flying lessons," Roots said.

An apt student, George soloed after eight hours. "I'll never forget, it was in a brand new Aeronica two-cycle engine model — really snazzy." Later when he and Jean were married, their wedding present from a good friend was — you guessed it — a ride in another new plane. But, after all, what else do you give a young couple like the Roots?

But George confided that Jean is not always thrilled about the time he spends working in a hangar at Schaumburg Airport.

"She sometimes doesn't really like my being gone from home all that much, but she lets me do it anyway," he said.

But in a few years, George and Jean plan to get into that Airmaster and leave Schaumburg permanently to retire in their "now almost-paid-for other home" in Gardner, Kansas, "right near another nice little airport."

Still, George, the pilot, mechanic and airplane enthusiast, would like to see Schaumburg Airport enlarged. "I'm sure for it and with so many small airports closing down we need somewhere to put our planes down," he said.

After 36 years of flying, he knows what goes up must come down . . . somewhere.

Sunday racing a local option: bill

The Village of Arlington Heights will be able to decide if it wants Sunday horse racing at Arlington Park, if bills introduced by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, are passed by the Illinois General Assembly.

Juckett said yesterday his horse racing bills will include a provision for local control over Sunday racing. The Park Ridge Republican has introduced legislation allowing race tracks to operate whenever they want to, including Sundays.

"We do not preclude local people from regulation. But I certainly hope that any locality, before it restricts any business, would weigh carefully the consequences on free enterprise," Juckett said yesterday.

In the absence of locally-imposed regulations, Juckett said he would like to see race tracks operate competitively without being told by the state when they can and cannot hold races.

"IT WAS APPARENT to me that there was just too much opportunity for collusion and corruption to secure racing dates," Juckett said, referring to recent scandals involving the racing board's allocation of racing schedules for Illinois tracks.

"Race tracks should be treated like any other free enterprise. When they want to race, let them race. I don't see the distinction between Arlington, Washington or Sportsman's race tracks and Wrigley Field, White Sox Park or the Chicago Stadium."

The possibility of Sunday racing has been welcomed by Arlington Park officials, including race track president Jack Loomie and general manager William Thayer.

Juckett said he did not know what chances for passage his racing bills had because the proposed changes were introduced in the House this week and have not yet been assigned to committee.

But Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, assistant majority leader of the Senate, told the Herald yesterday Juckett's bill likely will not pass this session.

GRAHAM, ALONG with Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, already submitted a package of racing bills, which Graham said should pass. Graham's bill does not include Sunday racing, but deals with the make-up of the Illinois Racing Board proposing it be changed from part-time officials to full-time employees.

Juckett said another important provision of his bills is the fixing of a 10 per cent state tax on the dollars bet at race tracks in place of the present graduated tax.

"In the past, the racing board has awarded two separate racing meets to one track. This has allowed tracks to pay lower taxes because they have been able to divided the total dollars bet," he said. ARLINGTON PARK is currently defending a suit filed by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott charging the track owes $4.2 million in back taxes as a result of the twin meets held at Arlington in recent years.

Rep. Robert Juckett

"I am proposing a flat 10 per cent tax, which is the same tax base imposed on bingo. If that's good enough for the grandmas and grandpas who play bingo, it's good enough for the horse players," Juckett said.

The present graduated tax stops at 9.25 per cent after the total dollars bet at a track in a season reaches $50 million.

Your world begins each day at a certain time. If you're like most Northwest Suburban people, your day begins in a comfortable bedroom, in a warm home. Most of what you cherish is in that home. People you love; the tranquillity that binds you to them; the security you've provided for them.

These are the things that make home ownership so important to most people. They're the same things that make our job so rewarding. For at First Federal Savings of Des Plaines, we've always considered home loans as more than mere financing of four walls and a roof. We've always tried to make home loans with the knowledge of the very personal and private satisfaction they can bring to people. And that is why our Home Loan with a Heart is more than a slogan. It's an important part of the lives of thousands of people in this area. And, we aim to keep it important for thousands more.

Stamp, coin collection stolen from residence

Gertrude Schupmann, 380 S. Wolf Rd., reported a stamp collection and old German coins missing this weekend, police said.

Mrs. Schupmann told police she did not have an accurate estimate of the value of her collection, but said it could be as high as $3,000.

Police said Mrs. Schupmann discovered her collection was missing last Thursday and reported it to police Friday.

Citizen's committee also will work on Jeffrey bridge project

Group to start beautifying drainage ditch

by LYNN ASINOF

A Wheeling citizens' committee will soon begin working to beautify the Wheeling Drainage Ditch and preserve wildlife along the creek banks.

The Creek Beautification Committee's first job will be to work with Wheeling's new firm of consulting engineers on the removal and replacement of the Jeffrey Avenue bridge.

This project calls for the removal of many large trees along the creek banks which presently block the flow of water. Residents in the Meadowbrook West area last year protested the tree removal, halting a major flood control program for almost one year.

THE COMMITTEE was formed at the request of Trustee Bill Hein, chairman of the village board's sewer, water and public health committee. The citizens' group will operate as an arm of the board committee.

Several of the committee members live in the Meadowbrook West area and were active in protesting the tree removal last year. The committee chairman is Esther Davis, 15 E. Jeffrey Ave., who spearheaded that protest.

Other members are Dot Weiner, 34 E. Jeffrey Ave.; Bernard Nelweem, 215 E. Wayne Pl.; Walter Stryszyk, 368 S. Jeffrey Ln.; and John C. Muno, 271 S. Wheeling Ave.

Village Mgr. George Passok said the new committee would probably make the final determination as to which trees would be removed for the bridge construction. He said Mrs. Davis would probably be given a can of spray paint to mark the trees for removal.

Mrs. Davis said her primary concern is the preservation of the creek in its natural state. She said parts of the creek are still relatively unspoiled, supporting much natural vegetation and many small animals.

"I think our main concern is how to keep it that way," Mrs. Davis said. "I plan to do some research to find out how we may obtain additional wildflowers, shrubs and trees that are native to Illinois."

MRS. DAVIS SAID she hoped the committee would make the creek not only more attractive, but also a place that could be used by the local schools to study wildlife.

"Another of our functions should be to make the residents more aware of their environment and the importance of conserving the natural resources we have," she said.

The committee chairman noted that the creek is a main artery to the Cook County Forest Preserve, providing a natural flyway for both permanent and migratory birds.

Last year, Mrs. Davis traveled the length of the creek, listing the different birds and natural vegetation that she found. She reported more than 60 types of birds common to the area and nearly 30 different plants.

MRS. DAVIS ALSO has suggested that the shallow retention basins in Heritage Park by Wolf Road be made into a bird refuge.

"Since they are shallow, they would lend themselves to becoming an excellent feeding and breeding grounds for water birds, and aquatic plants would thrive well," she said. "The high places in the center would provide an ideal roosting island, well isolated from the public."

Mrs. Davis said this project could be undertaken at little expense to the public. She suggested an asphalt walk around the basins and park benches which would further enhance the area for use by bird watchers, cyclists and strollers.

While the committee has not yet had its first meeting, Mrs. Davis said she sees the group expanding to cover conservation in all parts of the village.

Seatbelts urged for all school buses in state

Seatbelts could be required for all school buses in Illinois if a suggestion from Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher is followed.

Atcher proposed the Schaumburg Village Board initiate action to amend to state laws regulating boards of education and cities and villages. The amendment would empower local governments to regulate school buses.

This "is a criticism of our own legislature for not having come up with the answer" to problems of school bus safety, Atcher told the board this week.

The discussion developed from a complaint by Barry Jacobs, 1506 Syracuse Ln., Schaumburg, that children are allowed to stand on school buses. He asked the board to pass an ordinance requiring all children be seated while a bus is in motion.

VILLAGE ATTY. Jack Siegel said the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled municipalities do not have the power to regulate school buses. Only the local school board or the state school superintendent have that authority, he said.

Atcher proposed the village fight for legislation granting such power to villages, and other legislation requiring seats belts on school buses.

Atcher and Siegel suggested Jacobs take his request to the board of education of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54. Jacobs said he had, but added, "I get the feeling nobody cares."

Jacobs said he was concerned that children could be seriously injured if they were standing when the school bus stopped suddenly, or when an accident occurred. Local police can only check now to see buses are not overloaded. Jacobs said he has tried to make spot checks himself.

WAYNE SCHAIBLE, Dist. 54 superintendent, yesterday reported the district already prohibits children standing when buses are moving, and Schaumburg Transportation Co., the district's bus contractor, has a similar regulation.

"We want the kids to be seated also, and so does the bus company," said Schaible. Occasionally, he said, children ride a different bus than their normal one, which may mean the listed capacity is exceeded for one trip.

Schaible also noted that a bill recently introduced in the State Senate would have required seatbelts. He was notified yesterday it failed in committee. Such measures "should be left to be stated," he said.

A woman at the village board meeting Tuesday, who identified herself only as a fulltime school bus driver, objected to the seat belt proposal, saying she believed small children could panic in an emergency, and not be able to release the seat belts.

This could delay their getting off the bus, and might cause more serious injury than if they had not been restrained in place, she said. She also said bus drivers are very careful not to exceed their legal capacity. Although a change in the number of pupils on their routes might cause a slight overload for a few days, pupils are quickly shifted to other buses to eliminate any excess, she said.

Atcher added his plan is not meant as a criticism of bus drivers or bus companies.

Trial under way in death of Cook County policeman

The wife of a Cook County Sheriff's Police lieutenant from Mount Prospect went on trial yesterday in Cook County Criminal Court charged with murdering her husband.

Ruth Carbona, 29, of 206 Euclid, Mount Prospect, is charged with shooting her husband Joseph, 34, with his service revolver the morning of Dec. 22, 1971.

The state contends Lt. Carbona was shot in the back by his wife on a stairway in their home.

The defense argues the death was an accident and that the revolver went off in a struggle after Carbona himself cocked the gun and threatened his wife with it.

In a brief opening statement, Asst. State's Atty. Anthony Montemurro promised to show the jury that Mrs. Carbona shot and killed her husband.

DEFENSE ATTY. Bernard Brody promised the evidence would show the 6-foot, 200-pound Carbona had cocked his service revolver, pointed it at his wife's head and "using some profane language, threatened to blow her brains out."

"There was a struggle at the top of the stairs during which one shot was fired, resulting, unfortunately, in the demise of the lieutenant," Brody told the jury.

He said Carbona had been drinking heavily the night of Dec. 21 and in the early morning hours of Dec. 22. The policeman struck his wife with his car in the driveway of their home, throwing her into the bushes and bruising her leg. He said Carbona also struck his wife with his fists and that an autopsy after Carbona's death showed bruises on his knuckles from the beating he gave her.

BRODY SAID before the shooting Carbona had also struck his wife several times with the revolver. He said incidents on other occasions had included Carbona threatening to kill his wife, beating her, destroying furniture in their home, and ripping the telephone from the wall of their home.

He said after the shooting Mrs. Carbona called Cook County Sheriff's policemen rather than Mount Prospect police because her husband was a sheriff's policeman.

Buckley, who had been on patrol in Wheeling, was first to arrive at the Carbona home in Mount Prospect.

He said Mrs. Carbona was outside when he arrived and called him to "hurry, please, help me." He said he found Lt. Carbona lying on his back on the floor of a foyer just inside the door of the home. He said Carbona's eyes were half-way open and his feet were resting on a landing two steps up from the floor.

"I asked her what happened, she (Mrs. Carbona) said 'He's been shot'. I said where, she said 'I don't know, we had a fight,'" Buckley testified.

HE SAID although Lt. Carbona appeared to be dead, he called an ambulance. He said Mrs. Carbona bent over and was holding her husband's head saying, "Joe, please don't leave me."

He denied seeing any bruises or a black eye on Mrs. Carbona but said she was crying.

Shaw testified he came to the home from the Cook County Sheriff's Police station in Niles. He said when he arrived Mrs. Carbona said to him, "Hurry, Don, hurry, Joe's been hurt."

He quoted her as saying, "Help him, Don, he wanted to hurt me and Joe got hurt. Tell me he is all right."

Shaw said there was a large quantity of men's clothing scattered on the stairs and that the policeman's revolver was lying on the second step up from the landing. He said there was a blood smear halfway up the stairs, four feet up on the wall.

SHAW SAID he accompanied the body to Holy Family Hospital where he found two holes left in the body by the bullet, one in the back and one in the chest. The wound in the back was higher, he said. He also reported Carbona had "severely bruised knuckles," and said there was a "bruising effect caused by the entrance of the bullet to the body" around the wound in the back.

He also denied seeing any bruises on Mrs. Carbona. Both policemen said she was "hysterical" when they arrived at the house and both said Carbona has been their supervising officer. Shaw said he had met Mrs. Carbona once before two weeks earlier when she had called for police assistance.

Testimony in the trial is expected to continue for the rest of the week.

Reduction in flight frequency seen as likely

Airlines starting to face the fuel shortage

by BARRY SIGALE

The airline industry is beginning to feel the effects of the nation's energy crisis and is taking steps to meet any threat to service.

Spurred by a warning by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) fuel shortages may present a major problem for the industry, airline officials are reevaluating their fuel requirements.

The result will be a reduction in fuel consumption with a probable cutback in the number of flights to and from major U.S. cities.

But the average passenger will not be affected too much by any reduction in flights because there are too many airplanes flying as it is, airline spokesmen say.

THE AIRLINES have been waging a fierce struggle with one another over the public's dollar. The result has been more flights, more employees, more advertising and more headaches for each company.

The competition has cost airlines huge sums of money which they have not recouped at the ticket window because their passenger load has not kept up with flight increases. In other words, there has been a great outlay of money for increased service which wasn't needed in the first place, spokesmen say.

Now comes the CAB, declaring a joint effort on the part of the airlines is needed to combat the possible fuel shortage.

According to a CAB spokesman, "a plan of action is needed in the event a fuel shortage develops at any of the nation's major airports." The CAB cited minor problems which occurred last summer at East Coast airports when airplanes took off with only enough fuel to get them to another airport where the fuel supply was replenished.

"The board will not approve any plans which we do not believe to be a benefit to the public," said William Swinford, CAB publicist. "We will accept nothing without the public's need kept well in mind."

A PROBABLE solution to the fuel problem is a major rescheduling of flights with the eventual elimination of "needless" flights.

Part of this has already been accomplished by three of the major airlines — Trans World, American and United — which are now renegotiating its three-way agreement to curtail major cities flights which are least in demand by the public.

According to Jack Gamble, United spokesman, "The classic example" of costly, wasteful flights is the Chicago to New York run.

Every 15 minutes an airplane from one or all of the three airlines takes off from either O'Hare or Midway to Kennedy, LaGuardia or Newark Airports even though the planes are not being filled by passengers. In some cases the planes are less than half full.

"From 7 a.m. to 10:15 p.m.," said Gamble, "United alone has 24 flights scheduled daily from Chicago to New York. That's for 15 hours flying. The other airlines have nearly the same amount of flights. And there is a hell of a lot of overcapacity there."

Gamble said because of competition "everybody keeps escalating" their number of flights. "We discovered that everyone was flying all the time but without any passengers," Gamble said.

"WE ARE GOING TO have to sit down (with the other airlines) and reduce some of our flying, make money and conserve fuel. We have to work out a plan," said Gamble.

Gamble said United doesn't expect the fuel problem to reach its height this year but said United has been assured by its suppliers they have sufficient reserves to meet any crisis.

As for the passenger, himself, Gamble is certain any reduction in flights will not have much effect on him.

"People have had an abundance of choice. No matter what gets taken away from them they still have a lot to choose from. The overall effect will not really inconvenience the passenger. He is still going to be able to run to the airport and catch a flight to New York. He might have to wait a half hour instead of 15 minutes. But there will be no effect on the price of a ticket or services available."

THE NATION'S AIRLINES may be heading toward a fuel shortage crisis unless the industry takes steps to conserve fuel. So warns the Civil Aeronautics Board, which has received assurances that the industry will cooperate in solving potential problems. The average passenger, however, is not expected to be affected much by possible cutbacks in what has been described as "too much service" anyway.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

In a rating of congressional voting records by the Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA), U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, was rated second only to Rep. W. R. (Bill) Archer, D-Tex.

Crane earned a 99 per cent score from the ACA, while Archer was the only member of Congress given a 100 per cent rating.

Tying for third behind Crane, at 97 per cent, were Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., and four congressmen, Rep. John H. Roussetot, D-Calif.; Rep. J. Herbert Burke, D-Fla.; Rep. H. R. Gross, D-Iowa, and Rep. John M. Ashbrook, D-Ohio.

THE RATINGS were published by the American Eagle, a publication of the American Party. However, the publication apparently has little faith in their significance. The American Eagle is edited and published by Tom Anderson of Pigeon Forge, Tenn., the American Party vice presidential candidate in 1972.

In an accompanying article, Anderson warns that no such voting index can be "a completely accurate appraisal." "Obviously, any index, this one included, which rates the likes of Sen. (John) Tower (R-Tex.) in the 90 per cent and over category, is not accurate."

Anderson seems to have his mind made up about "the likes of" Tower, despite the fact that the ACA scoring system gave Tower a 94 per cent.

On the other hand, he describes the 95 per cent recorded by Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) as "great," and expresses "surprise" that Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who counts himself as an independent but is lumped with Democrats in the polls, scored "only 34 per cent."

APPARENTLY, Anderson also has his mind made up about who are the good guys and who are the bad guys, and he does not want to be confused by rating systems.

Byrd's "surprising" score, by the way, was identical to that of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., while Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson D-Ill. recorded a paltry 12 per cent by ACA standards. Only 20 members of the Senate rated lower with the ACA than Stevenson.

Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, sworn in to Congress in January, was not rated.

STATE REP. Richard A. Mugalian, D-Palatine, has joined five other Cook County Democratic committeemen in a letter to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley protesting closed meetings of the Cook County Central Committee. Daley is chairman of the committee.

Other signers of the letter are Lynn Williams, New Trier Township committeeman; Robin Moran, Evanston Township; Donald M. McIntyre, Rich Township; Seymour Simon, committeeman for Chicago's 40th Ward, and Ralph Metcalfe, 3rd Ward.

The letter told Daley that committee meetings have been in violation of a rule adopted by the state central committee on April 21, 1972, which states, "All public meetings at all levels of the Democratic Party are open."

"IN ADDITION," the committeemen reminded Daley, "You stated at the meeting last spring when you were re-elected county chairman that thereafter all meetings of the Democratic Party of

Rep. Philip Crane

Sen. Charles H. Percy

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III

Rep. Richard Mugalian

Cook County would be open to the public and the press."

The letter said that meetings cannot be open unless they are announced publicly in advance and held at a site large enough to accommodate the public and the press, which it said has not been done.

"We have postponed making this request," the letter continued, "because we did not wish to raise any issue, no matter how important, during the 1972 election year which could be resolved later."

"In the case of almost every closed meeting, the press has accounts after the meeting regarding what took place. In some instances, these accounts are inaccurate. Opening our meetings will give the opportunity to report completely and accurately on what took place."

Bill would give dual districts as much as units

by WANDALYN RICE

Proponents of a measure that would increase the amount of state aid available to most suburban schools plan to put on a major push in the next few weeks in the Illinois General Assembly.

The effort will center on House Bill 372, which is now pending in the Senate. The bill would change the state aid formula to equalize the amount of aid given dual school districts as compared to that given unit school districts.

Dual districts, including all Northwest suburban districts, have elementary and high schools under separate school boards and administrations. Unit school districts include all grades through high school in one system.

IF PASSED and signed into law by Gov. Daniel Walker, House Bill 372 would mean $17 million in additional state aid next year for High School Dist. 214 and about a $320,000 increase in aid for Arlington Heights Elementary Dist. 25, according to officials in those districts. Other area districts also would reap substantial profits from the bill.

William Hinkel, lobbyist for an organization of suburban school districts, said this week that the goal of backers of House Bill 372 "is to pass this as quickly as possible and get it on the governor's desk." He said he hoped the bill would be passed by the Senate on or about May 1.

The bill is likely to run into opposition from supporters of two other state school aid bills, one proposed by State School Supt. Michael Bakalis and the other by the Illinois School Problems Commission.

Both proposals would provide more money for dual school districts by cutting down the amount of the disparity in the formula between dual and unit districts, but neither would entirely eliminate the disparity.

AT ISSUE IS A change in the "qualifying rate" for state aid provided in the formula. Each school district must levy a certain tax rate before it begins to receive money from the state. Presently each dual district must levy a rate of 84 cents per $100 assessed value, for a total of 84 cents for two districts serving an area. Unit school districts must levy only a total of $1.08 before receiving state money.

House Bill 372 would lower the qualifying rate to 64 cents for elementary school districts and 70 cents for high school districts. The bill proposed by Bakalis would lower the rate to 80 cents for elementary districts and 82 cents for high school districts.

A statement recently from Bakalis' office said that DUE, an organization of dual school districts that has been working for House Bill 372 "is the most powerful educational lobby for special interests in the state." In addition, Bakalis' office said the equality bill, if it becomes law, will take $37 million or 42.5 per cent of the money provided in the governor's budget for increased state school aid.

Hinkel said the opposition to House Bill 372 from Bakalis may not be as effective now as it might have been earlier. Since Bakalis' state aid proposal was introduced into the legislature just before the Easter recess, it will take at least four or five weeks to catch up with Bill 372, he said.

HINKEL ADDED that he and members of DUE have asked Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, to move their bill quickly. "We feel if we can get it to Walker quickly, he just might sign it," Hinkel said.

Even if the governor balks at signing the bill as written, Hinkel said, he might use his amendatory veto to increase the qualifying rates for dual districts and make a commitment for complete elimination of the disparity next year.

"If we could get 9 cents (on the qualifying rate) this year with some commitment for the rest of the disparity in two or three years, that would be good," Hinkel said.

During his campaign, Walker said he believes the disparity between dual and unit school districts should be eliminated, Hinkel said, adding, "Everything we've heard from Walker has been very encouraging."

IBHE head taking Indiana job

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Dr. James B. Holderman, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education for the past four years, has accepted a job as vice president at the Lilly Endowment Foundation of Indianapolis.

The foundation announced that Holderman, 37, would start working this summer after he finishes a book on the Illinois master plan for higher education.

Lilly Endowment makes grants in education, community development and religion. It was founded by the Lilly family, operators of Eli Lilly & Co.

A Lilly spokesman said Holderman will help reappraise the foundation's policies in connection with education grants.

Holderman resigned from the Illinois board early this spring after Gov. Daniel Walker announced that all BHE offices would be moved to Springfield.

It's that time of year—Arbor Day

by LEA TONKIN

ARBOR DAY will be celebrated tomorrow in Illinois. It's a day set aside for planting trees in the United States and many foreign countries.

The annual event was begun in 1872 by newspaper publisher J. Sterling Morton in Nebraska. Realizing the enrichment to be gained from this conservation effort, Morton promoted the planting of one million trees on the first Arbor Day, and the awarding of state prizes for the planting efforts of individuals and groups. Now it's an event sponsored by local garden clubs and organizations in other states.

WHAT THE STATE is doing for fishermen, hunters and ecology will be discussed by Illinois director of conservation Anthony T. Dean at today's meeting of the Northwest Suburban Manufacturers Association. The meeting will be held at the River Forest Country Club, Elmhurst. Cocktails will begin at 11:30 followed by the luncheon at noon.

WHALE SURVIVAL is at stake: that's the reason for a joint United States-USSR research project on the endangered Arctic whale, the bowhead. The U.S. affiliate of the World Wildlife Fund is promoting this project as part of its efforts to protect endangered wildlife and wildlife habitat.

"The study of living whales in their natural habitat is linked with the question of whale survival," said WWF's executive director William E. Scheele in making the announcement. "As our knowledge of these magnificent creatures is advanced through research, the almost unchecked slaughter of whales over the past 50 years becomes less likely to persist in the future," he said.

The bowhead, also known as the Greenland whale, is one of five great whales near extinction due to commercial exploitation. Others are the blue, humpback, gray and white whales. All these species are protected under the regulations recently adopted by the International Whaling Commission, although two nations still commercially hunt the whales.

The Bowhead Project includes the study of the whales as they migrate along the northwest coast of Alaska through May. Voice patterns and behavior during this 350 mile journey into the Arctic Ocean will be recorded. WWF is initiating a nationwide campaign to support the $50,000 project. Support is also being provided by the Naval Arctic Research Laboratory, the U.S. Department of the Interior and the National Film Board of Canada. The project was proposed by conservationist Scott McVay of the Environmental Defense Fund, who will participate in the bowhead study.

SHIRTSLEEVES IN THE summertime and sweaters during the winter: it's one of the suggestions offered by Dr. John H. Gibbons, director of the University of Tennessee's environment center as a means to reduce energy consumption.

Gibbons, a consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge National Laboratory, said the equivalent of 100 million tons of coal could be saved annually if Americans would dress according to weather conditions, cutting back on air conditioning and excess heating demands. The use of returnable containers and the willingness to drive smaller, non-air conditioned cars also was suggested by the consultant.

POLLUTION CONTROL research highlights the Iron and Steel Exposition and 1973 Association of Iron and Steel Engineers Convention, continuing through Friday at Chicago's McCormick Place. A discussion on collection and treatment of oily wastes, and papers presented on wastewater problems, dust and noise measurements are included in the program.

THIS FOLLOWS the recent announcement by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that it intends to get tough with U.S. Steel officials for air pollution. The grace period is over for this company, said Valdas Adamkus, EPA deputy regional administrator. He gave the company until mid May to come up with a plan to curb air pollution at its Universal Atlas Division and Gary Works. Another 30-40 Midwest polluters are being scrutinized for possible similar enforcement action.

PROSPECTS FOR developing new energy technologies and the nation's current energy problems will be discussed May 7 at the University of Missouri in St. Louis at a hearing called conducted by Rep. James W. Symington, D-Mo. Symington is chairman of the House subcommittee on space and science applications. The hearing will be held in conjunction with Rep. Michael McCormack, D-Wash., chairman of the House subcommittee on industry. Representatives of industry, university and consumer interests will participate. OPPORTUNITIES for citizen involvement in Water Pollution Control is the theme of a workshop set for May 5 in Chicago. The 1972 amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act will be discussed.

Program participants include: Walter Romanek, director of water enforcement, regional federal EPA; Jay Goldenberg, attorney for Illinois EPA; Arnold Leder of Lake Michigan Federation; Hal Bohner of Business and Professional People for the Public Interest; environmental researcher Dennis Adamczyk of Citizens for a Better Environment; Bart Lynam, general superintendent for Metropolitan Sanitary District; Louise Rome, environmental quality chairman for League of Women Voters; and Bill Omohundro of the federal EPA. In addition to private organizations represented by speakers, sponsors include Independent Voters of Illinois.

There is no charge to attend the workshop at the University Center, University of Illinois Circle Campus, Chicago. Registration begins at 9 a.m.

Wanted: a clean machine

UOP auto-pollution experts trying to keep smog out, spunk in

by LEA TONKIN

Trying to make clean machines out of all those old tin lizzies on the road isn't going to be easy.

It's hard enough to convince automakers and new car buyers the cost of cleanliness in terms of bothersome and costly newfangled emission-control devices is worth all the trouble.

Enter Bob Price and fellow clean-thinkers at Universal Oil Products Co. in Des Plaines. Armed with a mandate from the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to keep the air breathable through auto emissions control and other means, these veteran pollution fighters are ready for action.

First man on the team is Price, vice president of corporate development for UOP. Sure, he's all for clean air, but he knows American motorists too well to expect them to give up the popular full-size car with air conditioning and all the other extras.

His attitude is more realistic: "So people have their air conditioners and they just roll up their windows to keep the dirty air out. But they could solve this problem of pollution."

TO ALL new car buyers fearing the solution might be worse than the problem, Price says he understands. For some people, he concedes, dirty air would be easier to swallow than the spectacle of a new car with no spunk, prematurely aged by emissions-control equipment.

"You've heard all the complaints about the 1973 model cars," he says of the get-up-a-d-go-that-got-up-and-went. "Now, without the converter, the newer cars will have even less performance," he predicted.

Things need not look so grim for motorists. UOP has developed a number of catalysts (as platinum and palladium) to do the emissions cleanup job without a loss in engine performance. Used in a catalytic converter, a device which can be installed on an auto right at the factory, catalysts clean out the hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide and other pollutants in auto exhaust. A catalyst is a promoter of change, in this instance converting pollutants to carbon dioxide and water.

New federal standards for allowable auto emissions, recently announced by EPA director William Ruckelshaus, set the pace in the automotive cleanup effort. And for Ruckelshaus, who laments "roughly 100 per cent" of the people are mad at him as a result of his announcement, Price and his fellow workers at UOP think he made a "beautiful decision."

Ruckelshaus pushed back to 1976 the original 1975 deadline for enforcement of automotive hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions reductions. This angered environmentalists because they say the standards are not strict enough and automakers because they say the standards are still too tough.

INTERIM CUTBACKS in auto emissions are required to a degree in 1975. In California, these interim standards are particularly stringent. All 1975 model cars there will probably be equipped with catalytic converters to cut back on carbon monoxide, hydrocarbon and nitrogen oxides emissions.

This makes Price one happy fella, because automakers need UOP and clean air researchers to bail them out of this fix. Non-catalyst technology will be pushed a little further in most of the country while the California market will serve as a massive testing market for the converters.

"It stretches right to the limit the non-catalyst technology," says Price, rubbing his hands together in what appears to be pure enjoyment. Warming up on the subject, he enthuses, "We think Ruckelshaus' decision was a beautiful one. Considering the forces pulling on him, we think it was a masterful one."

The beauty of the whole EPA stand, he says, is the way in which no one involved was either completely ignored or satisfied. The effect should be an orderly transition from one technology to another rather than a hasty, premature change.

For UOP and other companies in the field of automotive exhaust emissions controls, this could mean a cleanup bonanza. In addition to strict 1975 standards, there is the possibility of 1976 enforcement of Clean Air Act provisions. This would mean a maximum emission of .41 grams of hydrocarbons per mile in contrast to the interim 1.5 grams; 3.4 grams of carbon monoxide in contrast with 15; and 3.1 grams of nitrogen oxides in both standards.

A CRUCIAL ELEMENT in the EPA standards is nitrogen oxide emissions. Ruckelshaus indicated he may seek a relaxation of the strict standards now set to be enforced in 1976.

Lining up to take a chunk of this potential pollution control business are more than 30 companies. These include a number of industries with a great deal more money to spend on research and development than UOP, says Price.

The Des Plaines-based company won out over Engelhard Minerals & Chemicals Corp. in its contract to provide converters to Chrysler Corp. Just how the switch to UOP was made is questioned by Engelhard officials who say they were were dumped following testimony to EPA officials catalysts are ready for use in 1975. This conflicted with the Chrysler testimony, and the question of perjury may still be settled by Ruckelshaus.

Price sees the company's ability to line up a firm contract with Chrysler, and catalytic converter production for Ford and GM as good possibilities, as the triumph of a better product over a good one.

"We have extremely fine competition," he says smoothly. Of several UOP converters, he adds, "We think we have the best in the world, quite modestly." He's thinking of UOP's markets in Japan and Europe as well as the U.S.

"UOP HAS a distinct advantage in its longtime work in noble metals," Price says. Platinum is among these corrosion-resistant metals and is used in the UOP converters. The company has been known for decades in its petrochemical and petroleum research, including the development of platforming process widely used in gasoline production. UOP's new automotive products division will include a new plant catalyst plant at Tulsa-Port of Catoosa, Okla.

Automakers are doing a good job of developing alternate technology on their own, Price says but the catalysts are ready right now to do the cleanup job. It takes 10 years for the machine tool industry to gear up for major automotive engine changes. The installation of a converter right at the factory is a comparatively simple task.

The cost of a converter for the California 1975 trial run will run $50 to $80. These will be limited in design during the testing stage, says Price. He believes once "the kitchen sink approach" is used to add a fail-safe guaranty to the converter, the cost will go higher.

Price says the converter is already proven reliable over 50,000 miles of road testing. He testified before EPA officials in Washington this spring on its effectiveness.

Price is sensitive to criticism of converters. He's quick to counter the notion that a converter reduces gasoline mileage by 15 to 30 per cent, or that it is unreliable.

LOOKING BACK over his shoulder at a newspaper clipping which reads, "When pollution goes down, so does the gas mileage," Price says, "This is all wrong. It can be done right, and you can still have good mileage."

The current non-catalyst technology accounts for the poor mileage of perhaps eight miles to a gallon on new, full-size cars. "Leaning up the engine, with more air, and less gasoline, allows more complete burning," says Price. "But if it's too lean, it causes misfiring and sacrifices performance and economy."

Converters don't have to be pampered, he contends. Critics have described the devices as fragile, subject to "poisoning" by the use of leaded fuels. Returning to the use of non-leaded gasoline restores the converter back to effective performance, says Price.

What about cars already on the road? UOP is waiting in the wings for an all-out effort to clean up dirty old autos. A UOP retrofit catalyst device can be installed on a car for $80 to $150. UOP has tested these systems on 100 autos in California, working closely with the EPA. More work is needed to meet the federal standards. Catalysts work best when the engine is hot, but the engines must pass a cold start test as well as a hot start test.

"When it gets down to putting this on an old car that's not worth even $150, maybe it won't seem worthwhile," Price continues, "But it removes a ton of pollution a year, and that a hell of a good buy." A mandatory retrofit program is the only type that should work, he says.

PRICE ENVISIONS automotive emissions cleanup programs geared to specific locales. This way, local officials could in effect write a prescription for the appropriate equipment to be installed on autos. In the Chicago area, for example a carbon monoxide problem identified by the EPA would be given priority.

DIRTY ENGINES may be a thing of the past once the catalytic converter takes its place as standard equipment on U.S. autos. This model, held by Universal Oil Products Co.'s director of automotive research, Ted DePalma, is one of two pelleted catalyst converters being tested.

"We are working with metropolitan areas across the country to decide what type of equipment is needed to meet the 1975 clean air standards," Price says.

What it's going to mean for the average driver is the necessity of a better-tuned car, says Price. Motorists will gain cleaner air and may make up the cost of pollution control equipment with better mileage to boot.

Quirks in the news

This little bit of litter sure hurt Scottish angler

by JIM HARVEY

AFTER A MERMAID? Wealthy fisherman John Wragg of Perth, Scotland, tossed a paper napkin into the river after a picnic lunch — then began fishing hard. With the napkin, he said he thinks a diamond ring worth $5,900 was also tossed away. He said he noticed it missing when he wiped his hands after lunch.

PLAN FIZZLES: Ron Silver of Wood-ley, England concocted a master plan to surprise unwelcome callers. He wired the door handles and window frames of his home to the electrical line. Then the electricity board cut off his power supply.

NO ROLE FOR ROBBER: A man who attempted to rob a credit union for actors didn't get the part — or money — but was definitely slapstick. He entered the offices of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists in Hollywood and told two customers and five employees to take off their clothes because "I'm going to rob you." As the seven began stripping, the bandit opened a hall door and leaned out to check on passersby. One of the women customers gave him a kick on the ah... posterior and when he stumbled through the door, she locked it behind him. The bandit, looking a bit puzzled, then exited stage right.

Stripper finds suburbs don't appreciate her

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Apparently the strippers don't bump and grind out in the suburbs like they do in the city.

Baltimore nightlife fixture Blaze Starr, who fled the decaying "Block" section of the city last year hoping to find better surroundings for her famous act, is returning to her "Two O'Clock Club" on the Block next month.

Blaze said she tried to find a suitable suburban club in which to put on — or take off — her brand of entertainment, but was put off by what she said were "political handouts" required of her to find a good location.

"I've decided to go back to the Block, where it's safe," she said.

By George, Friday's

'Undiscovery Day'

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (UPI) — The city fathers of this town have declared Friday as "Undiscovery Day," marking the 181st anniversary of the day Capt. George Vancouver sailed past Ocean Shores without discovering it.

Vancouver was en route to Nootka Sound, on what is now Vancouver Island, to settle a controversy between Spain and Great Britain. He passed the area where Ocean Shores is now located, near the mouth of Grays Harbor, at about midnight on April 27, 1792.

To celebrate "Undiscovery Day," residents will go to the beach at midnight and yell in unison, "Hey, George!"

WHAT ELSE IS NEW? When a neighborhood boy fell off a swing and broke his arm, Derek Marshall of Sheffield, England ran off to call an ambulance. By the time he came back, there was a second victim. It seems in his absence, Marshall's own 6-year-old son had fallen off the swing and also broke his arm.

TRAFFIC JAM: All the Santa Ana Freeway needed recently was a ton of whipped cream. A Livacich Produce Co. truck from San Bernardino was struck from behind by another vehicle and overturned, dumping four tons of strawberries on the freeway. It took two hours to clear up the strawberry traffic jam.

WERE POLICE BAREBACK? The Marin County Board of Supervisors recently authorized the use of $500 for sheriff's deputies to go after nude sunbathers... and those ogling them at Muir Beach. One resident of the Pacific Coast community said: "Spring is here once again, and Muir Beach is attracting the nude sun worshippers... and all the associated social problems."

SOUNDS REASONABLE, BUT... The Privy Council, a rather proper panel that normally handles the affairs of the British Crown, has been assigned an extra task by schoolboys in Cheshire. They wrote the council in care of No. 10 Downing St., official residence of prime ministers, complaining their school needed a new "privy" and the Privy Council was obviously the agency to take care of it. A spokesman said the council would refer the request to the government agency responsible for "privies," British slang for toilets.

BANK BURGLAR FLUSHED: John Shaw of Nottingham, England told a court he decided to rob a bank, then became frightened and hid in the bank's toilet instead. The judge decided that was no defense and jailed Shaw for three years.

So what's new??

MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa (UPI) — The Gary Swart farm, five miles south of here, is surrounded on three sides by water but flooding has not interfered with productivity.

On Saturday the Swarts' cat had four kittens. On Sunday their dog had four pups. Monday a baby lamb was born. On Tuesday the family rabbit gave birth to four little ones.

Wednesday, Swart strolled into the local newspaper office to announce that his wife, Dixie, gave birth to a 6-pound 11-ounce daughter, Jane Elizabeth, at 6:48 a.m.

All mothers and babies were doing well.

Kerner deserves tougher penalty

The three-year prison sentence meted out to former Gov. Otto Kerner last week demonstrates, once again, the penalties given white-collar criminals often are unreasonably light in comparison to those inflicted on persons who commit even lesser crimes.

This unexplainable pattern constitutes one of the more atrocious inequities in American jurisprudence.

Kerner's crime — and, simultaneously, that of his cohort Theo-

It is possible, then, that Kerner will serve 11 months in prison to pay for his $150,000 crime. The $50,000 fine should present no great problem for him, because he remains on the federal payroll as a judge — collecting his salary of $42,500 a year.

The penalty imposed on another person holding the public trust — former County Clerk Edward Barrett — is disappointing, similarly, but somewhat more understandable in light of Barrett's poor health.

He, too, was convicted of bribery, mail fraud and income tax evasion — his crime in connection with kickbacks of $180,000 for the purchase of voting machines for suburban Cook County.

Barrett was sentenced to three years in prison and a fine of $15,000. Although he certainly is not to be excused for his wrongdoing, there would be little purpose in sentencing a dying man to a long prison term.

The penalties prescribed to persons convicted of white-collar crimes — and especially crimes of political corruption — must represent ample punishment to the violator and deter others who would follow in their footsteps.

The prison sentences and fines dealt to Kerner, Isaacs and Barrett accomplish neither of those goals, and thereby represent a disservice to the victims of their crimes — the taxpayers of Illinois and Cook County.

While deploring the perpetuation of those inequities, we urge, again, Kerner be removed from office through the initiation of impeachment proceedings in the U.S. House of Representatives — the only alternative if Kerner refuses to resign.

We feel it would be appropriate for a representative from Illinois, such as Philip Crane, R-12th, or Sam Young, R-10th, take such action, either individually or together.

As a convicted felon, Kerner is no longer worthy of holding public office. He certainly should not be permitted to draw a salary provided by the public he betrayed.

If political corruption is to end, the punishment must outweigh dramatically the benefits to be derived, as is the case, normally, in crimes of violence.

As long as the penalties for stealing with a pen are far out of line with those for stealing with a gun, political corruption will continue.

Union man hits Dist. 59

On Wednesday, April 4, your paper reported on a situation which exists with the Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59. I believe that there were several inaccuracies in your report, and would appreciate this opportunity to reply.

The problem which exists related to the action of the school district in awarding a contract for some construction work to enable school facilities, under the control of Dist. 59, to come into compliance with the Life Safety Code. I have advised the school board that the contract, awarded to Arlington Electric Construction Company, was an award which appears to violate existing state law.

Initially, contrary to the statements in your article, the law does not require union scale wage, nor is the issue essentially a union issue. The statute to which I referred requires that contracts, such as were let by Dist. 59, comply with the prevailing wage law. The purpose of that statute, which has been in existence and followed in Illinois for many years, is to insure the availability of responsible contractors and responsible craftsmen to perform work directly affecting the taxpayer and directly paid for by the taxpayer.

I was surprised to read in your article that District Superintendent Erviti considered the prevailing wage statute to be archaic and rarely complied with. The fact is that the Illinois State Department of Labor and the Illinois Attorney General are investigating and I honestly believe will prosecute those responsible for the improper awarding of contracts.

Additionally, District Superintendent Erviti's claim that the law is "archaic," is, I assume, his personal rationalization to justify what appears to be an obvious violation of an existing statute. The fact is that the Illinois Legislature has deemed the public interest to be best served by the prevailing wage legislation and, thus far at least, has seen no good reason to revoke or rescind the statute.

School District 59, including its Superintendent Erviti, is not the legislature, and is as obligated as is any other citizen, to abide by existing law. I think it speaks poorly for the school board administration to attempt to justify their possible legal violations by sloughing off their known statutory obligations.

Compliance with the prevailing wage statute by a public body would have the necessary effect of insuring that a public body, before awarding a contract, would have facts to insure the financial responsibility of a contractor. It also imposes upon the public body a duty to carefully examine whether the low bidder, union or nonunion, has demonstrated a past performance of compliance with the prevailing wage statute. The Dist. 59 School Board has awarded the electrical contract for Life-Safety Code Correction work to Arlington Electric Construction Company despite the fact that this company has admitted that it did not pay its employees the required prevailing wage rate on the last Life Safety Code Correction contract it performed at Forest View High School in High School Dist. 214. The Department of Labor has made a full investigation of this matter and is in the process of compelling Arlington Electric Construction Company to pay its employees all wages illegally withheld from them.

In summation, as stated above the real issue is not union versus nonunion contractors. The real issue is whether Elk Grove Township School District 59 can disregard existing statutes and refuse to comply with valid laws in distributing tax moneys.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dist. 59 is now in compliance with all of the wage laws, in regard to contract letting. Arlington Electric Construction Co. has agreed to pay union scale wages.

Two Sacred Heart students reply

I feel a need to respond to a letter appearing in the Fence Post on April 20. It was written by Valerie Brainard, a senior at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, in condemnation of the school. She writes that Sacred Heart is now a "place full of hate and resentment; a school that holds nothing more for the students who go there but frustration and incredulity." She has a right to her opinion, but my life at Sacred Heart this year has been far from being filled with "hate and resentment." I've felt frustration, yes, but it was the frustration that comes with learning and growing, not with feeling helpless and stagnant.

Valerie mentioned that there is a new administration this year. There was also a big turnover in the faculty members. With so many new people, it should be expected to take time for everyone to adjust to new circumstances and to each other. Despite what others might claim, I feel the administration is quite open and available to the students of SHM. We are able to confront them with an issue concerning us and can expect some type of response.

All in all, I feel Sacred Heart is still a great school and will continue to be so, but only if the students, administration, and faculty are willing to go on working together towards that goal.

I wish to reply to the letter of Valerie Brainard, which criticized Sacred Heart of Mary High School. It is unfortunate that she does not believe that Sacred Heart is a great school, for it is.

Sacred Heart has changed, but not as drastically as has been presented. Granted, in any organization or institution there are going to be people that are not completely satisfied, people that believe things were or could be better. But, does this give them the authority to condemn the entire institution? The vast majority of the students at Sacred Heart, however, still believe that it is a great school; that there still is love and trust. The school is gradually increasing in its vitality. It takes a new administration a couple of months to get used to the school. We must give them a chance.

The school is not full of hate and disillusionment as Valerie stated, but she is dissatisfied and whose fault is that? A school is made up of both faculty and students, and both share an equal part in the school's disposition. If an individual truly feels that the school is deteriorating then whose job is it to correct it? Of course, it is everyone's duty. It is not any one individual's duty, though, to condemn an entire institution which is aiding many girls in educational and spiritual development.

Sacred Heart truly is a great school, simply ask the vast majority of the girls that still believe in Sacred Heart!

That canoe trip scheme all wet

Unaccustomed as I am to siding with the Illinois General Assembly in opposition to such a distinguished personality as the Rev. Joseph Donnelly of Marquette University (which happens to be my alma mater), I'm afraid that the legislature is being bun-rapped by Father Donnelly.

The Marquette U. historian, recognized as an authority on Jacques Marquette and Louis Joliet, explorers of the Mississippi River, is piqued because the legislature has failed to come up with a requested $80,000 for a 300-year anniversary tribute to the two great Frenchmen.

The money, along with contributions from eight other states, would be used to finance a five-month voyage by seven canoists, reenacting the travels of Marquette and Joliet.

It sounds like a dandy way for a bunch of canoe buffs to spend a summer vacation.

But $80,000? That figure apparently has been trimmed sharply, with the Illinois Joliet-Marquette Tercentenary Commission (which the legislature made the mistake of creating last year) now hoping for $35,000.

The Senate Appropriations Committee has hinted that it might come up with a recommendation for $10,000, if any. It has already drummed up $2,000.

The $2,000, according to Father Donnelly, was spent on mailings to various Illinois corporations and foundations, seeking their financial aid for this odyssey. Net return: zero.

Contributions sought from the other states range from $10,000 to $35,000 — with Arkansas already having shelled out $25,000.

The purpose of this publicly subsidized cruise down the rivers, complete with period costumes and ceremonies along the way, is to make Illinoisans and others aware of their great frontier heritage, etc., etc.

Promotion of the history and culture of Illinois are laudable goals. But times are tough. If anything is clear, it is that the State of Illinois has crying needs for every penny it can find lying around in the state treasury whether those pennies add up to $2,000 or $80,000.

Promotion of our frontier heritage, it would seem, is a legitimate purpose of such agencies as schools — which are in a financial pinch from one end of the Mississippi River to the other — and the Illinois Arts Council, which has had its budget request cut from $600,000 to $500,000 recently.

It seems legitimate to question how many people are going to see those seven canoists paddling by, and how much reverence for their country the sight is going to instill in them.

Undoubtedly, the canoists will be photographed, televised and interviewed all along the route. But it would be my bet that the questions are going to run much more to how many times they have capsize and where they go in the rain, than they are to the frontier heritage of the Mississippi Valley.

Having paddled the length of the state, the canoists will presumably all go home (they're all from Illinois) and run for governor.

On a similar topic, Rep. Richard A. Mugalain, D-Palatine, has complained to the leaders of both parties in the House about long-standing practices which he describes as "wasteful, costly and demeaning."

Mugalain's complaint has a great deal of merit, but it is likely that it will be ignored by Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, and Minority Leader Clyde Choate, D-Viemna.

Mugalain complains about the "inconsequential" resolutions, introduced by the hundreds in each session, at an estimated cost of $600 each for printing and distribution.

They include such weighty matters as saluting National Kraut and Frankfurter Week and congratulating the new regional marketing manager of Somerset Importers Ltd. on his promotion, or the Park Ridge Hornets Midget Hockey Team for winning a tournament.

As of April 12, Mugalain said, he had counted 108 such resolutions in this session — for a total cost of $65,000.

He also complained about the use of "precious secretarial time" for the shopworn practice of exchanging thank-you notes among legislators for favorable votes on legislation.

'Reason' hit

I wonder how many readers of the Herald have heard this old nursery rhyme, "There was an old lady who swallowed a fly; she swallowed a spider to catch the fly; a bird to catch the spider; a cat to catch the bird; a dog to catch the cat; and finally, with great remorse, she was forced, to swallow a horse... she's dead of course."

The American people, have, during the past several years, been asked to swallow a great many concepts which have the potential for making the questionable practice of cat and dog swallowing seem pleasurable.

One of the most prevalent of these ideas is a thing called "reason." The doctrine of "reason" summarily rejects any sort of dogma. It embraces the notion that "reason," not principle, justifies the act. This litany is known by many names, but the one it is best known by is "situation ethics."

One of the most famous disciples of "reason" was Adolph Hitler. He systematically exterminated several million human beings, and there is little question that he had a "reason" which satisfied him. And then, there is Richard Speck. Something prompted him to indulge in a bloody, all-night orgy. Since it is fair to assume it wasn't virtue that drove him, it must have been "reason." There are a host of others including Lizzie Borden, Jack the Ripper, etc.

And we mustn't overlook the women who rush to abortion clinics when they are pregnant. One of the reasons they use is that the Supreme Court approves of it. Another of the rationalizations they use is that it's more merciful to kill a fetus, much as they would a cockroach, rather than give it a chance at being "unhappy."

Why don't we all stop being so damn reasonable and start being hard to get along with for a change, before someone asks us to swallow a horse?

WATERGATE: THE DAM HAS BROKEN.

Business Today

by LeROY POPE

NEW YORK — Five large companies recently signed a contract with the Gulf Coast Waste Water Disposal Authority, setting up the nation's first river basin approach to dealing with industrial stream pollution.

The companies — Champion International, Atlantic Richfield, Crown Central Petroleum, Petro-Tex Chemical and Air Products & Chemicals, Inc. — all have plants located on the Houston Ship Channel.

The group will buy Champion International's existing stream purification plant, enlarge it and add a sludge incineration plant and transportation facilities. About $25 million will be invested. No tax money or tax credit obligation will be involved.

A second river basin attack on stream pollution in the same general region may be developed around a water treatment plant now being built by Union Carbide Corp. at Texas City. Other companies having plants in that area are considering joint action with Carbide in the operation of this plant.

THE RIVER basin approach to stream pollution control is not new. In 1904 Kaiser Wilhelm II created a river basin pollution control authority in Germany's highly industrialized Ruhr Valley. Participation was made mandatory for all industries in the Ruhr.

When concern about industrial pollution of streams aroused serious concern in the United States a few years ago, Karl Bendetsen, chairman of Champion, then known as U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers Inc., made a speech to a wildlife conference in Chicago on the subject.

Bendetsen said it was foolish for every plant to have its own complete water purification equipment. He urged the river basin approach.

James M. Quigley, former federal water commissioner, and former Interior Secretary Stuart Udall became interested in the idea a little earlier and so did several foundations. Udall and Quigley went to Germany to look at the program in the Ruhr Valley.

QUIGLEY determined to get such an attack on water pollution started in the United States. His first target was the Delaware River in the East.

He soon gave that up because it would have meant dealing with the governments of four states and a number of big cities — too tough a political challenge. Next he hit on the Houston Ship Channel, where there was only one state involved.

He believes the new river basin approach to stream pollution control in Texas will be successful and will encourage the same approach elsewhere.

"I'm not saying this is the way water pollution should be handled in every part of the country," Quigley said, "but it seems right for areas such as the Delaware and Ohio rivers with their large industrial and urban population concentrations."

Wall Street chatter

It's still early to say a spring rally is certain, but some signs are combining to brighten the outlook, according to the Dines Letter. The number of New York Exchange new lows has recently developed "a series of descending peaks for the first time all year," and the number of new highs indicates a small breakout. "Meanwhile, the market is holding above the March 23 low at $16, and unless this is penetrated we are willing to give the market somewhat more of a chance," the company says.

Ford, General Motors dealers affected

Auto parts price rollback ordered

A series of price rollbacks on auto parts and accessories includes a number of Chicago-area General Motors and Ford Motor Co. dealerships.

Next in line for spot checks by the Internal Revenue Service probably will be American Motors and Chrysler. Roger C. Beck, IRS district director for northern Illinois, said a national survey of auto dealers resulted in nearly $9.6 million in auto accessory and auto parts rollbacks, as reported in a preliminary report issued by the Cost of Living Council.

The council said some 25,000 Ford and GM dealers were contacted by the IRS. The preliminary report covering 40 per cent of the dealers, showed 8,968 dealers were not in compliance with federal price guidelines. Rollbacks of $9,580,302 are being made. This includes 106 Chicago district Ford dealers, who must effect rollbacks totaling $107,434; and 185 GM dealers for rollbacks totaling $152,812.

A spokesman for the Chicago district IRS office said, "Dealers are to adjust their prices so they will be giving back this amount of money to the public. There is no way to give back the money to the exact previous purchasers." The amounts are based on checks of year end profit statements. "From what I can gather, spot checks of Chrysler and American Motors dealers will be made soon," the spokesman added.

THE NATIONAL survey was triggered by an IRS spot check of auto dealers late last year in Tennessee and Virginia. This showed dealers were selling parts and accessories in inventory at increased prices which caused them to exceed allowable customary price markups.

During December, 1971, GM and Ford advised dealers the Price Commission approved auto parts and accessory increases of 2.5 per cent and 3.1 per cent, respectively. These increases were to be charged on items shipped by Ford after Dec. 31, 1971 and by GM after Jan. 3, 1972.

Under the Economic Stabilization regulations, dealers are not allowed to reprice the existing inventory to reflect higher prices for new purchases. Supplies in inventory should be sold before prices can be increased.

Dealers who repriced inventory items in violation of the regulations are required to return this overcharged amount to the marketplace by discounting the current sales of parts or accessories.

SPOT CHECKS by the Internal Revenue Service will result in a series of price rollbacks on auto parts and accessories for Chicago-area General Motors and Ford Motor Co. dealers. The survey took in 25,000 Ford and GM dealers nationwide.

Group predicts gas will cost 60-70 cents

BALTIMORE (UPI) — American motorists will face gasoline prices of 60 to 70 cents a gallon next year because of the continuing energy crisis, according to an association of 350 Maryland independent gas stations.

Charles T. Gladstone, chairman of the board of the Maryland Independent Retail Service Station Dealers Association, said Monday the refusal of major oil companies to import foreign petroleum is cutting supplies to independent dealers and may force many of them out of business, causing the price rise.

Rubber union, Goodyear reach pact

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The United Rubber Workers Union and Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. reached tentative agreement on a master contract early today — the first time in more than 10 years the union has not had to strike for increased benefits from the rubber industry.

The contract offer, which is to be ratified within one week by 70,000 workers at the "Big Four" rubber companies, calls for a 78 cent hourly wage increase over the next three years and a paid drug prescription program for all retirees.

Rubber workers at Goodyear, Firestone, Uniroyal and B. F. Goodrich currently earn $4.75 an hour straight time.

Union officials, who had told 22,500 Goodyear workers to prepare for a strike beginning at midnight Tuesday, credited the "target company" approach for the quick contract settlement.

"We were expecting a strike," said Tom Fitt, a URW spokesman. "This is the first time in over a decade we haven't had to strike.

"This also is the first time we had a target company," he said. "Before, we never announced before the deadline who we would pick to strike. This strategy brought about the fast agreement."

Fitt said the URW is "happy" with the tentative settlement.

More are likely to be jailed in scandal

Watergate: how bad is it for Nixon?

by EUGENE V. RISHER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the Watergate incident broke 10 months ago nobody had the temerity to ask President Nixon whether he was personally involved in it.

And on Aug. 29 when he told newsmen that an investigation into the incident showed "no one in the White House staff, no one in this administration, presently employed, was involved in this very bizarre incident," that seemed to cover him also.

But last week, shortly after he disclosed major new developments had been discovered in the case, he sent his press spokesman out to say these earlier statements and the whole litany of denials from various other administration officials were not "inoperative."

So it was that earlier this week in Key Biscayne, Fla., when another presidential spokesman flatly denied Nixon had prior knowledge of the illegal acts committed in his behalf — when he said, in other words, the President of the United States had not committed a crime — it was news.

THIS, AS MUCH as anything else, demonstrates the tragic dimensions of the Watergate scandal.

Already it has claimed as its victim L. Patrick Gray III, whose nomination as FBI director was withdrawn by Nixon when senators objected to the way he investigated the case. Seven other persons have gone to jail and it's quite likely more will follow.

Additionally, it has led to a major reshuffling effort of the White House staff and may lead to the departure of some of the major wielders of national power over the past four years.

The President is faced with the humiliating spectacle of his most trusted aides and political advisers — the smoothly running team that last November gave him the greatest political victory of his long career — publicly trading charges and counter-charges and engaging in self-serving leaks to newsmen in a bitter struggle for survival.

This can only be a source of severe embarrassment and Nixon could not be faulted for trying to hide some of it from public view.

BUT HE MAY FACE even more severe embarrassment when he addresses the central question: When did he himself learn of these illegal activities and what did he do about them?

Despite all the dissembling and evasions of the past 10 months this question has not been answered.

The response he gives — where he draws the line between covering embarrassment and obstructing justice — will determine the most important aspect of the Watergate case: How badly the President's personal prestige and credibility and, ultimately, his authority to govern were damaged.

Mitchell, Haldeman, Dean head roster

Star-studded 'who's who' of Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) If you're confused by the number of people populating the Watergate bugging case, here is a helpful cast of the characters:

• President Nixon: Several of the persons linked with the case were aides at the White House or the Committee to Re-elect the President. Nixon ordered an in-house investigation and said last August that no then-employed White House aides were involved. He said through a Republican senator recently, "I have nothing to hide."

• Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell: Resigned as Nixon's campaign manager about two weeks after the June 17 bugging of the Democratic national headquarters; was alleged to have been present at a secret February, 1972, meeting at which Watergate bugging plans were reported to have been discussed; once referred to press reports about Watergate as "crap," now says he "can't wait" to testify.

• White House Chief of Staff H. R. "Boh" Haldeman: Exerted a dominant influence in Nixon's reelection campaign. Several of his proteges in the White House and at the reelection committee have been linked with Watergate and related acts of campaign surveillance. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., member of the Senate Watergate committee, has said Haldeman must be held accountable for actions of subordinates.

• White House Counsel John Wesley Dean III: Recommended Watergate defendant G. Gordon Liddy for his position; conducted the secret White House investigation at Nixon's request; asked for and received about 80 raw FBI files about the Watergate from the FBI; according to acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III, "probably" lied to the FBI about Watergate defendant E. Howard Hunt Jr., and monitored all FBI interviews with White House aides.

• Charles W. Colson: Former special counsel to Nixon, now representing the Teamsters Union. Self-described "hatchet man" at the White House. His attorney said he took a lie detector test to prove that he had no prior knowledge of Watergate bugging.

• Dwight L. Chapin, former appointments secretary for Nixon, now high-paid employee of United Air Lines: Protege of Haldeman, he hired Donald Segretti allegedly to perform acts of political espionage and sabotage during 1972 campaign. He denies illegalities.

• Jeb Stuart Magruder, former White House aide who organized Nixon's first reelection efforts in 1971 as deputy campaign manager and now is assistant commerce secretary: Was alleged to have been present at the February meeting, and as day-to-day operations director of the reelection committee was familiar with most of its activities. He hired G. Gordon Liddy as counsel at Dean's recommendation and testified he authorized a $250,000 budget for Liddy. He has retreated at least temporarily from pursuing his own political career in California.

• G. Gordon Liddy, former White House aide, former finance counsel at the reelection committee and convicted Watergate conspirator: Principal person convicted thus far in the Watergate case, but has refused to testify before a federal grand jury despite a contempt sentence for failure to do so. Liddy, who campaigned for Congress in New York in 1968 wearing a gun to emphasize law and order, was hired at the reelection committee for intelligence-gathering.

• E. Howard Hunt Jr., former White House consultant on narcotics traffic and convicted Watergate conspirator: Was a CIA official in charge of the 1961 Bay of Pigs operation, and 1964 operations against a leftist government in Guatemala. His wife, Dorothy, was killed in a commercial airliner crash in Chicago Dec. 8 with $10,000 in her possession; it was alleged she was a "bag woman" who paid Watergate defendants to keep them quiet.

• James W. McCord Jr., former security chief at the reelection committee and "straw boss" of the five men arrested inside the Watergate: A 19-year CIA veteran, he has testified before the Senate Watergate committee and a grand jury. Each time, a spate of news stories has followed about what he said. There were reports he implicated Mitchell and other high administration officials.

• Frank Sturgis, Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio Martinez and Virgilio R. Gonzalez, the "Miami Four": All former CIA operatives, they pleaded guilty in the Watergate criminal trial, and have been linked with a trip to Washington last Memorial Day in unsuccessful attempt to bug McGovern headquarters. Sturgis, a soldier of fortune, had worked with Hunt in Guatemala and on the investigation of Edward M. Kennedy's Chappaquiddick accident. Barker, the paymaster, was born in Cuba and worked with Castro before breaking with him.

• Alfred C. Baldwin III: Former FBI agent who monitored eavesdropped Watergate conversations across the street in Howard Johnson Hotel and provided logs to McCord and unknown others. He said Watergate was going to be followed by bugging of McGovern headquarters and Democratic National Convention.

• Donald H. Segretti: California lawyer and former Treasury Department aide hired by college pal Chapin allegedly to recruit persons to conduct political sabotage and espionage against Democratic candidates. There are phone records of Segretti contacting both Hunt and Chapin, and he allegedly hired about 16 operatives.

• Herbert W. Kalmbach: President Nixon's personal lawyer and campaign finance official. Gave Segretti $30,000 at Chapin's direction. It was reported Kalmbach was authorized to dip into reelection committee's secret $350,000 fund.

• R. Spencer Oliver, former official at Democratic National headquarters: His phone was tapped.

• Gordon Strachan (pronounced "strawn"): Was political liaison between Haldeman and reelection committee. Allegedly brought together the Segretti and Hunt-Liddy operations. Now is general counsel of U.S. Information Agency.

• Robert Reisner: Former administrative assistant to Magruder, he presumably would have known about alleged secret meeting in February of Mitchell, Magruder, Dean and Liddy at which Watergate plans were reported to have been discussed.

• Sally Harmsen and Sylvia Panarikes: secretaries to Liddy.

• Kenneth W. Parkinson, general counsel to reelection committee: Baldwin said Parkinson advised him to remain silent by pleading Fifth Amendment, and Judith Hoback, former assistant to Hugh W. Sloan Jr., said Parkinson quizzed her about her interview with the FBI.

• Hugh W. Sloan Jr., former treasurer of reelection finance committee: Handled disbursement of "large sums to various committee officials for unknown reasons," according to FBI. Turned over $199,000 to Liddy with "no idea" of what it was to be used for.

• Maurice N. Stans, former commerce secretary and former chief fundraiser for Nixon campaign: Maintained the secret fund, placed at $350,000 to $700,000, in his safe. Sloan said he verified with Stans and Mitchell that it was all right to pay Liddy.

• Herbert L. Porter, scheduling director for reelection committee: Testified he gave Liddy $35,000 but "threw away" the records.

• Kenneth M. Dahlberg, Minneapolis businessman and Midwest campaign chairman for reelection committee: Gave a $25,000 check in April, 1972, that was deposited eventually in Bernard Barker's account, but said he had "no idea" how it got there.

• Dwayne Andreas, Minneapolis businessman: Was contributor of the $25,000 check and also gave to Hubert Humphrey campaign. He got a quick bank charter a short time later.

• Robert L. Vesco, financier: Contributed $200,000 to Stans for the secret fund on April 10, three days after new reporting law took effect.

THE FRENCH PROVINCIAL BUNGALOW

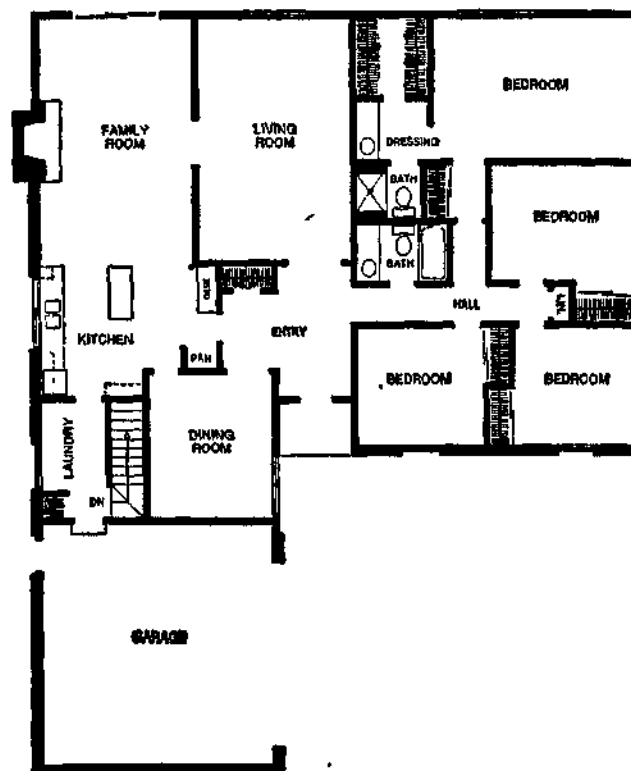

The romantic exterior of the French Provincial bungalow ranch hardly suggests the spaciousness of the interior.

The outstanding feature of the floor plan is the separated living areas or "wings" that place all the bedrooms in one section of the home with the master bedroom in a private secluded position.

Through a large vestibule entry, one has quick access to any area of the house, truly a unique traffic pattern that affords privacy with functional step saving.

A handsome kitchen opens directly into the family room in the grand manner of the old fashioned "country style" kitchen with center bar work area and loads of cabinets.

In essence, the French Provincial is a gracious home with a very agreeable double personality.

What's best way to finance your home?

Some families who otherwise might own their own homes are stopped from taking that satisfying step because they do not understand what sources of financing are available to them.

A real estate broker can take some of the mystery out of the process by explaining various forms of financing.

So can a banker or savings and loan officer.

Basically, there are three sources of loans on houses and other types of residential property: 1) financial institutions such as savings and loan associations and banks, 2) mortgage bankers and loan correspondents, and 3) the private lender.

By law, savings and loan associations must invest a high percentage of their depositors' savings in home mortgages. That was the reason for their creation. Banks also invest in home mortgages, though the percentage of their deposits used for this purpose is considerably smaller than the percentage applying to savings and loan associations. Together, these two are the principal sources for what is known as conventional financing.

CONVENTIONAL FINANCING is characterized by being the most readily available. Interest rates and length of time for repayment, as a result, reflect how large a money supply is available. In times of "tight money" when demand is greater than supply, interest rates rise and short term loans are favored.

When money is plentiful, interest rates decline and loans are usual.

Federal Housing Administration (FHA) loans are made by conventional sources but with repayment guaranteed. Among rather strict conditions of the guarantee are certain standards of construction, space, inspection, and other requirements designed to be sure the property is not below a certain quality. The borrower pays an insurance fee, 1/2 of one per cent of the amount of the loan, which goes into a general FHA fund. Any defaults are charged against the fund.

While this form of loan is usually referred to as "publicly assisted," in fact, the insurance fees of borrowers pay the entire cost of operating the program. No taxpayers' money is required. It is one of the few federal programs that has paid its own way, and has even made a profit.

Veterans Administration loans operate on the same principle as FHA, except that the borrower does not pay insurance.

Interest rates for both FHA and VA loans are set by the Congress. During times of "tight money" FHA loans are available only when sellers are willing to pay "points" as a bonus for agreeing to FHA financing. A "point" is one per cent of the amount of the loan. There are no "points" involved in VA financing.

FHA and VA financing have several advantages to the borrower, among them, up to 30 years to repay, no money down on VA loans, and modest down payments — up to about 10 per cent — on FHA loans.

MONEY FROM mortgage bankers or loan correspondents (usually a Realtor or other real estate broker is available directly from those sources. The money they channel into mortgages comes from insurance companies, pension funds, and individual investors. Down payment requirements are usually a little higher than for conventional financing, but interest rates are a fraction lower. Length of loans depend on the market and usually do not exceed 20 years.

The last source of financing, through private lenders, is Aunt Maude or some other individual who has a limited amount of money to loan. Often this is the source of funds for second mortgages. A second mortgage is in addition to the first mortgage and if there is a foreclosure, can only be satisfied after the first mortgage is paid off.

Second mortgages are usually for from three to five years and at a higher interest rate than first mortgages. Real estate brokers often know of private lenders who will make second mortgage loans.

These are the sources of financing for home mortgages. Each has its advantages and disadvantages, partly depending on the condition of the real estate market and the availability of funds. All of them are designed to help families own their own homes, and the people who arrange them are anxious to see them used.

Builders Association of Chicago to sponsor minority seminar

The Builders' Association of Chicago, an Association of 160 commercial, industrial and institutional contractors, is programming a seminar for minority contractors and subcontractors to be held on Saturday, April 28 at Kinzie's Steak House. Arthur P. O'Neill, past president of the BAC and chairman of the Human Relations and Manpower Committee, recently announced that the program would include representatives from finanacial houses, insurance and bonding companies, and BAC contractor member firms.

The purpose of this seminar is to acquaint less experienced minority contractors and subcontractors with responsible means of sustaining growth and capital. "In recent years minority contractor firms have appeared only to disappear with alarming frequency," cautioned O'Neill. "This situation must be remedied by more experienced contractors, not only because it is morally correct, but because it is imperative to a sound building climate in Chicago. If, in fact, the trend continues and minority firms develop, only to fall by the wayside, the snowballing effect is the lessening capability for all new construction companies in a competitive market. It seems to us at the BAC, that a first rate educational program that pulls no punches is the only means toward the desired end."

Speakers already slated for this initial program include Howard Estman, First National Bank; H. J. MacMorran, Harris Trust and Savings; Robert Frick, Stewart-Frick-Keater-Kessberger-Leiderer; R. T. Halbert, Liberty Mutual Insurance Company; John W. Nessler, Durham & Associates; John Skanderup, Pepper Construction Company; Greg Heine, Crane Construction Company; and Joseph Rotunno, W. E. O'Neill Construction Company.

Hosting the session will be BAC first vice president Morton J. Crane of Crane Construction Company.

Invitations to minority contractors and subcontractors in the Chicago area have already been issued through the various minority contractor associations. It is further hoped that any interested contractor, affiliated or unaffiliated, will attend this worthwhile conference.

"The real minority group in the construction industry is the inexperienced and the poorly financed," continued O'Neill, "this seminar can be of assistance to contractors of all skin tone and national heritages. The only cost is four hours of one's time; we believe this is a small price to pay for the valuable information that will be shared."

Apartment building up: Bell Savings

"The vigorous rebound in multi-family permits continued uninterrupted for the first quarter of 1973," said Roland J. Barstow, president of Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association.

"Because of the strong apartment volume," he said, "first quarter permits for total housing homes and apartments totaled 11,088. This was the 2nd highest in the entire post-war period exceeded only by the 12,153 reported in 1968."

The Bell president said, "apartment activity has consistently outgained single family permits in the first quarter of each year since 1960, with the exception of 1972."

In the first quarter of 1973, apartment activity in the City of Chicago rose to 1,140 units from only 484 last year, according to the Bell Federal Survey of Building. Also, substantial gains were reported in the suburban townships (2,882 to 5,107), while multiple permits declined in the unincorporated areas (861 to 642).

First quarter permits for single family units decreased slightly (4,328 to 4,199) from the comparable period of last year. Single family activity declined 22 per cent in the City of Chicago (317 to 249) and 4 per cent in the suburban areas (3,287 to 3,154). However, a gain of 10 per cent was recorded in the unincorporated sectors (722 to 796).

Kole Real Estate tells commercial dept. growth

The expansion of the Commercial Department of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., has been announced.

Head of the department is Arthur Braband, assisted by Clifford Pastorski and Brad Hoyt. In addition to working with other brokers, they counsel all of the Kole sales associates, located in seven sales offices in the Northwest suburbs.

According to Braband, his department handles all aspects of the sale of commercial and investment properties, the objective being one of acquiring quality commercial business for selected investors.

The properties can range from a six-flat apartment building through industrial plants to farmland that can be developed into commercial or industrial areas.

AS A COUNSELING aspect of their work, members of the Commercial Department advise prospective seller of land about soil borings, zoning, regulations, sewer and water problems, etc. They also conduct an intensive study of the properties in order to determine their actual sales value.

The Commercial Department recently completed a series of lease agreements with the Tandy Corp. of Fort Worth, for the establishment of seven Radio Shack stores in Chicago and the nearby suburbs.

In the real estate field for ten years, Arthur Braband is a specialist in commercial work. He formed the department for Kole in 1971, overseeing its gradual development through its present expansion.

The Commercial Department is located in the new executive offices of Kole Real Estate at 1000 E. Northwest Hwy. in Mount Prospect.

Kole Real Estate, Ltd. maintains sales offices in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Park Ridge, Rolling Meadows, and Wheeling. An office will shortly be opened in Palatine.

Home Town celebrates second anniversary

Started by Robert W. Procter, H. Jack Mankel, Laurence J. Doyle and Carl M. Behrens, Home Town has rapidly become a major realtor in this area. They recently celebrated their second anniversary with a special luncheon for their sales staff.

In commenting on the company's progress, Robert Procter, president of the company, expressed his deepest satisfaction and pride in stating "We started two years ago with one office and expanded to four offices in a short time. We are planning a fifth office in the very near future. We started with a sales staff of seven and saw it grow to seventy."

"Our sales volume for 1972 showed an increase of 150 per cent over 1971 and based on our current volume for this year we should equal that increase over our 1972 figure. We at Home Town will continue in our efforts to give good professional sales training to every member of our staff. We know that this is the main reason for our success today.

The appointment of Dean Jacobson as the residential manager in the Palatine office was announced.

HOME TOWN REAL ESTATE recently celebrated its second anniversary with a special luncheon for their sales staff. The company has offices in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg.

RELO members responding to an end-of-March survey foresaw greater increases in house prices in 1973 than they predicted for the year in answers to a similar survey three months ago. In addition more respondents to the most recent survey expected increases in interest rates than at year's end, 1972.

Polls are the regular quarterly surveys of conditions in the real estate market conducted by RELO's Chicago headquarters among members of the real estate referral organization's market research committee. Committee represents a cross-section of RELO's more than 600 members who help families on the move sell former residences and buy new homes in more than 6,000 U. S. and overseas communities.

In the March sampling, 97 per cent of members responding predicted that sellers market conditions — in which most houses sell quickly at close to asking prices — would continue through 1973. At the same time, 84.4 per cent foresaw continuing "good" supplies of mortgage money in their areas, 12.5 per cent predicted "fair" availability of financing and only 3.1 per cent expected "tight" mortgage money.

AN OVERWHELMING 97 per cent reported house prices in their markets were higher in January-March, 1973, than in the same 1972 months — by an average of 7.5 per cent. More than 80 per cent of respondents to both surveys predicted further house-price increases in 1973. But while an average 1973 increase of 6.75 per cent above October-December, 1972, prices was foreseen in the December poll, the March prediction was for additional increases averaging 7.65 per cent — compared with prices prevailing in January-March, 1973.

A 69 per cent majority, however, reported that devaluation of the dollar on international money markets has had no direct effect on housing prices.

Although maximum mortgage interest increases of one-quarter of 1 per cent were forecast in answers to the December survey, and almost half of the respondents expected "status quo" or no major changes, money market conditions apparently have changed, according to the March sampling. In the most recent poll, 85.7 per cent predicted interest rate increases of at least one-quarter of 4 per cent, effective in their areas at times varying from April through September. And a number of members now forecast increases of up to one-half of 1 per cent.

Many customers of RELO members are transferred business executives or others on the move because of job relocation. Responses to the March survey were about evenly divided between greater transferee activity in their areas, January-March, 1973, compared with the last half of 1972, and "about the same" movement. A scattering of members reported a reduction in number of transferees.

For the balance of 1973, 65 per cent reported that their contacts with corporations in their communities indicate there will be a "significant" increase in transferee movement.

Ryan receives special tribute

A special tribute was paid to Mrs. Shirley Ryan as the leading saleswoman of Home Town. In making the award Laurence J. Doyle, secretary, said that Mrs. Ryan was an outstanding example of the success that can be achieved through loyalty and dedication to her profession. "She has participated in over $800,000 in real estate sales for the first quarter of 1973," Doyle stated, "and is well on her way to a two million dollar year."

Home Town has offices in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg and is a member of the MAP Listing Service and the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Ivy Glen condominium construction begins

Construction on the first of 153 townhouses has started at Ivy Glen-Palatine, marking the start of another phase of the planned $50 million condominium development north of Palatine.

Located on a 120-acre site north of Dundee Road and west of Ill. Rt. 53, Ivy Glen eventually will consist of 801 condominium homes.

Four and five-plex condominium units were opened late last summer.

According to Alan Cohen, president of Building Systems Housing Corporation's consumer housing group, developer of the community, the four townhouse models will open for inspection in early summer. Building Systems Housing Corporation is a subsidiary of Building Systems, Inc., of Cleveland.

"We believe the four townhouse models to be offered at Ivy Glen will be the finest value for the money in this area," Cohen said.

Ivy Glen condominium townhouses will be available in various combinations and will range in area from 1150 to 1550 square feet, he explained. They will have two and three bedrooms and will be available with 1½ or 2½ baths.

Prices will range from the high $20's to the mid $30's, Cohen said.

All Ivy Glen townhouses will have large living and dining rooms, completely-equipped eat-in kitchens, rear patio areas. Some of the homes will have decks or balconies off the master bedroom and most will have family rooms. Garages and basements also will be available.

All will include central air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, all kitchen appliances, including refrigerator-freezer, electric oven-range, dishwasher, and disposal.

ARTIST'S RENDERING of townhouses to be built at Ivy Hill in Palatine.

PLAN C, a two-bedroom, two-bath apartment home at the condominiums of Huntington Commons in Mount Prospect features generously-dimensioned room sizes including an eighteen foot nine inch x thirteen foot four inch living room. Adding a note of elegance to the living room are sliding glass doors leading to an 86-square-foot balcony that overlooks either the tree-shaded lawn or lake below.

Hollywood Builders help 'Toys for Tots'

Hollywood Builders worked with the Marine Corps Reserves to help break all records in collections for the annual "Toys for Tots" campaign.

Collection stations for the toys were set up by Robert Kist at Barcelona condominium apartments in Skokie; by Gene Gayle at Colony Country condominiums in Mount Prospect and by Herb Hoffman at Stonebridge Hill condominium apartments in Arlington Heights.

Manuel S. Kramer, vice president of Hollywood Builders served as chairman of the Homebuilders "Toys for Tots" committee.

A framed plaque was presented to Barcelona's sales manager Robert Kist by Staff Sergeant R. F. Sieple and Gunnery Sergeant G. M. Savidge. Equal recognition was given to Gene Gayle at Colony Country and Herb Hoffman at Stonebridge Hill in Arlington Heights.

Builders' Association slates annual dinner

The annual membership dinner of the Builders' Association of Chicago, a major social highlight of the Chicago area construction industry, will be held Monday evening, May 14, at the University Club, 78 E. Monroe St.

Allan E. Bulley Sr., annual dinner chairman, said the get-together of members of the Chicago area trade association, labor leaders and public officials will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. The dinner for BAC members and guests will be at 7 p.m.

Advance reservations are being accepted at the association office, 228 N. LaSalle St., Chicago 60601 (312-4480).

Every type of toy was collected at the apartment sales offices, including games and clothing. Footballs, dolls, chess sets and clothing for both girls and boys were donated generously by the resident owners of the condominiums, by visitors to the sales offices, and by employees of Hollywood Builders Co.

"Kino Springs"

Why was this name chosen for the rapidly growing resort and residential community being developed on the former Stewart Granger Ranch?

Legend says that father Eusebio Kino first crossed into Arizona territory at the point on the former Granger ranch where the natural pure water spring flows from the earth. It seemed very fitting to name this property in honor of the priest who went on to build many churches across the Southwest including the legendary San Xavier Mission.

This lush, rolling property being developed on a grand plan by Kinco Corporation is available to a few select investors for as little as $4800 per home site for a limited time only.

Now there are condo offices

The condominium concept has added a new facet to the business world — office ownership.

"An increasing number of business and professional men are weighing the advantages of owning office space rather than renting," said Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, the nation's largest independently sponsored real estate investment trust in mortgage lending. CMI, whose shares are traded on the New York and other leading stock exchanges, has made over $1.5 billion in mortgage loans since 1962.

"True, the cost of renting or leasing office space is a tax-deductible business expense. On the other hand, there are definitive tax deductions that go along with ownership," Holladay said.

According to Holladay a condominium office owner can deduct:

Mortgage and interest costs.
Real estate taxes.
Depreciation.

The costs of maintenance, insurance and utilities.

"Further, ownership of a condominium office can provide a potential hedge against inflation," he said. "In numerous cases, the monthly mortgage payment and maintenance costs are less than the amount of rent charged for comparable office space."

"And, because of continued inflation, rental charges are more likely to rise faster than either taxes or maintenance fees. In order to maintain a profitable yield on his investment, a landlord would have to pass along increased costs to tenants in the form of higher rent."

Lincoln Federal seeks Berwyn items

During May and June, Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Association plans to devote much of its window and indoor showcase space to honor Berwyn's 65th anniversary.

Photos of early century Berwyn buildings and street scenes are sought by Lincoln vice president Ron Jelinek.

Jelinek also wants to borrow for use in displays various antiques, relics and memorabilia items illustrative of 1908 lifestyle.

All will be credited to owners and returned in good condition.

Whispering Pines offers a choice

Twenty years ago people bought house trailers and drove to trailer parks out of necessity, to use their facilities; creating an image which only recently has been changed. Today, both have different names but the parks haven't seemed to change much.

"There are four kinds of mobile home facilities today," George Mills, Florida marketing manager of The Branigar Organization's Florida division, said.

"Two types not commonly mentioned are clusters and singles. The former is a location where three or more mobile homes on individual lots (not in subdivisions) are within sight of each other. A single is a mobile home on isolated, individually owned lots not in a subdivision."

"Most persons associate with parks and subdivisions. A park is a development in which residents rent or lease ground space, and sometimes a mobile home. A subdivision is a tract of land divided into lots for sale to individuals for the placement of mobile homes," Mills said.

Branigar's Whispering Pines, with its 800 lots on 1,150 acres in north central Florida near Lake George, the "Bass Fishing Capital of the World," in Putnam County, is a subdivision.

ONE OF THE major differences between Whispering Pines and mobile home parks is the amount of land for the price paid.

"At Whispering Pines, lots range in size from one to two acres. Inside lots start at $4,300, corner lots at $6,000 and Bass Lake lots at $9,000," Mills said.

In Volusia County, a neighbor to Putnam, services offered by mobile home parks have become so problematic that new county laws on zoning are being discussed to end the confusion over what governing body has jurisdiction of what problems such as traffic congestion.

Several problems faced by mobile home owners contemplating a park site are space availability, exorbitant entrance fees, costly improvement installations, screening, rent and output fees.

Some park operators are mobile home dealers who will sell an unsuspecting buyer a product with a higher than usual markup. Because the average person is not knowledgeable about mobile homes concerning their construction, he is at the mercy of the dealer, Mills said.

"THIS IS A widespread problem throughout the nation. In Chicago, the Mobile Home Owners Association, a national organization, has banded together to combat this with the mobile home park owners," Mills said.

Rental fees in mobile home parks range from $50 to $200 monthly, Mills said. Entrance fees which have a one-year lease, not necessarily renewable, can cost $500 for a single and $750 for a double wide mobile home. Installation costs can total $2,500 and one might have to buy them from the park proprietor.

At Whispering Pines, mobile home owners do not pay installation, input or output charges to Branigar, Mills said. Comparable charges to the fees assessed by parks are a $35 vehicle tax and a vacant land tax, if you do not occupy the land. Residents also receive an automatic homestead exemption of $5,000 when you purchase land in Florida and place a mobile home on it.

"You don't have to buy a mobile home from Branigar to enter Whispering Pines," Mills asserted. "They only have to be approved by Underwriter's Laboratories or Pittsburgh Laboratories, both private investigating firms, and must be able to withstand the elements for six to eight years."

The stamp of approval by the above laboratories, being manufactured in the last three years and meeting the codes of the Foremost Insurance Company of Grand Rapids, Mich. (a leader in insuring mobile homes) are all safeguards to protect the mobile home owner and the subdivision, Mills said.

Electrical and other utility hook-ups must meet Foremost's and Putnam County's standards. But in any of the work, Branigar allows the mobile home owner to choose the person he wants to do the work.

Arlington Heights board OKs condominium plans

The Arlington Heights Village Board has authorized C.S.T. Venture to construct an architecturally innovative 99-unit condominium project on a 3.1-acre site adjacent to the downtown section of this suburban community.

Called The Courtyards of Arlington Heights, the development will consist of a single, continuous three-story fire-resistant building that encloses landscaped courtyards, open areas and a sun deck with a sculptured fountain.

Working with a triangular site adjacent to a commuter railroad, architect George Schlipf has utilized the parking area and artful landscaping as a noise buffer and verdant setting for the residential community. The building will cover only 23 per cent of the site.

Responsibility for the sale of condominium homes in the development has been assigned to Seay & Thomas Inc., a member of the IC Industries Real Estate Group.

According to Roger Witting, Seay & Thomas' project manager for The Courtyards, the 49 one-bedroom units and 50 two-bedroom units will range in price from mid-twenties to low thirties.

"We believe that there is a strong market in suburban areas for moderately priced condominium homes such as these, which offer buyers a variety of amenities usually available only in much more expensive units," Witting said.

Each apartment home will have its own balcony facing the landscaped area enclosed by the building. In all units the balconies will be accessible from living-dining areas through sliding insulated glass doors. In the larger one-bedroom units and the two-bedroom units, the master bedrooms will have their own glass doors opening onto the balconies. Pass-through windows will link kitchens to balcony patios for easy outdoor dining.

Kitchens include a complete electric appliance package, and offer a number of options, including garbage compactors. Kitchen work space is augmented by a large pantry as well as ample cabinetry.

Bathrooms provide private access from the master bedroom and are designed with pocket doors that can be drawn, if desired, to create the privacy of a guest powder room.

The condominiums feature all electric heating, and will be cooled by through-the-wall individually controlled air-conditioning units. Each apartment home will have its own hot water heater and be separately metered.

Storage space in each unit will be augmented by 175 feet of detached basement storage area for each owner. The residential complex will contain three laundry rooms and a moderate sized community room.

Job transfers continue as the primary reason for buying a home in the Chicago area, according to the results of a sales analysis reported by Robert G. Walters, vice president and general manager of Baird & Warner's residential sales division.

In 1972, he said, one out of every four homes bought through Baird & Warner's 29 Chicago and suburban offices was influenced by a job transfer. Data compiled from 3,661 transactions revealed that 1,022 buyers — or 27.9 per cent of the total — were in the market due to such transfers.

Among sellers, job transfers was given as the second most important reason, accounting for 825 sellers, or 22.5 per cent of the total homes sold. Listed first among the reasons for selling was voluntary relocating, with the analysis showing 919 such reasons, for 25.1 per cent of the total.

Only residential property transactions, including single family homes, condominiums and co-op apartments, were covered in the survey. Sales of commercial and multi-family apartment buildings or vacant parcels of land are not included.

Walters said of the data supplied by the analysis: "Assuming that there were 7,322 distinct motivations — one for each buyer and one for each seller of every home included in the survey — then the combination of 'job transfer' replies, totaling 1,847, constitutes 25 per cent of the total."

Or, he said, "you could look at it another way. The figure 1,847 represents almost exactly half the number of homes in the survey, which would mean that half the homes sold by our sales force were affected one way or the other by job transfers."

Walters thinks that realistic figures are "somewhere in between," estimating that about one-third of the homes sold by Baird & Warner involve job transfers.

The high incidence of such transfers, he believes, largely explains the success of Baird & Warner's unique RESET program, which stands for Real Estate Service for Employee Transfers.

This service was created in 1964.

"In our highly mobile society," he said, "this program has met with an enthusiastic reception from out-of-town homeseekers being transferred to the Chicago area, and to their employers. The program was developed to assist corporate transferees in finding the right kind of housing in the most suitable community with the least amount of wear and tear."

A YEAR AGO Baird & Warner expanded its service to mobile employees by becoming a charter member of Inter-Comm, a cross-country real estate referral group. This new organization provides the machinery to assist Chicago-area home sellers, including many who were once buyers referred through RESET, to find housing at new locations when they are leaving Chicago.

This two-way service enables Baird & Warner to acquaint arriving house-hunters with the Chicago market and, at the same time, to direct departing sellers to qualified correspondent brokers in many new locations.

To fulfill its mission as chief house-hunter for many companies, including many blue-chip corporations, and their transfer-prone personnel, RESET has to meet three basic conditions:

- Fulfill the family's personal choice of location, transportation, churches, schools, and other facilities.
- Suit the transferee's budget and housing requirements. While a home often is best for the family, an apartment usually may be more suitable for the single, mobile executive.

• The home being purchased should be located in an area that has good resale value. The family may again be a candidate for a transfer.

"The best measure of the success of RESET is its ability to place hundreds of families into new homes in the Chicago area each year with a minimum of frustration and anxiety that may be normal when moving to a new city," Walters said.

Service to sellers is a multi-faceted affair ranging from presenting qualified prospective buyers — possibly through a RESET referral — to putting them in touch with a responsible Realtor in a destination city. "It also involves our making suggestions for putting the property in condition to invite buyer interest and offers; providing an intelligent estimate of the market value of the property; listing it properly; and advertising it consistently and effectively," said Walters.

Rutledge joins Seay & Thomas

The appointment of Glenn Rutledge as building supervisor for the Willow Creek condominium home has been announced by Robert O. Boehm, vice president, management, Seay & Thomas, Inc.

Rutledge will be based at Seay & Thomas' new suburban management office at 119 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

He comes to Seay & Thomas from 3H Building Corp., where he was a member of the marketing staff. Previously, he was a market planner with the Northern Illinois Gas Company.

Seay & Thomas, Inc., a member of the IC Industries Real Estate Group, is a diversified real estate company with headquarters at 111 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago.

Baird & Warner cites 4 for 15 years of service

Four members of the Baird & Warner staff were honored for 15 years of service with the diversified real estate organization at its recent annual dinner meeting at the Marriott Motor Hotel.

John W. Baird, president, presented clock calendar service awards to:

Don Bondy, Arlington Heights, a salesman in the firm's Arlington Heights office, 220 E. Northwest Hwy. He is a graduate of Denver University and one of the firm's leading sales producers.

Bruce Stewart, Winnetka, a commercial/industrial sales specialist in the firm's main office, 10 S. LaSalle St. Stewart is a graduate of Ohio State University and Northwestern University's law school and is perennially one of Baird & Warner's top salesmen.

Opal Pool, Chicago Heights, who joined the firm as an addressograph operator in management accounting and presently holds the position of account cashier.

Robert Walters, Arlington Heights, vice president. He joined the firm as a salesman in Park Ridge and became its sales manager a year later. In 1960 he was named district sales manager in charge of Arlington Heights and then, in 1964, also of the Mount Prospect office. He was named general sales manager, residential division, in January, 1973.

Northbrook homes offer air cleaners

A Chicago area builder, Eugene R. Corley, is offering electronic air cleaning standard equipment with every home. Corley said Honeywell air cleaners, which remove up to 95 per cent of the dirt and 99 per cent of the pollen from the air passing through them, will be installed in each of the 744 housing units at Mission Hills Country Club Village, a luxurious residential golfing community in suburban Northbrook.

Honeywell said the air cleaner order is the largest it has ever received for a single development and reflects the increasing consumer demand for "total home comfort," which includes automatic heating, cooling and humidification as well as air cleaning.

Electronic air cleaners, installed in the return air ducts of each heating system, work on the principle of electrostatic precipitation. In the first stage, airborne particles receive an intense electrical charge. In the second they are collected on metal plates in much the same way that iron filings are attracted by a magnet. They remain attached to the plates until washed off.

AN ELECTRONIC AIR cleaner is about 20 times more efficient than a mechanical furnace filter. It traps the microscopic particles that escape the ordinary filter and stain walls, drapes and furnishings.

The Honeywell unit has two electronic cells that are removable and small enough to be washed in the family dishwasher or a large sink. Each cell weighs about nine pounds and is equipped with a carrying handle.

Electronic air cleaner sales have been growing steadily at about 15 per cent a year. Industry spokesmen are predicting that 1973, because of heightened anti-pollution awareness, will see much more rapid gains.

Homeowners want air cleaning because they want a healthy and comfortable indoor environment," Corley said. "There is great interest now in air quality, indoors as well as out, and it will intensify in the future."

Mission Hills Country Club Village is a $60 million community of townhouses and condominiums built amidst an 18-hole championship golf course. Construction will be phased over three years with the first occupancy scheduled this summer.

Builders hold dual meeting

The Home Builders Association of Lake County, at the invitation of the Lake County Contractors Association, will join them for a combined general membership meeting of both groups on tonight, according to Jim Sayers of Lake Barrington Associates, president of the Home Builders group.

Settling for the meeting will be the London House in the Holiday Inn in Highland Park. A cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. will precede dinner at 7:30 p.m.

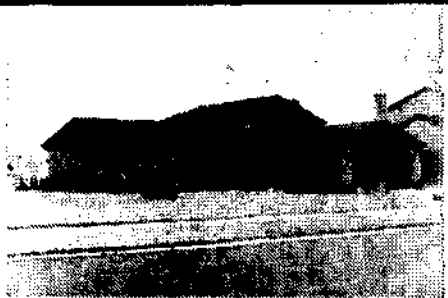

Topic for this special meeting will be "Contracts and Business Law" to be discussed by Kenneth Glick, Lake County attorney.

Reservations for the meeting may be made through the Lake County Contractors office in Waukegan — phone 623-2245. Tickets are seven dollars.

Woods accepts UOP Award of Merit

John G. Woods, vice president general counsel representing the management of Universal Oil Products Company (UOP), Des Plaines, has accepted an Award of Merit from Robert Bark, president of the Chicago Lighting Institute. UOP was presented the award for lighting at its new world headquarters complex at Mount Prospect and Algonquin roads.

How to shop for a water well

Whether you need a water well for your new home or to replace an existing well, the National Water Well Association (NWWA) has some "well shopping" suggestions for you.

First, determine your home's water supply needs. A rule of thumb might be 70-80 gallons per day per person for suburban living; 100-120 gallons per day for farm living. Your county agent, municipal engineer, well drilling contractor or pump dealer can help you determine your precise needs.

FINDING A competent drilling contractor is the next step. Besides the yellow pages and newspaper ads, an excellent place to get information is from NWWA headquarters, 88 East Broad St., Columbus, Ohio 43215 (Tel: 614-224-6241).

NWWA will give you the name of one or more reputable contractors in your area; one who enjoys a good reputation, uses good equipment, high quality materials, and modern techniques.

A good local contractor belongs to his state and national associations and learns through them the most modern methods. He understands and appreciates the need for better and safer wells, and has a technical knowledge of the efficient and proper use of ground water.

Regardless of how you pick your contractor, here are a few basic guidelines which will help insure that you receive the best possible water supply for your money:

- Check in advance on best possible water sources.

- Insist on a written contract. Read the contract carefully, and if it is not clear consult your attorney before you sign.

- Insist on full coverage insurance.
- Compare all itemized costs and materials rather than the "per foot" charge.
- Determine what, if any, local, city or state permits for drilling a well are required and who secures the permits.
- Locate the well properly from the standpoint of sanitation and convenience.
- Insist on both a certified log of the well and a statement of work performance and materials used.

For additional information on how to shop for a water well, write to NWWA headquarters and ask for their free pamphlet "When You Need a Water Well."

ONE OF THE STRONGEST marketing areas in the nation for S&H Green Stamps is Chicago and vicinity. This is the report in the Sperry and Hutchinson Co.'s Chicago sales-district headquarters in Hillside. The New York-based firm announced 1972 earnings for the year rose 3.6 per cent to $39,300,000 or $3.59 a share. This compares with the $38,025,000 or $3.38 a share, before the extraordinary charge of 10 cents a share in 1971. Consolidated sales and revenues increased 6.3 per cent for the year to $606,684,000 from $570,539,000 a year earlier. Approximately 80 per cent of the firm's revenues were from S&H Green Stamps and other promotional services.

During the past year, the 16-county Chicago district had revenues of approximately $20 million from S&H Green Stamps, according to district manager Ron Bupp. "This is an increase of about three per cent over last year," he said, "and represents retail sales of at least $800 million by Chicago area merchants who use our service."

"District-wide, more than 3,000 individual retail establishments gave their customers S&H Green Stamps last year," he continued, "representing about 5 per cent of the nationwide total of S&H merchants." Three major types of businesses account for this activity: department stores, supermarkets and gasoline stations.

"In Cook County alone," Bupp said, "2,250 retail establishments gave their customers S&H Green Stamps, making it our most concentrated major business area in the country."

"Chicago is one of the few metropolitan areas in the country that has it all together, economically," he said, "and the competition among retail merchants is the strongest I've seen anywhere."

THIRD ANNUAL Las Vegas Night is set for Saturday, May 12, sponsored by the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago. The event will be held at Chicago's South Shore Country Club. Fun and games will highlight this get-together according to Dick Inbinder, event chairman. The activities will begin at 8 p.m. and will conclude with the auctioning of prizes after midnight. The gathering is open to all members of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago, (HBAGC), of which ACMC is a division. Tickets may be obtained by calling the HBAGC office, 782-8657. U.S. homeowners have it the best

The age-old dream of owning a home has become a reality in America to an extent unparalleled anywhere else on earth.

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston.

"Home ownership here is among the highest and homes among the largest and least crowded in the world," Goss says.

He notes that 64.2 per cent of the nearly 63 million households in the United States are owner-occupied, compared to 59 per cent in Japan, 47.8 per cent in England, 44.7 per cent in France, 35.5 per cent in Sweden, and only 34.3 per cent in West Germany.

"Behind that U.S. figure lies the story of the phenomenal growth in home ownership made possible in large part through such innovative techniques as private mortgage insurance and 90-95 per cent loans, plus market-stimulating legislation.

"Back in 1940, when then-typical 50 per cent mortgage loans helped limit home ownership to the more affluent families, only 43.6 per cent of America's 35 million households were owner-occupied," Goss says.

Moreover, he adds, the size of the American home has remained comfortably large, in sharp contrast to many other countries where growth has brought overcrowding and a shrinkage of the average dwelling unit.

"THE AVERAGE American household today contains five rooms, compared to only 3.4 rooms in France, 3.6 in Sweden, and 3.9 in Japan," Goss says.

"The roominess of American homes, coupled with our relatively small family size, has given us one of the world's lowest household density rates — number of persons per room."

In Japan an average of 3.9 persons live in households which contain an average of only 3.7 rooms, giving its housing a density rate of more than one person per room, he notes.

"West Germany and France both have density rates of just under one person for each room, Sweden has .7 persons per room, while America has the fewest persons per room — .6. Conversely our people have more room for themselves in their homes.

"These statistics tell us a lot about the worldwide housing picture, but even they do not reflect the comparative newness, the large amount of yards and open space, the modern appliances and other conveniences — all an accepted part of the American home, while they remain unheard of or limited luxuries for the rich in most other parts of the world," Goss says.

The Doctor Says...by Dr. Lawrence Lamb

It's illegal to sell foods that could cause cancer

Dear Dr. Lamb — Recently I was listening to a nutritionist speaking on the radio. She said the coloring in margarine causes cancer. (She didn't say where the cancer would be.) Do you think this is true? I certainly would appreciate an answer to this question as soon as possible.

Dear Reader — No, this is not true. Incidentally, in the United States if any substance used for food is found to cause cancer in animals even (not necessarily in man), by law it cannot be distributed. This was the reason that the artificial sweetener, cyclamate, was removed from the market. In huge doses cyclamate was associated with cancer of the bladder in rats.

mate was associated with cancer of the bladder in rats.

To show you how strict the law is on this, for human beings to get the same amount of cyclamate that was used to produce the bladder cancers in rats, they would need to have drunk enough artificially sweetened drinks to produce 100 pounds of urine, and there are not many 100-pound bladders around. So I think that you could safely put out of your mind the idea that the margarine coloring has anything to do with cancer.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I was very interested in the answer you gave in your column to the question on the physical effects of constant TV watching on children to the exclusion of all other activity.

As a child I was forced by my parents to lead a very sedentary life. I was never allowed to run and play vigorously as other children because of my mother's fears that I might hurt myself.

As an adult I find I have all the symptoms you described in your column, complete lack of energy and physical exhaustion after the slightest amount of activity. I am always too tired to do my housework or to play with my young child.

My question is this: Is there any way of reversing the degeneration of the body's normal functions in an adult at 34? I have heard that exercises will increase energy, but ironically I do not have the energy to exercise.

Dear Reader — Getting started is the most difficult part. Many individuals your age, and considerably older, can improve their energy level if they can just get started on an exercise program. Most people have difficulty in getting motivated and then, if they do start, they get impatient and do it as a crash project. What you need to do is to start gradually and do it steadily.

If you can find a good friend to exercise with you, why don't you start taking regular walks together? The two of you will help to encourage each other and this way you are more likely to stick with the program. For someone who has never had significant amounts of physical activity, such as you described, I really believe the best thing one can do is to start walking.

Gradually build up your walking from 15 minutes a day until you are able to walk a full hour's time without distress and undue fatigue. At that point you will probably be in good enough physical shape to join some exercise club if there happens to be one in your area. In any case, try to find at least one and preferably two good friends you can exercise regularly with, and this will help keep you going. If you can stick with the program, you will be surprised what you can accomplish after only a few weeks of effort.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Illinois 60006. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

On Knox dean's list

Two students from Arlington Heights were recently named to the dean's list at Knox College, Galesburg, for achieving a grade point average of at least 3.65 on a 4.0 scale for the fall term.

On the list were Eileen T. McGeehan, 2017 E. Euclid, a senior at Knox College and Christine M. Robinson, 820 N. Wilshire, a junior at the college.

Completes air study

Marine Pfc. Robert C. Kubicek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Kubicek, 1411 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights, recently completed a specialized aviation maintenance course at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Oceana, Virginia Beach, Va.

He will be assigned to a maintenance squadron.

A 1970 graduate of Hersey High School in Arlington Heights, Kubicek joined the Marine Corps in January, 1972.

Named to honor roll

Karen and Nancy Okerberg of Arlington Heights were named recently to the scholastic honor roll at Bemidji State College.

Governor for a day

Owen D. West III, of 103 W. Berkley Dr., Arlington Heights, was governor for a day recently when state offices were filled by Eagle Scouts.

The medical scene

LONDON — Recent research suggests that women who take birth control pills tend to have girls rather than boys when they give birth, a medical journal reported Monday.

Dr. Selwyn Crawford, writing in The Lancet, described an investigation by doctors in Birmingham who were seeking a possible link between oral contraceptives and a marked fall in respiratory complaints among underweight babies.

This study among 1,000 mothers showed that of the 92 babies born underweight "pill mothers" had girls twice as often as those who had never taken the contraceptives.

The article said the non-pill mothers produced 24 boys and 38 girls while a smaller group of women who had taken the pill gave birth to 23 girls and only 7 boys.

Crawford said it would be foolish to draw firm conclusions from such a small survey, but that the ratios between boys and girls could be significant.

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Lushes make lousy lovers, according to Dr. William Todd.

Liquor may be a sexual stimulant for some younger people, but for older males, Bacchus and Eros don't mix, said Todd, a member of the state Board of Public Health.

Todd wrote on sex and alcohol for the May issue of the Memorial Mercury, a publication of Memorial Hospital of Long Beach. The issue was devoted to alcoholism. Drinking before sex by men brings on sleepiness, loss of libido, lessened confidence and psychological impotence caused by "the anxiety state that is latent in all of us," Todd wrote.

Cirrhosis of the liver, caused by continual heavy drinking, causes a condition in which a man's liver is no longer capable of eliminating the small amounts of female hormones present in all men's blood, he said.

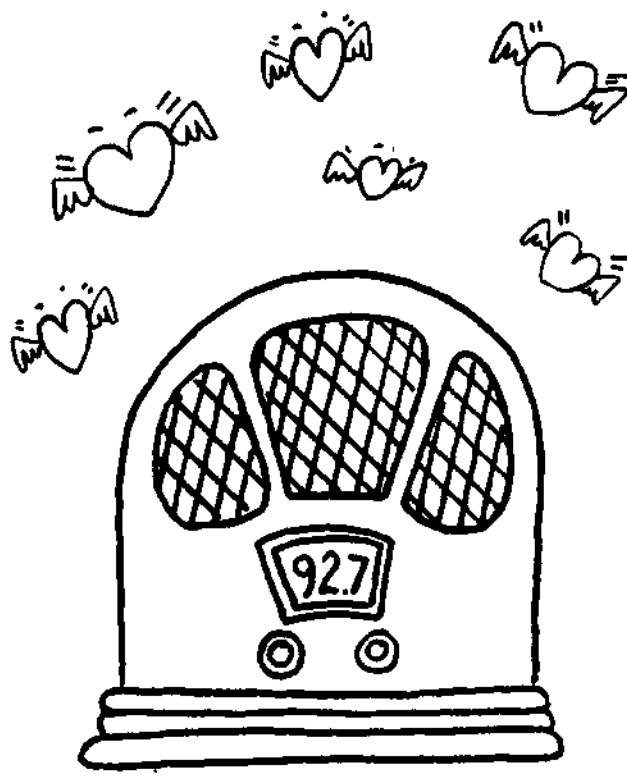

As a result, the hormones accumulate and cause feminizing physical changes, such as enlargement of the breasts, weaker muscles and loss of hair.

DETROIT — President Nixon's top adviser on drug abuse said there are hopeful signs heroin addiction is declining in the United States.

Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, in a speech before the Economic Club of Detroit, based his optimism on studies showing the majority of addicts now entering treatment programs became addicted before 1969.

"This indicates that fewer people have become addicted in the past four years," Jaffe said. He added that the growth of treatment programs was another hopeful sign.

"With an estimated 200,000 addicts getting some treatment each year, even a modest recovery rate of 10 per cent could eventually put us in a position where more heroin addicts leave the pool each year than enter it," the former University of Chicago professor said. (United Press International)

This is Turnberry

The good life

Turnberry is for people, young and old, who have a real zest for living.

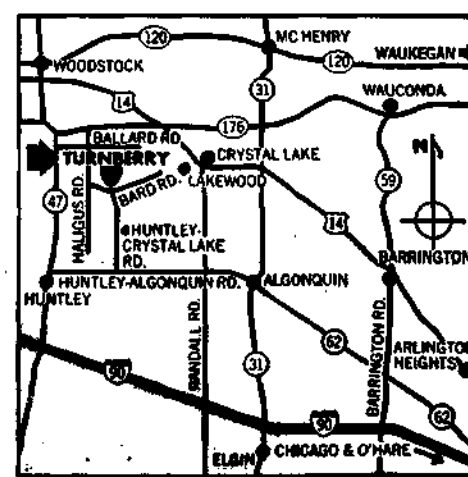

There are 1700 acres of woods, hills and valleys to be hiked, biked, explored and enjoyed. Three beautiful lakes of nearly eighty acres to be fished and sailed. And the private Turnberry County Club includes a championship golf course, an imposing French Normandy Clubhouse high on a hilltop with breathtaking views of lakes, fairways and surrounding countryside. An Olympic-size pool set dramatically into the hillside, and tournament-quality tennis courts adjoin. That's the good life at Turnberry. Every day is a vacation from busy city life—the first year-round community of its kind in the Chicago suburbs.

Turnberry, in the village of Lakewood, is a 10-minute drive from the Crystal Lake North Western Station. The Loop is within easy reach by air-conditioned trains. O'Hare Airport and all of Chicagoland are readily accessible by expressways.

Patterned after Arthur T. McIntosh & Company's Inverness— unquestionably one of the most distinctive and beautiful villages in the Midwest, Turnberry has similar protective covenants assuring that the basic way of living—the good life at Turnberry—will never change.

There are no ordinary homesites at Turnberry. Here, the crest of a hill, a lush green fairway, a beautiful lake or century-old trees adjoin your living room.

Homesites average 1/2 of an acre, and more important, have a minimum of 150 feet at the building line. Prices range from $16,000 to $34,000. All sites are fully improved with winding paved roads, water, sewer and underground utilities. Drive out this weekend, or send for a detailed brochure.

Take Northwest Tollway (95) to Barrington Rd. North to Algonquin Rd. (62), then northwest on 62 into Town of Algonquin. Cross Rt. 31 and go straight ahead (west) 5 miles on Huntley-Algonquin Rd. Turn north on Huntley-Crystal Lake Rd. to property. Watch for signs.

Prep coaches reveal various tactics

Psyching in sports—an intangible statistic

BEWARE OF "wet fish" handshakes. A shark might be really greeting you.

Look out for the seemingly ignorant opponent. He might outsmart you.

Be watchful of free advice. The generous advisor may be out to mentally mess you up.

The above are just a few of the psyching out methods used in sports. Some call psyching a part of the game; others will counter that it's unsportsmanlike.

On the whole, it's happening — from one extreme to the other — on area tennis courts, golf courses, baseball diamonds and tracks this spring.

Anyone who has closely observed or participated in these and other sports knows that this mental phase of the game exists. But nobody is more aware of it than the coach. It's his job to help his team overcome it.

Four experienced coaches — who shall remain nameless — were asked to cite some examples from the sports mentioned above. This was what they had to say about the psyching out side of sports:

Although the average tennis fan might not know it, a great deal of the court psyching takes place before the match begins, according to our set coach. Here's what he had to say:

The warmup — "Give him the 'wet

"A big advantage of being able to throw hard is that it sometimes has an effect on youngsters, especially when you knock somebody down once in a while."

fish' handshake so he'll think you're a pansy... A good player can gain an advantage by talking his opponent into playing before the latter has had enough time to loosen up... Miss your backhand on purpose in practice, then hit it past him in the match... Return his shots so that he can hit them back until you receive the perfect bounce, then put it away. This makes him think...

Know the rules — "Stay alert so you can call any rule infraction on your opponent. This shakes some guys up."

Unethical practices — "Ask your opponent what the score is when you already know the score. This could break his concentration... At a crucial point in the match, tie your shoe, turn your back to the server and straighten the laces of your racket or just take extra time to get ready... When it's his turn to serve, hit the ball away from him so he'll have to chase it down... Tell him his shot was 'just out' or it 'just missed' or don't call it right away."

Show toughness — "When playing doubles and your teammate hits you in the back or on the head with a serve, pretend it didn't hurt."

Reputation — "Some schools just show up and it psyches the other team out. Reputation and success go hand in hand."

Rooting section — "If a teammate is having a tough match, have the rest of the team gather in a group to cheer him on. This might depress his opponent."

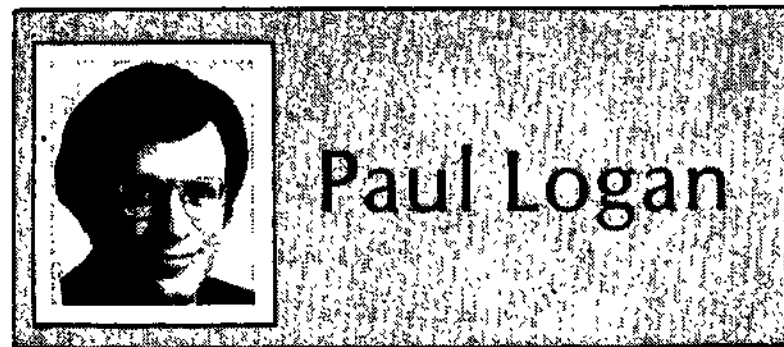

You might say "show" is the key word in baseball psyching. As this coach points out:

Display a good warmup — "The first thing in baseball is having an infield session that's real sharp and impressive. When the other team is watching this happen, it has a big effect."

Show of strength — "If the ball isn't hit too deep, make a strong throw. And if the fly is hit in such a way that you can have your momentum going the direction you want to make the throw, it makes your arm look stronger."

Showcasing the brush back — "A big advantage of being able to throw hard is that it sometimes has an effect on younger kids, especially when you knock somebody down once in a while. If a batter is hit, the next couple of batters think about it if they're not real gutty."

Showing team speed early — "The big advantage is giving the opponent the idea you're going to run a lot. When this is known, it sometimes makes everybody a little more jittery."

Bench jockeying — "If you've got 'rabbit ears,' it can distract you. It can be effective sometimes if the guy you're yelling at gets shook up. When they get on me, it just fires me up to play the harder."

Stopping the show — "Some guys try to shake up the pitcher by calling time-out when he's in his windup. A good umpire will take care of this."

There are as many psyching plays as there are competitors in track and field. With so many different events, the list is too numerous to mention. But our thin-clad coach passed these along:

Being a cool competitor — "Try to look and act cool before the meet. If your opponents are shook at all, this act will psyche them out pretty easily... For example, step over the high hurdles in a real slow trot to make it look easy. This might get to them. If you're a pole vaulter or high jumper, jump or vault in your sweats during warmups. If you pass up the lower heights, it sometimes makes a guy wonder."

Talk to your opponent — "One guy once told the runner next to him that he 'looked bad' and his face 'looked white as a sheet.' The spoken to runner believed him and dropped out of the distance event... Let them overhear you tell your relay teammates 'Let's break 3:29 today,' when they know they're not that good... Complains about the cold weather or the rain on the track to divert his concentration... Let it be known ahead of the event that one of your big names is on the relay. This discourages opponents."

The Lazer beam stare — "One top shot putter used to always stand behind the ring and eye his opponent just before he put the shot."

Vary the pace — "Passing up your chief opponent, then falling behind and passing again in a distance race could mix him up. Starting an early kick sometimes unnerves him."

When it comes to golf, you're on your own completely. If you haven't built up a resistance to various subtle psychings, you may find yourself behind at the end of a round, losing to an opponent who doesn't have as good a game as your own."

enced just about every trick in the bag during his many matches. Here are his warnings:

The helpful foe — "You'll eventually run into the type of guy who'll say 'There's something that you're doing wrong in your swing. If you straighten it out, you'll really hit the ball well. I'll tell you later when we get done.' The victim begins thinking 'What's he talking about?' He'll start taking his game apart in his mind and he's ruined the rest of the way."

The angry young man — "This type of guy will just say 'Where did it go?' when his opponent's shot lands right by the pin. Or he'll say 'How'd you possibly make that shot?' after a fine hit. He'll never admit it's a good shot. That hurts."

Power hitters — "High school kids seemed to be impressed the most by the long ball. Generally, they often try to outmuscle each other."

Club selection — "Let your opponent see the club you are using. For example, on a 150-yard shot, pull out a seven iron, knowing it's a six or a five. Hood the face without him seeing it and muscle it to the green. If he takes your cue, he might hit his shot and into a hazard."

Club selection stare — "When he takes out a club, look him in the eye, shake your head and smile. More often than not, his confidence will be shaken and he'll miss his shot."

Really underhanded tricks — "When your opponent isn't looking, rub some soap from the ball wash on his putter face or his driver. The ball will slide off when struck... If you get the chance to mark his ball and then replace the ball later, push it down a little into the green."

"Step over the high hurdles in a real slow trot to make it look easy. This might get to them."

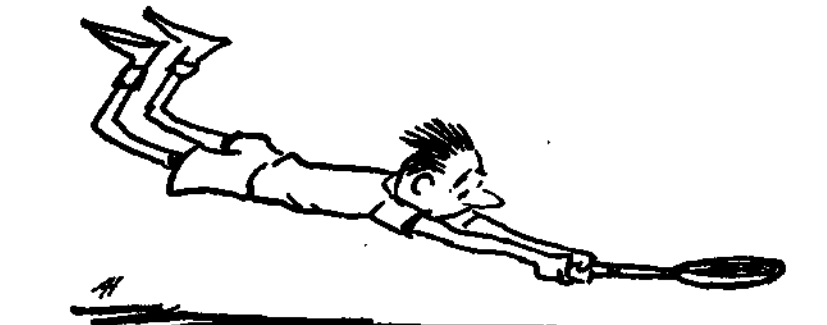

This will cause the ball to jump right or left when hit.

Diversionary comments — "High school kids seem to lose their concentration for a while if you say something about their clothes, like 'That shirt doesn't go very well with your pants...' College guys will become distracted if you ask them about their love life. For the next couple of holes they'll tend to brag about what studs they are and forget about the match."

The low score — "They're (high schoolers) easily impressed when they've heard that an opponent has recently shot a low round. They fail to realize that golf's a very changeable game and one day's score doesn't mean the next day's will be as good."

As a participant or a spectator at future sporting events, you might now be a little more aware of what's going on besides who hits the ball where.

Brawn is necessary in most sports, but you'd better also have brains or you might end up psyched out by a wet fish."

"Miss the backhand in practice, then hit it past him in the match."

Mid-Suburban League baseball highlights

Grove tips Forest View; Prospect takes South lead

The last of the unbeaten fell yesterday.

Forest View not only suffered its first loss of the Mid-Suburban League baseball season but also yielded its first run and first place in the South Division.

Prospect, an impressive victor over Glenbard North, slipped past the Falcons by one-half game. Elk Grove beat Forest View, 2-1.

In the North, Arlington vaulted into first place with a conquest of Wheeling. Only two games separate the six clubs in the hectic North scramble.

GRENS SURPRISE FALCONS

Elk Grove pulled the upset of the Mid-Suburban League season thus far with a 2-1 victory on the Falcons' field Wednesday on a run in the top of the seventh inning.

Frank Bavaro delivered the winning hit with two outs after a single by John Pahl. They were only Elk Grove's second and third hits of the game.

Jim Laing mystified the Falcons, who have not been scoring much despite four straight wins. Laing permitted just two hits, survived seven walks and struck out four.

Ken Meek started and pitched five innings for Forest View, allowing just one hit but walking five with nine strikeouts. Larry Monroe took the loss in relief, his first after three wins.

It was not only the first league loss for Forest View after four wins, but the first time the Falcons have yielded a run in the MSL. Elk Grove broke the spell with an unearned run in the third after 32 2/3 innings (one out short of five full games) of shutout ball by the Falcons.

Forest View took a 1-0 lead in the first on a walk to Craig Stiles, stolen base, fielder's choice and wild pitch. The Grenadiers countered in the third on a walk to Loren Crites, single by Laing, error and bases-loaded walk to Scott Scholten.

It remained 1-1 until the seventh when Monroe was touched for the first earned run against Forest View in 39 innings. Bavaro's solid clutch hit made Elk Grove 2-3 in the league.

KNIGHTS ON TOP

Prospect made its way to the top of the South Division standings by virtue of clobbering Glenbard North, 11-1. The Knights lead Forest View by one-half game although both clubs are even in the loss column.

The winners put the game out of reach early when they sent 15 men to the plate in the opening inning with a nine-run reward. Walks to Jim Dumke, Mark Hartley and Jim Altobelli coupled with singles by Ray Seaber and Kevin Kelley and a double by Ken Kallberg highlighted the Knights' output the first time around.

But Dumke kept the frame alive with two outs by combining back-to-back doubles with Steve Mahanna before Paul Obuchowski and Hartley sandwiched singles around a walk to Seaber.

Prospect added another in the third on Mahanna's leadoff single, a one-bagger by Seaber, an error and Hartley's sacrifice fly to left and were up 11-0 after four frames when a fielder's choice, an error, a balk and Kelley's infield single produced another marker.

Glenbard avoided a shutout in the top of the fifth when Gary Smith parked a fastball over the leftfield fence for a home run. The Panther safety was one of just four by the visitors for the game as Kelley, with relief help from Rich Streng, silenced Glenbard.

Kelley knocked down the first 12 batters he faced before Mike Rigdon solved the big righthander for a single to start the fourth. Kelley walked just one and whiffed six in five innings of work. Streng mopped up with two scoreless stanzas.

HEIDENSON SLAMS WHEELING

A grand slam by Ray Heidenson in the eighth inning lifted Arlington to an 11-7 victory over hosting Wheeling.

Walks to Dave Sherrow and John Dillon and an infield single by Brian Deevy set the stage for the Cardinals' heavy hitting third baseman. Heidenson ripped into Willie Kozel's fourth pitch and lined it over the left field fence, his third hit of the afternoon.

The dramatic smash broke a 7-7 tie and provided reliever Sherrow with a four-run bulge, but the Wildcats wouldn't quit. They drew two leadoff walks and forced Coach Fran Somers to bring on Jeff Wulbecker. He forced the next batter to hit into a double play and the final out was a routine grounder.

However, for a few moments in that bottom of the eighth the Arlington rooters had to be worried. Just the inning before the Wildcats stunned them with a stellar comeback that almost won the game.

Tom Slepicka led off the seventh with a single. Following walks to John Carlberg and Bob Peter, Sherrow — who came on in relief of starter Greg Hauptly — gave up an infield single to Howie Brauer which made the score 7-4. Mark Madonia kept alive the thrilling comeback with another RBI single to left.

Following a wild pitch that scored another and moved up both base runners, John Theriault tagged a deep fly ball to score Brauer with the tying run. Then Sherrow pitched his way out of the jam with a ground out, intentional walk to Ron Hendricks and another ground out.

Arlington got off to a fast start with an RBI single by Dan Cunningham in the third and four runs in the fourth. The fourth saw them knock out starter Peter with Gordie Nelson taking his place. An error scored two with an RBI walk to Sherrow and a run scoring single by John Dillon.

The Cardinals, now 4-2 in the MSL and 5-2 overall, made it 7-0 in the fifth. After three singles loaded the bases, George

13 innings; no decision

For the second time this season, Harper College has battled to an extra inning game.

Hosting Lake County yesterday, the Hawks went 13 innings before the game was called at 2-2. Going the distance was George Pattie, allowing just five hits.

Harper will finish the contest on the last day of the season at Lake County. The Hawks were hoping to hand the Lancers their first conference loss and their second setback of the season. The visitors brought a 10-1 record to the marathon game.

Vukovich hit a two-run single.

Hendricks finally put Wheeling on the scoreboard with a line drive homer to right in the fifth. Two singles and a walk later, Nelson's base on balls scored another.

Theriault made it 7-3 in the sixth with a homer to left. Then came the most exciting part of the game — the seventh and decisive eighth.

Heidenson also had a double to lead all batters with 3-for-5.

HUSKIES GAIN 1-0 NOD AGAIN

Dave Mnichowicz's clothesline single to left broke a 0-0 stalemate in the bottom of the seventh and allowed Hersey to ease past visiting Fremd, 1-0.

It was the second 1-0 verdict for Steve Chernick's crew in as many days and knocked the Vikings from their perch atop the North Division standings. Pinch hitter Mark Krause scored the winning run against the Vikes after John Kanelis had legged out his second hit of the afternoon.

The seventh inning Huskie rally broke up a pitching duel between Fremd's Jeff Hanisch and a pair of Hersey moundmen. Brian Nelson, who started for the hosts, gave way to Tom Good in the sixth after the Vikings had advanced runners to second and third with one away.

Mark Funk and Jeff Brissan gained back-to-back walks to open that sixth frame and then turned over a double steal an out later. Good came on, got Funk trying to score on a grounder, and then got a pop out to end the threat. Good was credited with the win.

Although Pettit was in possession of the ball after the collision, he was ruled not in control and the winning run was allowed.

PIRATES EXPLODE

Palatine broke out of a mild batting slump while making Rolling Meadows an 11-2 victim on the Pirates' home field. Extra-base hits were the rule of the day for the winners who pounded a quartet of Mustang pitchers for 13 hits — six of them of the double or triple variety.

Palatine tallied in the first inning when Andy Knotek ripped his first of four hits — a double that scored Rick Hoff who had walked.

The Mustangs countered with the tying marker in the second on Len Link's single, a walk to Pat Earley and successive sacrifices by Jack Lloyd and Marc Kemp. But Palatine broke the contest open in the third on Knotek's triple, and three straight singles by Buddy Hughes, Mike Hughes and winning pitcher Steve Kirk and Mike Bourbon's two-run triple for a four-run frame.

The Pirates were back hammering in the fourth when they sent 10 men to the plate and off singles by Hoff and Lon Marchel, another double by Knotek and triples from Bourbon and Mike Sorci, pushed six more home.

Meadows capped the scoring in the fifth on Joe Riplinger's triple and a single by Bruce Hanson, but by then it was too late. Kirk went the distance on a yield of just seven hits, walking five and fanning 11.

Palatine feasted on the offerings of Mustangs' Dave Thorstensen, Gordy Johnson, Keith Goeske and Dan Jordan who all paraded to the mound for the losers.

COUGARS CLOUT SCHAUMBURG

A sixth-run fourth-inning outburst rock-

eted Conant past visiting Schaumburg 6-4 and left the Saxons still in quest of their first conference win of the season.

Dave Reynolds and Jeff Ironside paced the 10-hit Cougar attack with a pair of safeties each. Reynolds drove in three runs while Ironside and Jim Brown each knocked in two tallies to help twirler Mike Atkocaitis chalk up his first victory of the campaign.

Atkocaitis needed help however. After five shutout innings he was tapped for a run in the sixth on Sam Aiello's one-base rap following a two-base error off the bat of Keith Abraham.

In the seventh Tim Domek came on for the hosts after a walk and Art Abraham's run producing single. Domek gave up hits to two of the three batters he faced but a runner was thumbed out for not touching third en route to scoring and that ended the contest.

Conant jumped in front 2-0 in the second on hits by Neal Thompson and Atkocaitis and a base-clearing single by Reynolds. In the fourth, 10-men paraded to the plate with Atkocaitis, Reynolds, Ironside and Brown all delivering hits to key the rally.

Brown's safety was a two-base shot deep to right.

Mark Goergen went the route for the visitors and was tagged with the loss. It was also his first conference decision.

State champ tops West

A unique seven-infielder alignment backfired against Maine West at all the wrong times Wednesday afternoon as the Warriors lost, 6-1, to the defending state champion Niles West Indians.

The game was tied, 1-1, and Niles had runners at first and third with none out when Warrior coach Al Carstens took drastic measures.

Third baseman Jay Liggett and first sacker Steve Zuccarini each came halfway to home plate. Left fielder Dave Raymond took over at third, holding one runner. Second baseman Danny Myszka did the same at first.

Shortstop Jeff Schwarz maintained his regular position. Including pitcher Bill Slapke and catcher Mark Eichhorn, that's seven infielders.

All the outer pasture territory was left to Roger Blumer and Chris Bouchee. As it turned out, that's the only place Niles hit the ball.

Joel Anderson immediately solved

Slapke for an ordinary single down the right field line. But with Bouchee a mile away, it ballooned into three bags and scored both runners for a 3-1 Niles lead.

With Maine still aligned funny, Dave Seirs snuck a ground ball through the vacant right side, scoring Anderson for a 4-1 lead.

The Warriors scored first, getting a second inning run scored by Bouchee without benefit of a hit. Niles tied the game in the third, also without a hit.

The Indians' three-run fourth was later augmented by two runs in the sixth.

Slapke went the route for West in defeat, evening his mound record at 1-1. He allowed seven hits.

Winning pitcher Dale Senensky didn't allow the Warriors a hit until sixth inning singles by Eichhorn and Myszka. Then he was perfect to finish the game.

The Warriors, now 6-3, will host Glenbrook North this afternoon.

Knight entry shows power in net quad

Prospect has emerged as the Mid-Suburban League's best hope of giving Arlington a battle after the former nearly swept its quadrangular Tuesday.

The Knights, unbeaten just as the awesome Cardinals are, blanked Fremd and Glenbard North and just missed in shutting out Palatine.

KNIGHTS IN STRAIGHT SET WIN

Taking on Glenbard North, the Knights had a pretty easy time of it in winning 5-0. This was how the duel went:

Rob Zimmanek over Walt Keefe 6-1, 6-2; Mark Meves over Jeff Howat 6-0, 6-2; Spencer Clark over Dan Keefe 6-4, 6-0; Charles Clemens and Jeff Risteen over Ben Homola and Mark Ables 6-0, 6-1; and John Waters and Steve Ristow over Greg Gargano and Frank Reiss 6-1, 6-1.

1ST SINGLES SCORE

Zimmanek of Prospect was forced three sets with Fremd's Chris Laffey before winning 6-1, 5-7, 6-1. The rest of the Knight matches came a little easier in registering the 5-0 win:

Meves over Rich Courtney 6-3, 7-5; Clark over Mike Lincoln 6-4, 6-2; Risteen-Clemens over Bob Norris and Tom Jensen 5-3, 6-0; and Waters-Ristow over Mitch West and Dan Seeley 6-4, 6-0.

NWS gymnasts excel in meet

The Northwest Suburban YMCA boys gymnastics team traveled to Chicago for the Little "10" meet hosted by Eiche-Turner. Six teams were represented by 67 boys.

In the Midget competition, Jeff Vanyek placed first in parallel bars, second on side horse and vaulting and third on rings while capturing a blue ribbon in all-around with a 20.9 total.

Mike Lucansky pulled in a second on parallel bars while Joe Ray placed second on high bar, cornered a first on side horse and parlayed his 18.9 total for a second in all-around. Ron Bartuslak pulled in a third in floor exercise and Henry Degroh brought home a first place on rings.

For the Juniors, Dewey Deal succeeded in taking first place in four events — parallel bars, floor exercise, rings and vaulting. He was an easy winner in all-around with a robust 26.4 total. Karl Setz nailed down sixth place in all-around with a 19.8 total.

At Beverly Lanes

In the Arlington Heights Lady Elks league Betty McKinlay had a scratch 542 series with two 217 games with handicap. . . . Other 200 games with handicap included Louise Meder 200, Beverly Smith 203-211, Rita Plunkett 206, Shirley Juratschke 213, Pat Greener 220, and Ellen Germanos 200-201-227.

PALATINE SPOILS SWEEP

Matt Borman, the Pirates' No. 1 singles player, saved the embarrassment of a shutout by beating Zimmanek 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. However, his teammates dropped the other four matches:

Meves over Steve Snyder 6-4, 6-0; Clark over Mac Bennis 6-1, 6-4; Risteen-Clemens over Lew Seevy and Dick McNabney 6-1, 6-0; and Ristow-Waters over Fred Hoegler and Dave Bals 6-4, 6-2.

PIRATES IN 2-4-1 VICTORIES

A first doubles loss to Glenbard North and a second singles setback to Fremd prevented Palatine from two perfect dual meet scores.

The Pirates coasted through the singles play with the Panthers with Borman over Keefe by 6-0 scores, Snyder over Howat by 6-1 scores and Bennis over Dan Keefe 6-1, 6-0.

But Hommela and Ables surprised Andy Hanzel and Seevy 7-5, 6-2. Hoegler-Bals came on strong on stepping Gargano-Reiss 6-2, 6-1.

Fremd salvaged a three-set match to avoid a shutout as Courtney went 2-6, 6-1, 6-0 with Snyder.

The Pirates had their way the rest of the dual:

Borman over Laffey 3-6, 6-0, 7-5; Bennis over Lincoln 6-2, 6-4; Seevy-Hazel over Norris-Jensen 5-7, 7-5, 6-4; and Hegler-Bals over West-Seeley 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Knights join in Friday showdown

Golf Editor

Hersey and Palatine continued on an undefeated collision course by virtue of slugging past two league golf foes Tuesday in the final tuneup for each club.

Palatine and Prospect will visit Hersey Friday in what boils down to a title clash among the three Mid-Suburban League powers.

The Pirates putted into shape with a nifty 153 against Conant's 169 and Schaumburg's 178 in a double-dual meet while Hersey fired a sparkling 154 to bounce Rolling Meadows' 172 and Glenbard North's 206.

In non-league play, Elk Grove finished fourth in a shootout with Fenton (310), Addison Trail (322) and Montini (342). The Grenadiers consumed 355 strokes. Prospect, meanwhile, stumbled at the hands of Barrington, 159-169.

PIRATES LIMBER UP

Palatine's impressive round came over its home course at Palatine Hills and was derived from three sub-40 scores. John Loneragan and John Capoun shared the Pirate spotlight with two-over-par rounds of 38 while Jim Arden was just a stroke behind the leaders with a 39. Jim Sobczynski carded a 40 and Bob Capoun a 41 for the consistent Palatine squad.

Conant earned a split on the afternoon with its middle-of-the-road 169. Dave Domek spearheaded the Cougar charge with a fine 39 and Dave Love was right behind with a 40. Kevin Eakins and Keith Kellogg both toured Palatine Hills in 45's and Bob Whiting settled for a 46.

Schaumburg relied on Lee Hoffman's 43 for team medalist honors and Joe Castrogiovanni and Vince Treyka shadowed their leader with 44's. Scott Richards needed 47 strokes to complete the front nine and Greg Governale bagged a 51.

HUSKIES HONED

Hersey publicly said it was ready for the showdown as it, too, sported three sub-40 rounds over Buffalo Grove's par 36 front nine. Cal Zimmerman and Bruce Conroy shared meet medalist honors with nifty 37's, but Ray Peterson's 39, Jeff Kallman's 41 and John Haack's 43 were also instrumental.

Meadows' in-between 172 featured Todd Sander's team-leading 46 and consecutive 44's by Tom Schramm, John Stahl and Carl Schewelker. Tom Carlstrom rounded on the Mustang quietest with a signed scorecard of 48.

Hersey earned a sweep for the afternoon as its frosh-soph squad won a tenuous struggle against Conant, 192-194. Glenbard countered with a 230.

GRENS WARM UP

Elk Grove, contesting White Pine's par-72 South Course for a rehearsal of the Fenton Invitational played yesterday, found that some improvement was needed if it was to become a factor in the multi-team meet.

The Grenadiers took the backseat to three other candidates although their scoring was consistent. Scott Walker headed Elk Grove's seven-man contingent with an impressive 83 and Mark Okuma followed up with an 89.

Todd Gauder carded an 18-hole 91 with Keith Moore a stroke back at 92. Bob Morita recorded a 96, Mark Christensen a 97 and Sam Kordores an even 100.

Cardinals almost perfect in romp to quad success

Arlington made believers of three more Mid-Suburban League teams in its own quadrangular meet Tuesday.

The powerful Cardinals gave up seven games to two teams each and only two games to the other en route to three 5-0 victories.

Schaumburg beat Wheeling 5-0 and Forest View 3-2. The Falcons enjoyed a 3-2 decision over Wheeling.

CARDS NEAR PERFECT

The Wildcats could manage just two games off their hosts, one in each category. Arlington singles victories came like this:

Jim Merkel over Dave Neukuckatz 6-0, 6-0; John Paczkowski over Mike Martinez 6-0, 6-0; and Don Rodig over Hal Morris 6-1, 6-0.

ARLINGTON DOUBLES LEADS WAY

The Cardinals teams only dropped a game each in their second sets against Forest View. The Miller-VanGorp duo handled Jeff Aubert and Chris Phillips 6-0, 6-1. It was Mack-Reese over Dave Jacob and Randy Router 6-0, 6-1.

Singles action went like this:

Merkel over Joe Karwinski 6-2, 6-2; Paczkowski over Mitch Patterson 6-0, 6-0; and Rodig over Charlie Cooksley 6-1, 6-0.

SAXON RACQUETS SILENCED

Warrior golfers split, now 4-5

Jeff Potter was medalist with a 38 on Tuesday afternoon as Maine West's golfers split in a double duel with Glenbrook South and Deerfield.

The Warriors defeated Glenbrook South, 171-176, but were handled by Deerfield, 164-171. Maine's other scores were by Glen Dalbke 41, Tom Grueter 46 and Paul Frost 46.

Deerfield was led by John Brunlieb 40, Jeb Bundock 41, Mark Boyce 40 and Dave Byard 43. Glenbrook South's scorers were Paul Schubert 42, Tom Frank 44, Dave Herstein 45 and Dan Broderick 45.

The win and loss dropped Maine's record to 4-5. The Warriors host Maine South on Thursday, then play in the Conant Invitational on Saturday.

Lions, deSales in 5-5 deadlock

St. Francis de Sales of Chicago, at least when playing against St. Viator, seems to specialize in taking advantage of Lion mistakes late in a game to come from behind — and not just in one sport.

The Lions did just that late last fall to spoil what had until then been a perfect St. Viator football season. And they did it again Tuesday in a baseball game on the extreme southeast corner of the city.

With St. Viator leading 5-0 and fresh off a two-run rally in the sixth inning, St. Francis de Sales picked itself up for five runs in the next two innings, taking advantage of bases on balls and also using four singles. Darkness closed in after eight full innings and the game had to be suspended with the score still 5-5.

It will be completed May 9 when the Lions visit the Lions.

Jim Miller did the hurting for the Lions for six and a third innings, yielding all five runs on seven hits, five walks and nine strikeouts. Dave Hutcheson then came on with a sparkling relief job over the last inning and two-thirds, allowing just one single and no walks and getting out of a jam that could have been fatal.

St. Viator had taken command by 3-0 right off the bat on four quick hits. Bob Foster reached on a fielder's choice, Stan Bobowski singled and stole second and Frank Cliggett singled in the first two runs. Another was produced on hits by Ed Collins and Mark Rickerson.

The next four innings were scoreless until the Lions added a pair in the sixth on singles by Tom Chapman and Miller, a fielder's choice and Stan Bobowski's two-run double.

St. Francis got three of the runs back on two walks, a two-run single and fielder's choice that brought in another. Then in a do-or-die situation in the seventh, the Lions used a walk and three clutch singles to tie it before Hutcheson put out the fire.

The Lions, still 3-1 in the Suburban Catholic Conference and 6-1 overall, have two more games scheduled this week. They'll be home against Marist, a tough league foe, at 4:00 Thursday and will travel to Barrington Friday for a non-league game. Next Monday, St. Viator hosts Notre Dame, which has handed the Lions their only loss.

Injuries slow MSL stars; Hersey heads triangular

Track & Field Editor

There are not many similarities between the National Football League and track in the Mid-Suburban League. But one seems to be forming — that whoever can avoid injuries has the best chance to win.

The MSL as a whole may be in the process of setting a record for most track injuries in one season. Results have no doubt been affected by the absence at some time, due to varying maladies, of the following standout performers: Elk Grove sprinters Joe Lawson and Scott Dorsey and distance man Brian Powell, Hersey long jumper and sprinter Dave Kuntz and distance runner Ron Stephani, Wheeling half-mile Steve Drake, Fremd sprinter Tom Wistar and Arlington pole vaulter Greg Morand.

These are just a few and there are undoubtedly others. With 12 teams in the league and so many performers and meets, it is almost impossible to keep up with all injuries.

All of the above names, except Kuntz, were not able to compete — many because of muscle pulls — in three MSL meets Tuesday. Hersey won a triangular with 60% points to 49 for non-league foe Glenbard West and 39% for Wheeling. Elk Grove slipped past Conant 64-63 and Glenbard North shaded Arlington 64-58.

Hersey improved its league record to 4-1, third best at this point, and Elk Grove became 3-2. Palatine and Fremd have the best records with 4-0 and 3-0 respectively, but dual-meet records do not count in standings at any rate. Everyting hinges as usual on the conference meet, which will be held May 11 at Conant.

Palatine has been showing its usual excellence and surely working hard. But one reason the Pirates look so strong is that they have been at full strength. Aces Scott Williams (mile and two-mile) and Jan Fitzgerald (hurdles) seem to have recovered from injuries at the end of the indoor season.

Kuntz, who had been out with a non-track injury, didn't show it Tuesday when he suddenly came back to post the best 100-yard time of the day — 10.4. It would be a big boost to Hersey if he could return to form in long jumping, because he went 22-6 last year — one and a half inches from the area record.

Dan Leider also quickly shook off an illness. He came almost straight from a sick bed to win the 440-yard dash in 52.0. His best this year is 52 flat.

Wheeling's most impressive effort was Bill Chlebik's 54-8% in the shot put. He has been over 55, the third-best distance in the area.

Glenbard West ace Bill Fritz, who pulled a shocking upset in the Oak Park Indoor Relays a month ago by upsetting sensational Craig Virgin in the mile, ran only the half-mile against Hersey and Wheeling and won in 1:59.5.

Overall, for all three meets, pole vault may have been the strongest event. Hersey's Mark Conard led with 13-0 — tying his area peak for this year — and Conant's Scott Clark and Doug Paape and Arlington's Dave Hillert all hit 12-6.

Damian Archbold was a double winner for Elk Grove in the 880 and mile and the Grenadiers' dynamic duo of hurdlers, Dave Jensen and Steve Busse, traded firsts and seconds in the 120 highs and 180 lows.

Mike Dolinajec had Arlington's best performance with 52.0 in the 440. Hurdler Jay Maxwell led Glenbard North as usual with winning times of 15.0 in the highs and 20.6 in the lows. That 15 flat is the conference's best time this year for the high hurdles.

Half of the MSL will be busy in dual meets Thursday when Arlington is at Rolling Meadows, Prospect at Forest View and Glenbard North at Schaumburg.

THIEF! Marc Klemp of Rolling Meadows slides in with a late throw. Klemp smashed a triple and scored three stolen bases as Schaumburg's Pete Kowalski waits for a run in an 18-5 rout for Meadows.

Merkle over Mike O'Loughlin 6-1, 6-0; Paczkowski over Pete Bohl 6-0, 6-0; and Rodig over Mike Passaglia 6-0, 6-1.

SCHAUMBURG WINS 2

The Saxons rolled to a 5-0 victory over Wheeling and a squeaker 3-2 decision over Forest View.

The Falcons used a slightly different lineup, but Schaumburg proved too tough. Karwinski captured first singles with a win over O'Loughlin by 6-4 scores, but the Falcons dropped the other singles matches — Viohl over Rick Doering by 6-3 scores and Passaglia over Cooksley by 6-4 scores.

The Saxons gained the necessary split in doubles for victory. The Wright-Kron team stopped Jacob-Router 6-1, 6-4.

Aubert-Phillips won first doubles for Forest View by 6-3, 6-1 counts over Amaltis-Brennan.

FALCONS GET BY 'CATS

Chris Taylor visits Chicago area

by MIKE KLEIN

Astrologers and other crazy gazers would probably contend that Chris Taylor's days as a wrestler-for-the-hell-of-it are numbered.

That is the hottest educated guess, rumor or what-have-you among earth's prominent amateur wrestlers.

The great American buck (translated pro mat) is chasing big Chris who's been trapped only by Aleksandr Medved, the "dinky" Russians super-heavy who flipped him in Munich's Olympics.

Now, with an Olympic berth and two NCAA titles around his awesome girth, 400-pound Chris must face the music:

—(A) His college eligibility is gone; (B) The Toronto Olympics are three years hence; (C) He's rumored to be a $70,000 annual draw in pro wrestling; and (D) That's a lotta bread no matter how the IRS slices it.

With that in mind, America's most publicized wrestler must answer one question:

—To pro or not to pro?

Where big Chris ultimately turns, perhaps not even Chris knows at this point.

But apparently the All-American Nice Guy (Frank Gifford says so) is in no great rush to decide after ending his record-setting NCAA career for Iowa State's Cyclones.

Taylor, Munich gold medalist Dan

Gable and Everybody Who's Anybody in American wrestling will invade Waukegan this weekend, a town not accustomed to such doings.

Reason for this onslaught of finely honed matmen is the Amateur Athletic Union national freestyle championships. The first of six sessions begins at 1 p.m. today in Waukegan High School's east campus gym.

All the big names will be there, including Gable who won a gold medal on the mat (USSR had nine) in Munich. Sadly for the large crowds expected, glided Dan won't wrestle, just coach a group of 20 entrants from Iowa.

"Gable told me he won't compete," said Larry TenPas, Waukegan wrestling coach who's sharing the headaches for this AAU project with Wally Rucks.

"Maybe we'll be able to talk him out of it," TenPas said of Gable. "He told me no but said, 'I'm in great shape.'"

Even without Gable, this field contains a smashing amount of Olympians, Pan-American Games champs, former NCAA title-wearers and assorted other pretenders to wrestling heaven.

And no wonder. This Thursday through Saturday wrestling, with sessions at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. each day, is the only qualifying tourney for both U.S. World Cup and U.S. World teams.

Bradfield fires 2-hitter in Maine North's victory

Brian Bradfield threw a strong two-hitter and Bill Harrison delivered the game winning hit Tuesday afternoon as Maine North outlasted Highland Park, 2-1.

It was the second win against one defeat for Bradfield who fanned one and walked two during his seven innings on the mound. He allowed just one last inning run.

The Norseman record improved to 2-4 before Wednesday afternoon's home contest with Glenbrook North.

Maine North never trailed against Highland Park, getting a 2-0 lead after two innings on the Little Giants' diamond.

Walks to Dave Helton and Bob DeMarco plus a ground out by Mickey Drewes put the first pair at second and third.

Helton then scored on Eddie Volkman's fielders choice. Bill Harrison singled in DeMarco one batter later.

The 2-0 lead held up until the seventh when a single sandwiched between two walks after one out loaded the bases for Highland Park.

A forceout to Helton at third allowed one run to score and registered the second out. It was all over one batter later when Helton fielded a ground ball and threw to DeMarco to kill Highland Park's rally.

Three times, Maine left the bases loaded and stranded 11 runners all told. "If we'd had any hitting at all, we could have scored quite a few runs," said head coach Dave Kennedy.

North's hits were by Harrison, Bradfield, Helton and Graham Weimer.

The "Focus: Northwest" series is produced by Susanne Havlic for the community relations office of William Rainey Harper College in association with WMM.

YOUR MONEY...

Some people seem to "manage better" than others on their income. In fact, it usually isn't a matter of how much more money is earned, but how it is used, after the initial necessities are provided.

Take the Jones family who somehow manage to have that cabin in the mountains, or the cottage on the lake... while their neighbors, the Smiths, have trouble just keeping up the regular house payments. Jones doesn't make more than Smith, but he drives that sporty little car to work, and just bought a second color TV set. (Smith is still watching black-and-white TV.)

Keeping up with the Joneses may not be all you want in life, but there is a good chance that what is keeping Jones ahead is not running faster but a life-long habit of regular saving.

Cultivate that habit. Open an account with us now, however small. You may get to enjoy it, especially when you put a new color TV into that cottage on the lake. Remember, every day counts when you save at

The Volunteer bureau

Conference will spotlight voluntarism

The Association of Volunteer Bureaus (AVB), will conduct its annual workshop prior to the National Conference on Social Welfare at Atlantic City, N.J., May 26-27.

The conference will continue through June 1. Dr. Eva Shindler-Rainman, behavioral psychologist, and Elizabeth Riley, former president of AVB and now president of the National Conference on Social Welfare, have served on the committee planning the conference.

AVB, which accredits Volunteer Bureaus as having achieved quality programs, continues to set standards and examples for voluntarism through its member bureaus. The Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County, is a member of AVB.

The Workshop days of AVB include discussion of issues such as funding, where the legislation of foundation dollars and the procedures of private, public, and business monetary gifts are explored; staff-volunteer relations, where the definition of a volunteer, the fears of staff, and the importance of a volunteer coordinator are examined; recruiting and training of volunteers including the need for supervision; and the placing of the volunteer who does not fit the job description traditionally presented by social agencies.

The volunteer today is young, old, middle-aged, employed, unemployed, male, female, skilled, unskilled, a decision maker, a task performer, highly educated, lightly educated — all types of people.

THE ROLE of the bureaus in providing channels for volunteers is increasingly strained as the expectation of communities for service rises as well as this expanded view of what is a volunteer. Another area of concern within AVB is the training of Directors of Volunteer Bureaus.

"Voluntarism challenges the monopolistic tendencies of monolithic government by offering alternative ways of meeting common needs. It challenges the sterility of bureaucratic organizations by restoring motivations of common humanity to social undertakings. It challenges the impeccability of the established social order by uncovering its failures in terms of funded needs," says Elizabeth Wickendon of the National Assembly on Social Policy and Development.

Programs such as the Xerox Corp.'s

Social Service Leave Program in which employees of Xerox are allowed a year leave of absence at full pay with full benefits, to "go out and make a personal contribution to better society" are discussed at the workshop.

JAN HORN, executive director of the Youth Service Center in Riverside, Calif., comments "Another problem has arisen when we utilize a volunteer with exceptional ability beyond a reasonable limit and therefore put too big a strain on him. A few times we have yielded to the eagerness of a volunteer to take on too much responsibility and have found ourselves overly indebted to the individual. In each case, the person had personal needs which he was trying to resolve by throwing himself into a project . . . when the agency couldn't continue to meet those needs, feeling of disappointment and rejection arose. We have, therefore, had to be very careful in holding back eager volunteers, to make sure they don't get too tired or over-extend themselves. A team approach avoids the problem, although it takes more time to get the team organized and on its way . . . Another snag we now try to avoid; that is, allowing the volunteer to get involved with fund raising activities that leave him too tired to enjoy the work he volunteered to do. It is very easy to use the same old reliable volunteers over and over again and run the risk of burning them out."

It is at the workshops, too, that criticisms are leveled such as Dr. Sydney Bernard of University of Michigan Social Services Department spoke of, when he said, "Our social service delivery system is terrible. There is increasing talk of agency mergers. There is government legislation that demands that agencies coordinate. No one will coordinate his work if it decreases his autonomy, etc. Congress is unwilling to coordinate their services. The federal bureaus refuse to be coordinated. They all want to do their own thing."

Dr. Richard English, also of the School of Social Services of University of Michigan, said, "We may be moving toward a greater development of . . . informal volunteer efforts . . . social volunteerism."

Men also may have mid-life crises with which to cope

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital widely known for its intensive programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

Men go through a gradual change of life called the male climacterium. During this period of life, which generally is when a man reaches his mid-40s, there is a gradual decrease in his body's production of testosterone, the male hormone.

According to Dr. Leo Jacobs, director of the Forest Hospital Sexual Dysfunction Clinic the male change of life is not necessarily a disruptive process.

"While women face the sudden and distinct cessation of ovarian function in mid-age," Dr. Jacobs says, "men as they age have a very gradual decrease in their testosterone or male hormone level. But many men do face a mid-life crisis."

What happens to a man who is having a mid-life crisis? "Generally he's in his mid-40s and he sits back and appraises himself. He no longer feels like he can rise higher in his work and he realizes his work record has not met those aspirations he had for himself as a young man. He becomes discouraged.

"HE MAY say he's now bored with life. But this is just an excuse. He's afraid that if he becomes introspective he may become aware of the negative underlying feelings he has about himself.

"Many men become depressed or despondent," Dr. Jacobs says, "others stagnate and still others become amorous and take on love affairs as a way of boosting their sense of masculinity."

"The man who is vulnerable to the psycho-social effects of aging is the man whose sense of self-worth is narrowly based. He may identify his worth completely with his earning capacity or his physical or sexual powers and as soon as he thinks this attribute has failed he loses his self esteem."

As a man enters mid-life, according to Dr. Jacobs, he is no less potent than he was as a young man unless he drinks too much and he then fails sexually. Fear may set in and he fails again as he approaches sexual encounters as a testing ground for his masculinity. He may cause himself to become impotent — but this impotence is only a side effect to a real problem of feeling worthless.

Our culture's worship of youth and dread of aging contribute greatly to the mid-life crisis, in Dr. Jacob's view.

Veterans' News

The Veterans Administration estimates 13 million of the 23 million veterans and dependents now receiving pension payments will have their VA pensions reduced beginning in February as a result of the new legislation increasing social security benefits by 20 per cent.

Pensions are paid to veterans and dependents for disability suffered since they were discharged from service. Unlike compensation which is for service-connected disability, pensioners receive amounts depending upon how much other income they receive.

The over-all payment to a veteran drawing both social security and pension is expected to increase the average income of a veteran by about $19 per month as a result of the legislation, even though the VA pension may be reduced. About 20,000 veterans probably will lose their VA pensions entirely, as the social security increase will place them over the statutory limit set for eligibility for a pension.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

In discussing the preparation of the "Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins" with other editors and writers, one inevitable question stands out. "Why were the coins hand illustrated and doesn't this increase the danger of inaccuracy as opposed to the use of photographs?" The assumption is that simply because most coin reference works are supported by photographs, a highly technical publication should employ that principle.

As a matter of fact better than 98 per cent of the coin illustrations used in the encyclopedia were originally photographs worked and reworked through a series of prints and drawings to increase accuracy. To reduce every detail to a basic line illustration, it was necessary to remove clutter resulting from uneven highlights.

CONSTRUCTED properties of an extremely intricate coin design are rarely photogenic. The most accomplished photographer finds it difficult to capture in an enlargement what the naked eye is able to detect in the coin itself. Secondly, mass-production methods used by most mints do everything but compliment a design, which is the main reason collectors prefer "Proofs" to any "Uncirculated specimen," because of the special effort put forth in careful striking. The profiles are usually more distinct and the inscriptions appear to have a sharp, in-depth relief seldom found.

The true beauty of a coin is only found in the coin itself and no amount of retouched photography or highly defined illustrations could possibly reflect it. But it is the responsibility of any reliable encyclopedic reference to incorporate as much authenticity in its supporting artwork as in its text. Consequently, the use of hand-rendered coin illustrations was almost mandatory.

Adolph A. Weinman's Walking Liberty half-dollar is a typical example of what can happen to one of the most beautifully executed designs in American coinage. Many of the general issue were so weakly struck they failed to show that Liberty is actually robed in the flag of the United States. A natural first impression would be to assume that Liberty is superimposed against an unfurled flag when she is in fact wearing it as a drape over her street dress.

THE ACCOMPANYING line drawing eliminates heavy shadows above the shoulders and right arm, and develops the fine lines pronouncing the flag pattern. Everything in this transition is in direct proportion to the original. It is the little things like an extra fold in the garb, the absence or presence of a star contrary to the original design, or an overdate that stirs the imagination.

Added shading techniques plus the application of reeded edges give a bit of life to an otherwise bland illustration.

The second printing of a Revised Edition or the Fifth Printing of the "Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins" contains well over 1,000 handdrawn illustrations plus technical material deemed important to the collector, such as metric measurements; new mintage totals; all three of the Kennedy half-dollars and both Eisenhower dollars.

Orders for your copy of the "Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins" should be addressed to Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. ($10.00)

Stamp Notes...by Bernadine M. Rechner

Harry Truman 8-cent commemorative to be issued

The U.S. 8-cent commemorative honoring Harry S. Truman will be issued May 8 at Independence, Mo., where the 33rd President lived until his death Dec. 26, 1972.

The stamp will be printed on the Giori press and will carry one plate number. It was designed by Bradbury Thompson from a favorite photograph of Mr. Truman's taken by Leo Stern, a Kansas City photographer.

Requests for first day cancellations should be sent to "Truman Stamp, Postmaster, Independence, Mo. 64050" enclosing the proper remittance, which is the cost of the stamps to be affixed.

THE THIRD GROUP of Famous Australians stamps will be released May 16 and include William Charles Wentworth, statesman and explorer; Sir Isaac Isaacs, the first Australian-born governor-general; Dame Mary Gilmore, writer and poetess, and Marcus Clarke, novelist.

Australia has discontinued printing postage stamp booklets and this group of Famous Australians, unlike its predecessors, will be printed in sheet form. The sheet will contain 100 stamps printed set-ten across the sheet — Wentworth, Isaacs, Gilmore and Clarke.

An official, fully serviced first day cover is available for 37 cents (Australian) and a souvenir pack containing all four seven cent stamps will be available for 28 cents (Australian).

Mail orders to Australia should be sent to the Philatelic Bureau, 12th floor, 374 Bourke St., Melbourne, Victoria, Australia 3000.

THE BIRTHDAY of the first postage stamp, Great Britain's famous "Penny Black," is coming up May 6.

The one penny stamp shows the profile of Queen Victoria and was the first government issued stamp, making its debut May 6, 1840.

Because the stamp was for use within England only, the name of the country was not printed on it, it being felt that the portrait of the Queen was sufficient to identify it. In fact, to this day, not one stamp issued in England bears the name of the country.

Postal accounting at the time just previous to the issuance of the first government backed stamp was a complicated system based on distance, number of sheets attached, enclosures, etc. Members of Parliament and Postmasters also had a tendency to abuse their franking privileges by mailing servants, cattle and almost anything else free of charge.

The penny postage became law in answer to the need for postal reform and by 1855 most civilized countries had followed Great Britain's lead in reforming their postal systems and in issuing postage stamps.

TO MKJ of Hoffman Estates: although the photocopy of your stamp is a little hard to make out, it looks to me like the ordinary FDR coil stamp issued in 1968 (Scott No. 1306) to facilitate stamp machines capable of dispensing vertical coil stamps only. In redesigning the stamp for that purpose, the lettering was moved from the right-hand side to the top and bottom of the stamp. Your best bet is to take your stamp to a dealer and let him make a comparison.

Questions? Address Stamp Notes, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Stamps to honor postal employees

Postmaster Gen. E. T. Klassen has announced the design of a unique postal tribute in the form of 10 special postage stamps to honor the nearly 700,000 employees of the U.S. Postal Service.

"These stamps are designed to emphasize to the American people the important duties performed by the men and women who are responsible for moving almost 90 billion pieces of mail a year," Klassen said.

Ten eight-cent commemorative stamps on the same sheet, each depicting a service performed by postal people — from window clerks selling stamps to workers on the workroom floor to letter carriers — will be issued simultaneously at more than 40,000 U.S. Post Offices, stations and branches on April 30.

Klassen also announced the week of April 29-May 5 will be Postal Week.

For the first time in history, the stamps will bear printed matter on the reverse side under the adhesive. The first stamp, for example, shows a window clerk selling stamps and the text reads: "Nearly 27 billion stamps are sold yearly to carry your letters to every corner of the world. People Serving You."

Fifty million of each of the 10 stamps in the series will be printed. Normally 150 million stamps in a commemorative series are printed. The stamps were designed by artist Edward Vebell of Westport, Connecticut.

"We could not depict every type of job performed in the Postal Service," Klassen said. "There are hundreds of vital duties performed in the process of handling our enormous volume of mail." He said the stamps and the Postal Week Observance are both aimed at highlighting the important role performed by postal people as they serve the citizens of the communities where they live."

Cooke views America's 'staying power' on last show

HOLLYWOOD — Alastair Cooke's admired NBC-TV history series, "America," has its final broadcast May 8, and on that program, in a summing up of his 13-part video study of the United States, he says:

"A wise historian usually stops 20 or 30 years before his own time because, like the rest of us, he can't see the wood for the trees. But I have tried in this program to say something about American civilization today because what is fiercely in dispute between the Communist and the non-Communist nations is the quality and staying power of American civilization."

"Every other country scorns American materialism while striving to match it. Envy obviously has something to do with it, but there is a true basis for this debate and it is whether America is in its ascendancy or its decline."

The May 8 finale is entitled "The More Abundant Life," and NBC-TV says it concerns contemporary problems threatening to alter some lasting traits in U.S. society. The spice in the "America" program has been the personal outlook expressed by the British-born Cooke, a distinguished journalist and broadcaster, about his adopted land, the United States. Tuesday, Cooke, a longtime U.S. citizen, devoted his hour to people and places in America that have had special meaning to him. On May 8, in his outlook on American civilization, he adds:

"I MYSELF think I recognize several of the symptoms that Edward Gibbon saw so acutely in the decline of Rome, which arise not from external enemies but from inside the country itself: A love of show and luxury; a widening gap between the very rich and the very poor; the exercise of military might in places remote from the centers of power; an obsession with sex; freakishness in the arts masquerading as originality, and enthusiasm pretending to creativeness; and a general desire to live off the state, whether it's a junkie on welfare or a government-subsidized airline."

"In a word, the idea that Washington — big daddy — will provide."

"Yet I have tried to show that the original institutions of this country still have great vitality. Much of the turmoil here springs from the energy of people who are trying to apply those institutions to forgotten minorities."

"Now, as for our rage to believe that we've found the secret of liberty in general permissiveness from the cradle on, I can only recall the saying of a wise Frenchman, 'liberty is the luxury of self discipline.' And historically those people who did not discipline themselves had it thrust on them from the outside."

"That's why the usual cycle of great nations has been, first: a powerful tyranny broken by revolt; the introduction of liberty; the abuse of liberty, and back to tyranny again."

SPIAKING IN THE May 8 broadcast, from the study of his New York City apartment, Cooke says:

"As I see it in this country, a land of the most persistent idealism and blandest cynicism, the race is on between its decadence and its vitality."

As for "the woes that we share with the world that you can see from your window" — matters such as overpopulation and pollution — Cooke says he "finds it impossible to believe" that a nation that has produced a wide variety of ingenious human beings is going to "sit back and let the worst happen."

"There is now a real possibility that atomic energy can help us to cure incurable disease and preserve our food indefinitely and, through breeder reactors which renew more power than they spend, actually clean the cities and the oceans. And that would take us over a watershed that none of us has conceived."

The one drawback of the "America" series is that its regular broadcast time has been too late at night for many youngsters — 10 to 11 p.m. in the East and West, although an hour earlier in the Midwest. The sponsor of Cooke's 13-part presentation, Xerox Corp., says it hopes to rebroadcast the series at a more suitable time for general, all-around viewing starting in the fall.

Fallen star of 'Boss' asks why

By United Press International
For a few short weeks, it looked like 28 years of clown shows and community theater were behind Larry Gittleman. He landed the lead role of Mayor Richard Daley in the musical "Boss."

It was glorious for half a month. Gittleman, 41, still calling himself a "fat and dimpled kid," got his fat and dimpled face on a page with Frank Sinatra's in Time magazine. And the show hadn't even had a rehearsal.

Now, neither will Gittleman. "I GUESS THEY panicked," he said. "Advance sales were good, it looked like the show would run for a long time. They got scared."

Tuesday they replaced him with a New York actor, Richard O'Neill.

The show's producer, Bill Pullins, said Gittleman didn't care about the role, that he was acting like a star.

"We only had a couple of practice sessions with tape. We only ran through a couple of dances. The show wasn't even together," Gittleman said. "Why, I never spoke a line with one member of the cast."

And besides, he said, "How would I know how a star acts. I've never been one."

ONE DAY he showed up at the theater in a black sweatshirt emblazoned with the words, "His Honor, The Mayor." It was only a joke, he said. "Somebody gave it to me. You know, it was a sweatshirt for rehearsal. Now I'll have to throw it back in my drawer.

"How could they say I didn't want the role?" he said. "Why, it was the biggest plum of my career. Why would I throw it away?"

Didn't he take a leave of absence from his city job tending tropical plants at a greenhouse? Didn't he quit smoking to improve his breath control? Didn't he have a broken tooth cut away in preparation for the role? Didn't that cause him 10 days of agony?

So he'll go back to the clown shows and the tropical plants.

"Listen, I could do worse than children and flowers," he said. "Both give me satisfaction."

So would a few commercials, he said.

The Lighter Side

By Dick West

WASHINGTON — We owe a lot to our brains, you and I. Brains are what keep us from having nervous breakdowns.

Each human brain is equipped with an automatic topostat that is embedded in the occipital lobe somewhere north-north-east of the medulla oblongata.

The topostat determines how much information about any given topic the nervous system can safely absorb. When that level is reached, the topostat cuts off, thus preventing the nervous system from becoming overloaded and subsequently breaking down.

If you know someone who has had a nervous breakdown you may be sure his or her topostat was temporarily out of order.

I HAVE A FRIEND whose trigger word is "Wounded Knee."

"I'm very interested in the situation, but lately when I see that name in print I start thinking about something else," he told me.

Another individual might absorb unlimited quantities of Wounded Knee developments but quickly reach the cutoff point with respect to Daniel Ellsberg, Earl Butz or Watergate. We never know in advance what our capacities are.

I have discovered that my topostat is set way down in regard to art experts explaining the paintings of Pablo Picasso.

I can, and have, spent hours viewing Picasso's works. But as soon as someone starts explaining them to me, as has gone on constantly since his recent death, my topostat clicks off.

In his so-called "blue period," I can only get as far as "blue shows itself as an aspiration to sublimity in the midst of..." Click!

GENERALLY SPEAKING, however, nothing clicks my topostat quicker than Congressional oratory. As in a recent issue of the Congressional Record:

Rep. John M. Zwach, R-Minn.: "Mr. Speaker, in an effort to put current food prices in their proper perspective, we should..." Click!

Rep. Steven D. Symms, R-Idaho: "Mr. Speaker, every once in a while big business crawls into bed with government and..." Click!

Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif.: "Mr. Speaker, millions of Americans in all sections of the country, and all walks of life, were outraged by Jane Fonda's love affair with..." Click!

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.: "Mr. President, an old Chinese proverb states..." Click!

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho: "Mr. President, no wonder there is a breakdown of respect for authority in this country. Just look at..." Click!

Unfinished furniture a budget home decorating boon

Unfinished furniture is a standard item in almost all department stores, discount stores, mail order catalogues and lumber yards. Its appeal is low cost, although a good unfinished piece can cost as much as cheap finished furniture.

At a relatively low cost however, you can put together the furnishings for a study (bookcase, desk, chair), for a child's bedroom (chest of drawers, night stand, chair) or odd pieces for almost any room. There are magazine racks, record cabinets, stands for TV sets or hi-fi equipment. If you are ambitious you can buy tables for dining and matching chairs.

Whether the finished piece looks good or looks like something from a rummage sale depends on the time and care you put into the job. You don't have to have the skill of a cabinetmaker.

FIRST OF ALL, make certain you know what you are getting. Don't assume that the furniture is sold assembled. There are instances where it is sold unassembled. Particularly mail orders.

If you are not handy with hammer and screw driver, buy something that is already put together.

If you must assemble it, check the instructions carefully. Make certain you have all the pieces. Pick the best surfaces and make sure they will end up on the outside.

Most assembly calls for finishing nails and glue. Some require screws. Work accordingly. If using nails, set the nail heads. This means driving the nail head slightly below the wood surface and it is done with a tool known as a nail set. Fill the slight hole with wood filler and sand when dry.

UNFINISHED furniture may feel smooth and ready to finish but it isn't. It must be sanded. Use fine sandpaper, starting with No. 2/0 and ending with

Demonstration day set for libraries

Northwest Suburban churches that have libraries or are planning to start one may attend a demonstration day Saturday to learn about library practices.

The demonstrations will be from 9 a.m. to noon at the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, 686 Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village. The day is sponsored by the Chicago and Chapter of the Lutheran Church Library Association.

Exhibits will include the Society for Visual Education, with audio-visual aids and equipment; Demco, with a demonstration on book mending; Lutheran Bible and Church Supplies, and a class in banner-making.

A roundtable discussion will be conducted to answer questions and give individual aid to beginning or established libraries in any area. Registration will be at the door. Fee for non-members of the association is $1.

4/0. Wipe away all sawdust with a tack cloth or a rag dampened with turpentine. Finishing should be started on the inside surfaces, then move to outside surfaces. Remove all knobs and handles before you start. Do those separately.

If you paint, use enamel. It's durable and can be washed. These features make it ideal for kitchen and children's room furniture. Use an undercoat and brush with the grain. After drying and before applying the finish coat, sand lightly. Natural finishes are desirable because they show off the wood grain. Your choices are lacquer, shellac and varnish.

A STAIN WILL darken the wood and should be applied first. Pick the shade you want, anything from light oak or maple to dark mahogany, and apply.

Brush on and wipe off quickly with rags. How deep the color becomes depends on how long you allow the stain to stand before wiping. Control by applying thinly.

When staining is finished, rub down with clean cloths, then with very fine steel wool. Clean away any residue from the steel wool.

Shellac is the easiest to handle, varnish a little harder but more durable and lacquer the most difficult and the most durable of all. Fast drying lacquers are hard to brush on. Spraying is best.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

We are indebted to our old friend Easley Blackwood for an interesting bit of deception with an amusing result. At least North and South were amused. East and West are still mad.

West opened the four of hearts and East's queen was allowed to hold the trick. East returned the six-spot and West won with the jack after South ducked again.

South had seen plenty of signs of trouble after the heart opening and he used a little false carding for no good reason except that strange things do happen at times. He dropped the five of hearts at trick one and the eight of hearts at trick two.

After his jack held the second heart trick, West was sure that his partner, not South, was holding the three of hearts. West was one of those suit preference addicts and returned the deuce of hearts to tell his partner about the club ace.

He could probably have shown this same suit preference by leading the nine but West was so sure that his partner held that three of hearts that he fell right into South's trap.

Seasonal and regional availability of foods, coupled with a pioneering culinary spirit have plentifully set American tables since the early seventeenth century.

Menus popular when America was just beginning indicate that people relied on the fat-of-the-land to feed themselves with hearty main and accompaniment dishes fitting their rugged lifestyle. Foreign influence and a bountiful supply of produce, seafood, meat and dairy products have played a role in developing American cooking traditions.

The following recipes offer a combination of flavors from the past which have been enriched and adapted to suit our modern tastes.

NEW ENGLAND DINNER

Brisket of Corned Beef
Parsley Potatoes Buttered Carrots
New England Slaw
Cranberry-Apple Pie

4 to 6 tablespoons water	1/2 cup water
	6 cups thin peeled apple slices

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Combine sugar, tapioca and cinnamon. Add cranberries and water. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Remove from heat; stir in apples. Cool slightly. Mrs. John Knudsen

Leftovers are no problem for her

by LOIS SEILER

If leftover ham from Easter dinner still lingers in the refrigerator, you'll welcome Karen Knudsen's recipe for ham balls. A favorite since girlhood days in Iowa when her mother made the ham dish, Karen now uses the recipe regularly, finding it both versatile and economical.

Ham is ground with fresh pork and combined with eggs, milk, cracker crumbs and seasonings. For dinner parties, the mixture is formed into large balls and baked in a tangy sweet-sour sauce. For hors d'oeuvres, Karen shapes bite-size balls and serves them in a chafing dish with the same sauce.

"They are firm, yet tender and absorb the flavor of the sauce," said this good cook. When served as an entree, she suggests a spinach and rice mold with peas and carrots heaped in the center as an accompaniment, or a potato casserole.

"Men especially seem to enjoy the ham balls, and every time I serve them someone requests the recipe," Karen said. "It's one of the few entrees you can serve these days for under $3," she added.

Karen and her husband John, an associate professor of art at Harper College, enjoy giving small dinner parties or holding open house in their Palatine home.

For open house a typical buffet table will include ham balls, asparagus roll-ups, appetizers with dill weed spread, a hot cheese and shrimp dish, fresh vegetables with dip, an assortment of cheese and crackers plus nuts and chips.

"WHEN I FIRST started to entertain I felt intimidated by large groups," Karen commented. "Now, having a larger home and using recipes that can be made in advance, I find it no more work than preparing for a smaller crowd and much more fun."

The asparagus roll-ups may be prepared weeks in advance. An unusual hors d'oeuvre, they consist of canned asparagus spears rolled in bread slices coated with Bleu cheese spread. Frozen until firm, each roll is cut in thirds and baked to a golden brown.

If wrapped correctly, Karen's open-face sandwiches will also freeze well. For these, she cuts bread slices into square or triangular shapes and spreads them with cream cheese seasoned with dill and onion juice. Before serving, each is garnished with a thin slice of cucumber or stuffed olive.

Formerly an English and speech teacher, Karen is now the mother of Mike, 10, and Anne, 7, and channels her talents into extra-curricular activities. The teacher is her main interest, and she is active in Village Theatre productions. She also judges individual speech events for District 214 as well as speech tournaments in the Chicago area. An avid bridge player, Karen enjoys playing with a duplicate group and the Harper Faculty wives.

HAM BALLS

1 pound ground ham
1½ pounds ground fresh pork
1 cup milk
2 cups cracker crumbs
3 eggs
1 teaspoon salt

Have ham and pork ground together. Combine with remaining ingredients. Form into balls, rolling them lightly in flour to form balls more easily. Make 30 to 35 balls for an entree, or approximately 100 small balls for hors d'oeuvres. Place in a 9 by 13-inch baking pan. Prepare the following sauce:

1 cup brown sugar
½ cup cider vinegar
½ cup water
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine ingredients; heat through and pour over ham balls. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees, basting once. Bake the larger balls for 1½ hours; bake smaller ones one hour. Larger ham balls serves 8 for dinner.

ASPARAGUS ROLL UPS

20 slices soft white sandwich bread
1 to 3 ounces Bleu cheese
8 ounces cream cheese
1 egg, beaten in a cup
20 spears canned asparagus
1½ sticks melted butter

Trim crusts off bread. Flatten bread thoroughly with a rolling pin. Blend Bleu cheese and cream cheese, adding just enough egg to make mixture of spreading consistency. Spread mixture on each slice of bread. Roll one asparagus spear in each slice and fasten with toothpicks. Dip into melted butter.

Freeze in single layer on a tray. When frozen, store in a plastic bag. When ready to serve, slice each roll in three parts while still frozen. Remove toothpicks. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes or until brown, turning once. Makes 60 hors d'oeuvres.

DILL WEED SPREAD

1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon milk
½ teaspoon dill weed
¼ teaspoon onion juice
Dash of salt
Sandwich bread

Combine cheese, milk, dill weed, onion juice and salt. Trim crusts off sandwich bread and cut into four pieces — squares or triangles.

Butter bread and spread mixture on it. Can freeze for several weeks if tightly wrapped. Thaw when ready to serve and top each with a thin slice of cucumber or pimiento stuffed olive. Makes about 30 appetizers.

Turkey Whopper Hero

Slim down and shape up with economical turkey

In many ways, turkey can be considered one of the best meat buys any time of the year. It's high in protein and nutrition, low in calories and cholesterol. Turkey is a great way to slim down and shape up. Best of all, it's easy on the budget.

For entertaining the bridge club or a Saturday afternoon luncheon with the family, try hearty hero sandwiches piled high with white turkey meat. You can use leftovers frozen after holiday feasting or you might want to try roasting a small turkey or a whole turkey breast (4 to 7 pounds). Some turkey breasts come smoked, pre-seasoned and/or pre-cooked, so all you have to do is thaw, slice and serve or reheat if desired.

Turkey Whopper Heroes are a meal in themselves. Add a refreshing drink, dessert and the menu is complete.

TURKEY WHOPPER HEROES

9 slices white turkey meat
2 hard cooked eggs

1 green pepper
1 head iceberg lettuce
1 small Bermuda onion
6 slices salami
6 slices American cheese
6 slices corned beef
1 loaf French bread
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon prepared mustard

Split loaf of French bread in half; spread generously with mayonnaise-mustard mixture. Cover bottom half of bread with lettuce; place folded slices of salami, process American cheese, corned beef and sliced turkey meat on top. Tuck slices of hard-cooked egg, onion and green pepper between meats. (Or choose tomato, avocado and red pepper.) The sandwich can have a garnish of pickled yellow wax peppers and pickled sweet red peppers threaded onto long wooden picks, kabab style. To serve, set kababs aside; cover filling with spread top of bread; cut into "sandwich." Makes 6 servings.

Nutritious morning pie

Breakfast no-shows will change their minds and tumble out of bed for morning treat of a Morning Glory Pie. The pie has an orange-sparked filling of cottage cheese and eggs and is high in protein. Added is the nutritiousness of the crunchy crust which contains quick or old-fashioned oats. Make pie the day before and chill it thoroughly. Breakfast is ready in no time. Just top with orange segments, banana slices or strawberries and serve with a glass of milk to round out a nutritious breakfast for all.

MORNING GLORY PIE

Crust:
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1/3 cup butter or margarine
½ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
3 tablespoons cold milk

Filling:
2 cups creamed cottage cheese
3 eggs
2/3 cup sugar

2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon orange peel
1 teaspoon orange juice
Heat oven to 450 degrees. For pastry, sift together flour and salt. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle milk by tablespoonsful over mixture, stirring lightly with a fork until just dampened. Form into a ball. Roll dough out on a lightly floured board or canvas to form a 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into a 9-inch pie plate. Trim, fold edges under and flute. Prick bottom and sides of crust. Bake in preheated 450-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes. Cool. Reduce oven to 350 degrees. For filling, beat cottage cheese on high speed of electric mixer or with rotary beater until fairly smooth. (Some tiny lumps will remain.) Add remaining ingredients; beat until well blended. Pour into cooled crust. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until a knife inserted half-way into the center of the pie comes out clean. Chill. Garnish with fresh orange slices and fresh whole strawberries. Makes 6 servings.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

What the Astor once was to New York, Regency Hyatt House now is to bustling Atlanta, Ga. Tourists flock to see this outstanding bit of hotel architecture, a top show place of America.

They also get a thrill from riding glass-enclosed "rocket" elevators which whisk one up 29 stories with a swift panoramic view of the building and its massive lobby. Then you pop out on the Polaris' blue dome at the top, a new landmark for Atlanta offering visitors a striking view of the sprawling city of 1½ million and hilly terrain where a key battle of the Civil War was fought.

Restaurants of the Hyatt House are excellent and we enjoyed lunching in a ground-floor area called The Clock of the Fives, a rather cavernous but tastefully decorated area which features numerous clocks with all the numerals V's.

From a relatively simple menu in the Clock, we chose Crab Commodore, a tasty cold plate with a zippy dressing. You'll need 1 pound cooked and flaked crab meat and 2 large ripe avocados to serve 4. A less expensive version can be made using water-packed tuna, salmon, or a combination of the two.

TO THE CRAB meat add the juice of ½ lemon, ½ cup very finely diced celery, and a dash of cayenne pepper. Cover and refrigerate at least 30 minutes.

Make a dressing by blending together 4 tablespoons oil, 1 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chill sauce, 4 tablespoons finely chopped green onions, 2 teaspoons horseradish, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, and 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento.

Chill the dressing. Cover individual dinner or large salad plates with lettuce leaves and arrange carrot strips like spokes. In the center place one half of a peeled, seeded avocado. Sprinkle with lemon juice to avoid discoloration.

Now mix crab meat and dressing and serve in four equal portions atop the avocado halves. Decorate with chopped chives and garnish the plate with quarters of hard cooked eggs and black seeded olives.

If using tuna or salmon, which tend to be more dry than crab meat, I like to add 2 teaspoons chopped pickle relish to the dressing.

Saucy asparagus hails springtime

Asparagus Maltaise

Tender, spring-fresh and plump, asparagus spears are a wonderful treat. Serve them with plain butter sauce, or with a little fresh lemon juice. Families will be enjoying fresh asparagus often in these days of such good supplies.

Why not vary the sauce? It makes a different event of asparagus each time it is served.

Asparagus Maltaise has a rich sauce made with egg yolks, butter or margarine, and a touch of fresh orange. It's rather like hollandaise but with the orange variation, touched with a little fresh lemon.

A sauce that makes quite a different dish of fresh asparagus is a Tomato-Sour Cream variety, smooth with sour cream, tangy with fresh tomato, and seasoned with basil and paprika.

Fresh parsley has a taste as springy in its own way as asparagus. Match the two in a Parsley Sauce made with chicken broth, light cream and egg yolks. This sauce has lots and lots of parsley to make it green and herb-like.

Asparagus provides good nutrition. A cup of the vegetable, cooked, provides three-fourths of the daily recommended allowance of Vitamin C, a third of the Vitamin A, and about a tenth of the iron, for an adult.

For signs of good quality when buying asparagus, look for stalks that have a large amount of green, and are firm, with compact, closed tips. Open tips are a sign of overmaturity, and angular or flat stalks are apt to be woody.

ASPARAGUS MALTAISE

2 pounds fresh asparagus
Wash asparagus; break off each stalk as far down as it snaps easily. Cook, covered, in 1 inch boiling water in a large skillet until tender, 5 to 8 minutes. Drain asparagus, and serve immediately with Maltaise Sauce, Tomato Sour Cream Sauce or Parsley Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

MALTAISE SAUCE

3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine (1 stick)
1 teaspoon grated fresh orange rind
3 tablespoons fresh orange juice

Blend together egg yolks, lemon juice and salt in saucepan or top of double boiler. Cut butter into 8 portions. Add half of butter and stir constantly over very low heat or boiling water until butter melts. Add remaining half of butter and continue stirring until butter melts and sauce thickens. Stir in orange rind and juice. Serve with asparagus. Makes approximately 1 cup sauce.

TOMATO-SOUR CREAM SAUCE

1/2 cup chopped peeled fresh tomatoes
1/2 cup sour cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried leaf basil
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon paprika
Mix together all ingredients in top of double boiler. Stir over simmering water until heated. Makes 1 cup sauce.

PARSLEY SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup chicken broth
1/2 cup light cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup finely chopped fresh parsley
Melt butter in medium saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour. Remove from heat; blend in chicken broth and cream. Return to heat and stir constantly until mixture thickens, about 5 minutes. Stir in salt and pepper. In small bowl beat egg yolks, gradually stir a little hot mixture into yolks, and stir yolk mixture back into sauce. Stir in parsley. Heat. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Pineapple chiffon pie 'bakes' in refrigerator

The good cook sees herself as an artist and works skillfully with color and texture, as well as flavor, to produce works of beauty. She often takes special pride in the desserts she creates, as they usually draw the praise from those severest of critics, her own family.

This explains why so many homemakers have more entries in the section of the recipe file labeled "desserts" than any other. If your file could use an addition under "no-fail" pies, take special note of this one for Pineapple Chiffon Pie.

The crust has a butterscotch-like flavor and crunchy texture because it's made with quick or old fashioned oats mixed with brown sugar and butter. The crust is not pre-baked, the ingredients are simply pressed into the pie plate and chilled. This crust teams nicely with other chiffon fillings, too.

The refrigerator "bakes" this pie for you. Beaten egg whites and whipped cream give the filling its frothy lightness, pineapple adds the refreshing flavor.

Pineapple Chiffon Pie is fancy enough for company, and easy enough to enjoy any time.

PINEAPPLE CHIFFON PIE

Crumb Crust
1 1/3 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked

1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/3 cup melted butter or margarine
One 3-oz. package orange-pineapple flavored gelatin
1/4 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped
2 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar

Filling:

One 8 1/2 oz. can crushed pineapple.
For crust, heat oats in a shallow baking pan in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes. Combine oats, brown sugar and butter, mixing until crumbly. Firmly press onto bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate. Chill.

For filling, drain pineapple and place on absorbent paper, reserving syrup. Add enough water to reserved syrup to make 2/3 cup liquid. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add lemon juice and reserved syrup. Chill, stirring occasionally until partially set. Fold in whipped cream until smooth. Chill again until partially set, stirring occasionally.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Add sugar gradually, beat until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites into gelatin mixture. Fold in crushed pineapple. Chill until mixture mounds. Pour filling into chilled crumb crust. Chill until firm. Garnish with sliced maraschino cherries as desired.

Pineapple Chiffon Pie

Beef a la mode. Elegant approach to economical cut

Less expensive cuts of meat can be transformed into attractive dinner fare with the addition of new ingredients.

The following recipe for Beef a la Mode begins with modestly priced chuck roast. Garlic, onions, bay leaf and parsley create a flavorful seasoning effect as the meat simmers gently on the back of the stove.

At serving time simply blend cold-pack cheese into the broth for a delicious gravy.

BEEF A LA MODE

3 pounds beef chuck roast
1/4 pound fat salt pork
Pepper
1 clove garlic, chopped
Salt, cayenne, flour
2 onions, sliced
4 tablespoons bacon drippings
1 bay leaf
1 sprig parsley
1/2 cup club cheese or cold-pack
1/4 cup boiling water

Cut deep gashes in beef. Slice salt pork very thin, rub with pepper and place in the gashes of meat. Rub meat with garlic, salt and cayenne and dredge with flour. Brown onions in bacon drippings, remove onions, place meat in kettle and place onions, bay leaf and parsley over meat. Cover and cook slowly until well brown on other side. Add boiling water, brown on other side. Add boiling water, cover closely and simmer for 3 hours or longer, adding more water as necessary. When ready to serve, blend in Club cheese and use as gravy for the meat.

Corned beef and cabbage rolled into new main dish

Sweet-Sour Cabbage Rolls are a perfect way to treat your family with tender loving care. They take a little effort and a little time but you'll be rewarded with such praise it will be well worth every moment spent.

The corned beef filling is a little different from the usual cabbage roll filling and the tangy peach sauce complements it perfectly.

SWEET-SOUR CABBAGE ROLLS

6 cabbage leaves
½ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 can (12 ounces) corned beef
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon thyme, crumbled

¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup bread cubes (about 1 slice)
1 egg
Butter

Sauce:

1 can (29 ounces) cling peach slices
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon cider vinegar

2 tablespoons catsup
¼ cup chopped green onion
Cook cabbage leaves in boiling salted water for 3 minutes. Drain and set aside. Brown onions in oil in skillet. Add corned beef, crumbling with fork. Mix in garlic powder, thyme, salt, bread cubes, and egg. Put corned beef mixture into cabbage leaves in six equal portions; roll up and place in well greased baking dish. Dot with butter. Bake at 375 degrees (moderately hot) oven for 20 minutes.

Sauce: Drain peaches, reserving syrup. Blend syrup with cornstarch, vinegar, and catsup. Cook until thickened. Add green onion and peaches; heat through. Serve hot over cabbage rolls. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Is housework killing you? It may be a legitimate gripe, according to an investigation of household hazards by the Department of Safety Research of the Combined Insurance Co. of America. While household mishaps are not likely to be fatal, it seems women are taking their share of hard knocks.

Findings indicate that although housewives and mothers tend to be the most safety-conscious members of their families — where others are concerned — they are also the most accident-prone. Most of the danger signs point to the kitchen as the scene of women's most frequent accidents.

Cuts and lacerations are the most common home injuries, according to a year-long survey made by the Delaware Safety Council, with young boys accounting for a third of the damage and their mothers only a little less bloodied.

HINTING THAT the housewife is a bumbling idiot, the researchers concluded the following:

"The family cook and bottle washer also manages to bump her head on cupboard doors thoughtlessly left ajar. She burns and scalds herself through careless use of cooking utensils and appliances. And she slips on grease and other liquids spilled on the floor.

"In other words, she has done a pretty thorough job of booby-trapping herself in her most often used work room."

Perhaps the findings would be altered if the gentlemen would spend more time in the "woman's work room."

The following pointers for preventing accidents were provided by the Combined Co. as well as by the authorities in the U.S. Public Health Service Injury Control Program, the Council on Family Health and the National Safety Council. Accident avoidance can be a family project.

KNIVES SHOULD be kept razor sharp. A dull blade requires more pressure and is likely to slip and gouge. Always slice away from yourself. Store knives in their own drawer or rack. Never hand a person a knife point first; always present him with the handle.

When tending over a hot stove, turn pot handles to the rear to avoid a disastrous collision with what's cooking. Keep dish towels and pot holders away from burners. See that boiling liquids do not run over and avert your face when steam spouts from a bubbling pot. Use tongs to handle frying foods. Keep hands away from burners of electric stoves; they might be on without your being aware of it.

Picking up broken glass or china often poses a problem. First sweep up as much of the debris as you can and put it in a paper bag or wrap it securely so the person who handles your trash will not risk being lacerated. The remaining splinters can be vacuumed away or picked up with a dampened paper towel. Never try to pick up the pieces with your bare hands; wear gloves.

APPLIANCES SHOULD bear the stamp of approval of the Underwriter's Laboratories and should be kept in good repair. Frayed or worn cords should be replaced. Insert only one electrical device into one circuit unless your electrician advises otherwise. Plug the cord into the appliance and then into the wall outlet. Disconnect it in reverse order — from the wall and then from the appliance. Take hold of the plug; don't yank the cord. Never plug appliances into electric light sockets which are intended to handle less current.

Never use a can opener that leaves jagged edges. These can be the source of deep and painful cuts. Always remove the tops rather than bending them back.

Keep your hands out of mixers and blenders when they are in action — if you want to continue to be able to count to 10 on your fingers.

Zesty sandwiches offer a taste of the islands

A zesty combination of flavors make these sandwiches a natural appetizer or snack. Though small because of the size of the rolls, these sandwiches are large in taste appeal.

Petite sesame crisp rolls are browned, then buttered and filled with a most unusual selection of ingredients. The flavor blend is one that's certain to make guests ask for seconds. Vienna sausages, tomato slices, crushed pineapple and a spicy sauce give the sandwiches their taste of the islands.

Small in size, these sandwiches are ideal for serving as appetizers, an accompaniment for luncheon soups or salads or as a mid-day snack with a refreshing drink.

Household hints

For cooking, try dry milk. When buying canned food, remember: The house brand usually will cost less than a nationally advertised brand.

Substitute cabbage for lettuce in salads if lettuce is too costly.

Use old toothbrushes for fine work in scrubbing.

Capt. James A. Lovell, one of the astronauts, says the benefits of exercise cannot be stored for long. They should be renewed each day.

In a food and fitness report prepared for Blue Cross, anthropologist Margaret Mead says she feels one reason so many Americans overeat is because we still plan our three meals a day in the same way they were planned centuries ago, as if they constituted all the food available to us.

In case you didn't know: The typical lean person has about 27 trillion fat cells in his or her body and the naturally obese one has about 77 trillion. What's more, a fat person's fat cells tend to be fatter than a lean person's fat cells. Dr. Jules Hirsch, who bases that say-so on studies, is professor and senior physician at Rockefeller University.

POOR BOY ISLANDER

- 1 package sesame crisp rolls
 - Butter or margarine
 - 9 Vienna sausages, cut lengthwise
 - 2 medium tomatoes, sliced
 - 1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
 - ½ cup catsup
 - ¼ cup mustard
 - 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- Heat sesame crisp rolls according to package directions. Slice in half lengthwise. Spread bottom halves with butter. Top each roll with half a tomato slice, a spoonful of crushed pineapple and a Vienna sausage. Combine remaining ingredients, spoon over sausages. Add top half of roll and heat in 375-degree oven for 10 minutes. Serves 9.

Lunch is picnic

Lunch is a picnic for many students at a New Mexico high school.

Food and Nutrition, a publication of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, says the school reported a 50 per cent increase in student lunch program participation after box lunches were offered as an alternative to the regular cafeteria line.

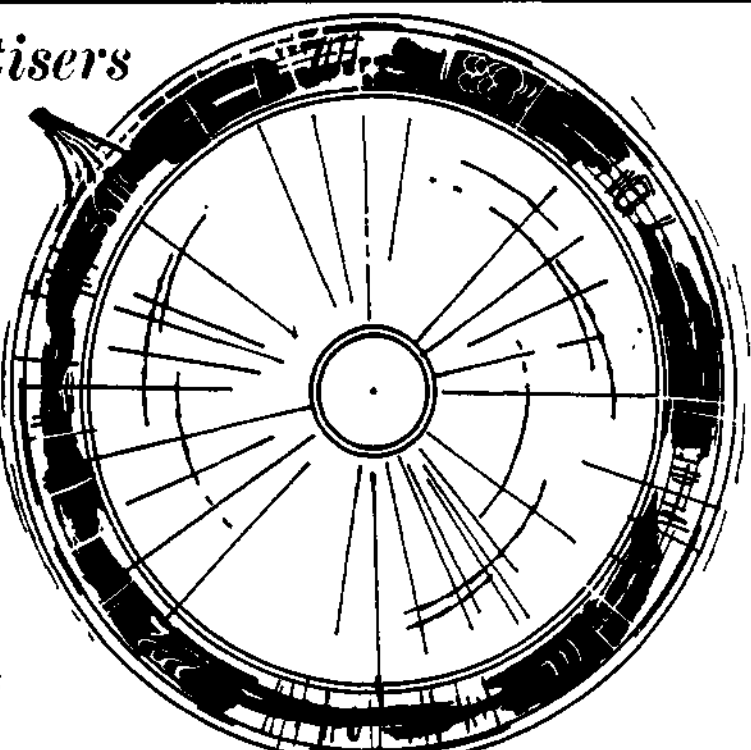

The box lunch counter is self service, which is faster, and it allows students to eat wherever they wish. Outdoor eating is possible the year round in Los Lunas where the high school is located, 30 miles south of Albuquerque, so many students lunch under trees on campus or in their cars while listening to the radio.

School officials said they started the box lunch program after asking the Student Council what lunch skippers griped about. The answer was, Lack of choice in the cafeteria line, waiting to be served, the necessity for eating in school and being told to eat certain foods because they're good for you.

A typical box lunch contains a roast beef sandwich with barbecue sauce, potato salad, cherry tomatoes, celery sticks, fruit pie and a half pint of milk.

The project proposal was generated by the Southwest Region School Food Service Seminar at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kan.

Furnishings that lessen moving woes

by FRAN HECKART

Americans are nomadic, declare James Hennessey and Victor Papanek. Movers themselves, the two are authors of "Nomadic Furniture," a delightful catalog of furniture designed to make moving less painful.

A typical American is said to move about every two to three years on the average. The authors of this Pantheon publication define the problem thusly: "We can buy furniture, build it or inherit it. All of it is bulky, heavy, often fragile and always a bitch to move."

"Nomadic Furniture" is a collection of furnishings you can build yourself easily, or buy or adopt with instructions on what to buy or make and where. All of it can be folded or knocked down, stacked, inflated or (ecologically responsibly) recycled or thrown away.

The writers seem to have a way with the obvious. Perhaps the real value of the book is that it will enable all nomads to have more by owning less, they say.

A BUILD-IT-YOURSELF "resource tower" is one example. The "tower" is made of eight units, each 2 x 2 x 4 feet, and is designed to organize living space in a radically different way. Usually we put bookcases and storage walls all over the room's wall. The "resource tower" suggests getting it all together in the center of the room as an interesting alternative.

The writers use the same practical approach to all types of functional furniture. Take seating. Once again Hennessey and Papanek say the most obvious and rational, "Seating can be divided into those chairs that make sense for eating and working at a table or desk, these that are good for relaxing and lounging, those that combine both functions . . . specialized chairs and seating that accommodate more than one person (love-seats, sofas, etc.)"

All nomads have discovered that most seating (if comfortable) is bulky, heavy and hard-to-move.

"Dining chairs" which also work as desk chairs can be bought cheaply enough ($3-$6) at the Goodwill or Salvation Army so you should not try to build one. When ready to move, recycle them back to Goodwill or to friends.

INEXPENSIVE DIRECTORS' chairs will do double duty. They're comfortable for relaxing, lounging and entertaining, but they can also be used as dining chairs when moved to the table . . . a very low one.

Beanbags, fibre-barrel chairs, "tub" sofas, corrugated cardboard chairs, simple chipboard chairs that can be upholstered can be built. However, many of the instructions included require a rather ingenious carpenter-like mind. Exact measurements are provided, but some of the "how-to's" become a bit detailed for beginners.

Instructions for a beanbag chair are included. However, they may be purchased on sale for about $20 so one should carefully consider the time and cost of materials involved before dashing out to buy Styrofoam pellets.

The authors discourage the use of inflatable furniture with well-founded criticism.

THE ONLY THING inflatable seems to have going for them is that they are "trendy" right now, according to the Nomadic experts. They list the following faults admitting the basic idea of collapsibility is good but as of now: "they are inconvenient, put people too close to the floor, squeal like suckling pigs at slaughtering time when rubbed and have tendencies to spring leaks and blowouts. They are also hot to sit on for any length of time."

One chapter covers the problem of storage. And once again the authors are hitting us with the crux of the matter. "The simplest way to cut down on storage is to own less." From a nomadic view, the less we own the less we have to move.

The writers began the storage research by re-evaluating their possessions finding that nearly everything could be divided into three piles.

First, those things that "one cannot live without." Clothing, bedding, dishes, of course, but other things fill real needs too. Books, records, tapes, ceramics, paintings, flowers, prints, woven hangings are also essentials for living.

THE SECOND PILE consists of things we can do without easily. The seven or eight clocks (when one is enough), the carving set used once a year or so, and those things we only think we need. Is a well-appointed darkroom really necessary when there are better ones at the YMCA, the local college and every other church basement?

Third, there's the pile of those things over which you have "custodial care." Grandmother's grandfather clock, a chair by Frank Lloyd Wright, Uncle Albert's favorite easy chair. Check your residence; you'll find them lurking like the ghosts of relatives themselves.

"On this last category we cannot advise you," say the shrewd writers. "For ourselves: It's all in 'dead storage.'"

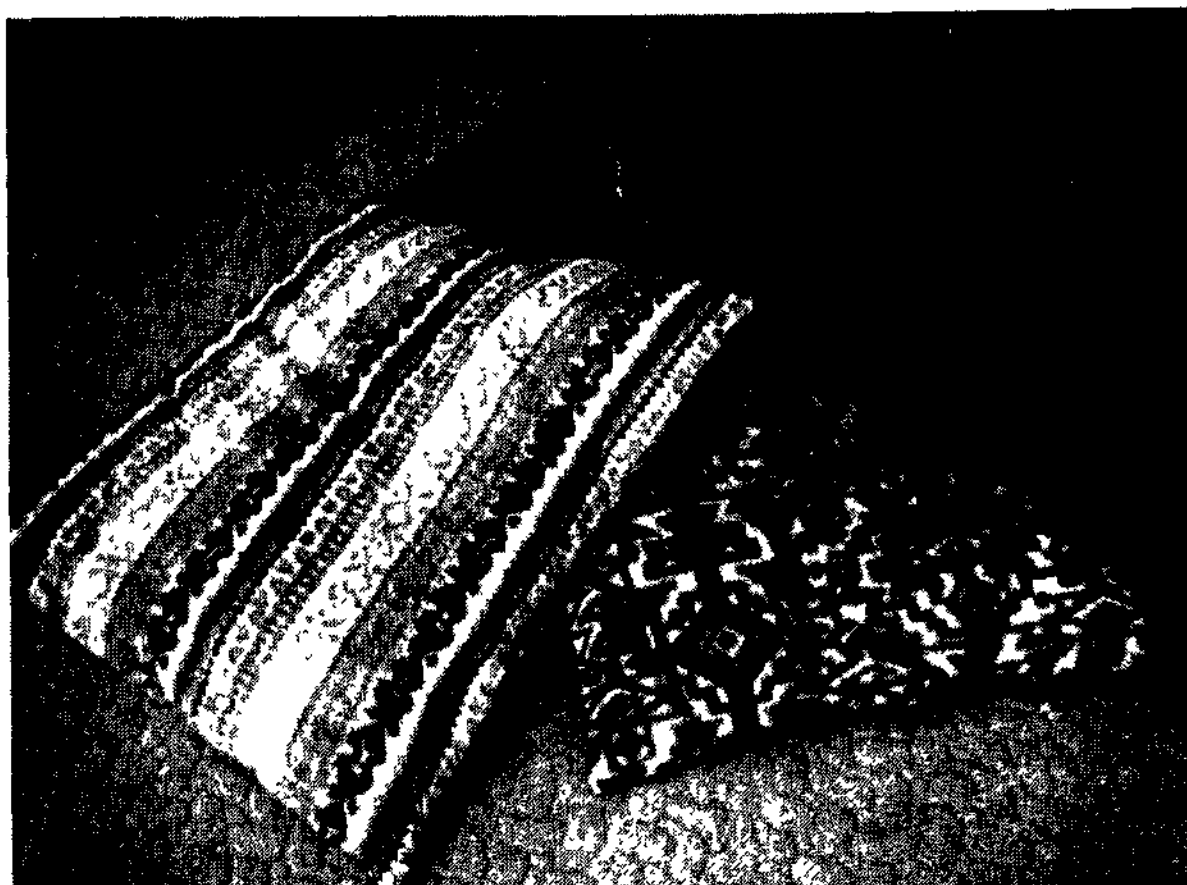

Fresh ideas for storing what you need include suspended bookshelves of hemp canvas, orange crates for books and records, cubes and dishpans on tracks to substitute for drawers.

HUMAN MEASUREMENTS (so your furniture fits), eating and working units, sleeping light, and accommodations for babies and children are all covered from the nomadic viewpoint.

Perhaps the best thing about this book on highly portable furniture is that it approaches moving rationally. We all move so why not make the best of it and adjust to flexible furnishings?

"Nomadic Furniture" is by no means a complete reference, but it does provide ideas from which to build others with diagrams, instructions and photos abounding.

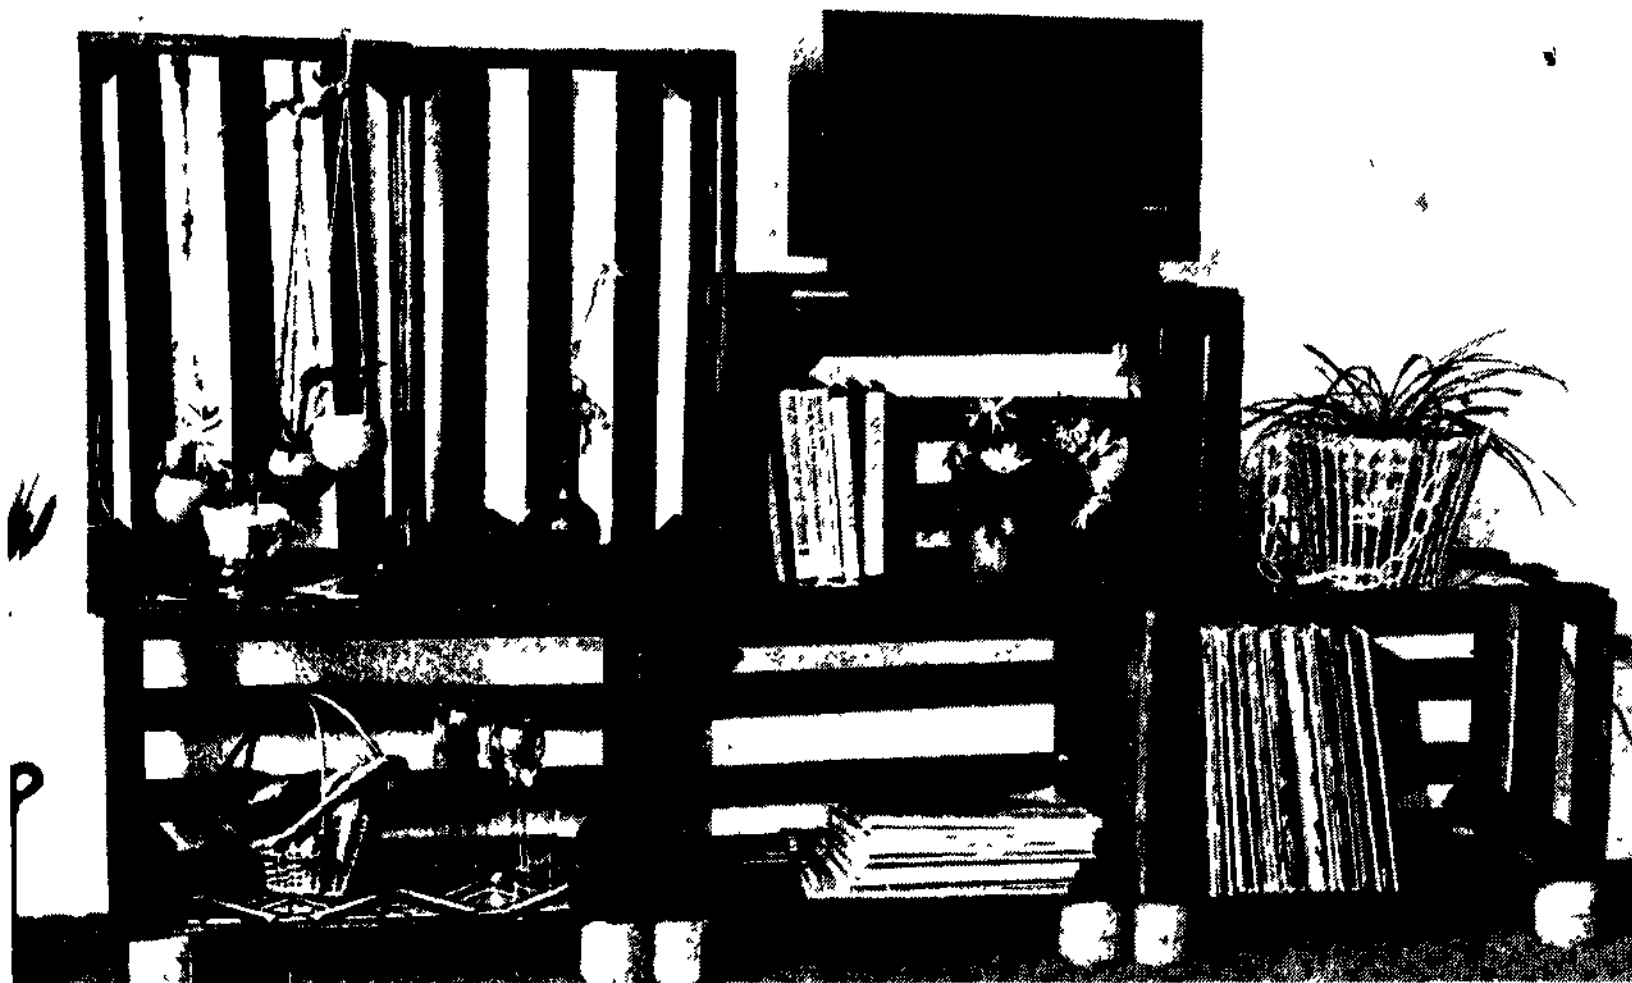

At last, someone has written a book which offers direction to all nomads.

FUZZY FLOOR PILLOWS are great for nomads with no chairs. They can be made in an evening for less than $10. Select desired size (as big or as small as you like), purchase fabric and sew — machine or hand — three sides and half of the fourth. Stuff with washable Dacron filling, foam rubber, feathers, old nylons, rags or just about anything but rocks and hand-stitch the gap. Plush, corduroy, canvas, fake fur or any durable fabric may be used for the cover. If you plan to wash the covers often, it's best to make a lining and add a zipper.

Suburban Living
ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

CANTALOUPE CRATES from the local supermarket do double duty. At home they provide a functional wall unit for books and records. Come moving time, simply pack them as you would boxes. This unit cost $2 as walnut stain was applied (one quart will cover five crates easily). However, paint or any color stain may be used.

Heavy corrugated cardboard was covered with Contact paper for liners since skinny possessions will fall through the slats.

Controlling pests

Are you bugged?

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) — One thing about high-rise living — you don't have the insect problems that bother the suburban homeowner. Or do you?

While you're unlikely to find many termites — or even mosquitoes — the poshest penthouse may have its bugs.

Dr. David L. Watson, chief entomologist for Velsicol Chemical Corp., Chicago, says: "Once in New York a pest control technician found a colony of German cockroaches on the 56th floor of the Empire State Building."

"If you have something these insects need — food, or in some cases, fabric — they'll find a way to get to you, so it's a good idea to know what to do about them."

Watson named several insect pests which can give high-rise occupants as much trouble as they give homeowners.

- Roaches
- Carpet beetles
- Silverfish
- Cereal beetles, such as the confused flour beetle and the saw-toothed grain beetle.

THERE ARE more than 50 types of roach in the United States, but only four are a big problem, Watson said. These are the American Cockroach, the German cockroach, the Oriental and the brown-banded roaches. Of these, the German roach is the one most likely to succeed in greeting you some evening in the kitchen of your 87th floor apartment.

How did he get there? Probably by crawling up a drainpipe or waterpipe. Or, he might have hitched a ride in a bag of groceries.

Besides eating things, Watson said, they soil fabrics, carry filth — along with bacteria — all over the apartment. And they smell. All good reasons for getting rid of them.

If there is a serious, continuing problem, he advises, check into the way the building management handles garbage. See if there is any accumulation in the basement or in alleys.

THE SAME THING applies if there is a restaurant in the building. Food storage is a factor, and the restaurant should have a continuing contract with a pest control company for year-round control.

For your own part, he recommends, begin by observing good housekeeping rules, particularly in the kitchen. Clean thoroughly every evening, leaving no dirty dishes overnight. Keep shelves and pantries free of crumbs, and store leftovers in tightly covered containers. If there's no food available, roaches are wasting their time visiting you.

Just for good measure, you might wish to spray under kitchen cabinets, the sink, along baseboards and drainpipe openings with an insecticide containing chlordane or diazinon, following manufacturer's recommendations.

For a serious infestation, or for help in matching the right insecticide to the particular roach, contact a professional pest control company. They are listed in the yellow pages under "pest control" or looking for a firm that advertises its membership in national and state pest control associations as one indication of a reputable company.

ANOTHER formidable insect pest that likes high living is the carpet beetle. There are several species, all looking alike except for color, which ranges from mottled yellowish and reddish brown to black. Adults are about 1/4-inch long, and do no real harm. It's the grubs that do the damage to carpets and rugs. The black carpet beetle grub is most destructive. Another variety — the furniture carpet beetle — is partial to upholstery.

The grubs eat neat holes in fabric, or tunnel through piling. Fibers may fall out when fabric or carpets are vacuumed.

To banish them: —Vacuum thoroughly, particularly under sofas, tables and wherever there is no traffic. Do this regularly and you'll get rid of many eggs and grubs. Dry cleaning the rug will destroy any insect life remaining.

—Look for areas where lint has accumulated, such as floor cracks, registers or cold air returns, along baseboards, all excellent breeding places.

—Spray with an insecticide containing 2 per cent chlordane along the edge of floor and baseboards, and on the floor under the edge of rugs.

ONE THING the "confused flour beetle" isn't confused about is its taste for flour, cereals, spaghetti, macaroni, nut meats, cocoa and other chocolate. Watson said. Often these insects get into food products in the processing plant or at the warehouse or grocery.

In the case of an infestation, thoroughly wash cabinets, then apply a 2 per cent solution of chlordane. Let it dry, and apply shelf paper.

Silverfish are thin, silvery, wingless insects, about 1/2-inch long, with two long feelers and three long tailfilaments. To get rid of silverfish, use a household spray containing chlordane, malathion or diazinon, Watson suggests. Apply it to baseboards, door and window casings, closets, and places where waterpipes, drains or other pipes go through walls or floor. One application might not be enough. You may have to spray several times at intervals of about two weeks.

Home program increases kids' IQs

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

FREEMONT, N.Y. (UPI) — Next to a firehouse here is a plain building housing Dr. Phyllis Levenstein and staff, including toy demonstrators.

Since 1967, working with some money from Uncle Sam and a little more from foundations, Dr. Levenstein and team have been doing a remarkable thing — raising the IQs of poverty-belt children by about 17 points. Preschool children. Two- and 3-year-olds. With toys and books. In their homes with mother's help.

An independent and very searching evaluation of the results of the so-called mother-child home program directed by Dr. Levenstein shows the increase in IQ holds up when the boys and girls go to school.

This is considered amazing. Some other preschool programs in the poverty belt across the nation have raised IQs, but the increases have tended to be erased once the children went to school. They backslid.

THE SPONSORING agency for the mother-child home project is the Family Service Association of Nassau County Inc. Dr. Levenstein, mother of two college students, brought to the project her theories about the need for the right toys in a preschool child's life. She also brought more than 25 years' experience in teaching and psychology — clinical and research.

The toy demonstrators or intervenors as they are called are paid and volunteer. They go into homes of families that volunteer to participate. They show the mother with the child what to do and how to do it. Project workers knock on doors and ask families to volunteer.

"What this is all about," Dr. Levenstein said in an interview, "is the prevention of educational disadvantage. It is also about enhancing the happiness of a little human being by helping his or her psycho-social growth."

There isn't much can be done to measure the psycho-social growth — aside from registering smiles on a child's face and the spring in his walk. But the tests showing IQ advancement that holds up when children go to school prove that the mother-child program corrects an educational disadvantage.

DR. LEVENSTEIN said the unique program, which is being copied as a pilot project in nearly two dozen communities nationwide, differs from Headstart in that it is home-based.

Dr. Levenstein said this is most important.

Psychologists have shown that the motherforce, as it is called, is strongest on children between the ages of 2 and 4. Said another way: A child has the biggest impressions from a mother. A child during this period is most receptive to learning from a mother.

The program drawn up and directed by Dr. Levenstein takes advantage of this natural fact.

About half a million dollars has been spent so far to demonstrate the soundness of Dr. Levenstein's theories. Right now the project is awaiting an okay on $150,000 in additional funds from the National Institute for Mental Health Center for the Study of the Child and Family.

IT IS DR. LEVENSTEIN's hope that once the other demonstration projects duplicate her center's findings the mother-child home program for poverty row children will be available to families wanting it.

That all of this works is in a report done for the U.S. Office of Education by the American Institute for Research in the Behavior Sciences.

Alpha Gam Reunion Day at the Towers

More than 900 alumnae of Alpha Gamma Delta, international fraternity for college and university women, have been invited to International Reunion Day to be held Saturday at Arlington Park Towers. Festivities will begin at noon with registration and a social hour followed by a luncheon at 1.

Members of Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club will act as official hostesses this year and will present a program full of college memories that recall names of Alpha Gammas and events of the past. Highlighting the program will be a tribute to Lambda Chapter, Northwestern University, as it celebrates its 60th year on campus.

Mrs. T. D. McCormick of Mount Prospect is general chairman of the Reunion Day events. Members of her committee include Mrs. James Holder, Palatine, decorations; Mrs. T. G. Flake, Arlington Heights, invitations; and Mrs. James Smith, Mount Prospect, program chairman.

ALPHA GAMMA Delta was founded in 1904 at Syracuse University, and this day celebrates the founding of the fraternity. Chapters, clubs and individual members will gather together all over the world on this date to renew friendships. Those clubs present will be Chicago City Club, DuPage Area Club, Fox Valley Club and West Suburban Club. Members from Lambda Alumnae Chapter and Lambda Undergraduate Chapter are also planning to attend the Reunion Day festivities.

Among those planning to attend who have been active internationally are Mrs. H. H. Barker, Mount Prospect, editor of the Quarterly, the Alpha Gamma Delta magazine; Miss Jeanne Heidler, Riverside, province president; Mrs. L. J. Barrett, Palatine, province secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. C. R. Swinehart, Chicago, past third grand vice president.

SINCE ITS FOUNDING, Alpha Gamma Delta has installed 108 chapters, has over 230 alumnae organizations and a membership of more than 50,000. Through the Alpha Gamma Delta Founders Memorial Foundation, which administers all of the altruistic and scholarship grants, undergraduates and alumnae work actively to provide funds for educational and charitable purposes. Twelve scholarship grants are made available annually to both undergraduate and graduate members of Alpha Gamma Delta.

One of the first social fraternities to adopt an altruistic project, Alpha Gamma Delta has, since 1919, donated annually to camps for underprivileged children and to provide advance training for counselors giving vocational guidance to handicapped people.

A symposium for cleft palate research is sponsored annually at Syracuse University and in 1962 a library was established at the Hearing and Speech Center at Syracuse. In 1964, the Alpha Gamma Delta Rehabilitation Project was established. This involves training grants to colleges and universities for psychologists and educators interested in minimal brain dysfunction, and various other grants in the field of rehabilitation.

NIU symposium set for May 3

Northern Illinois University at DeKalb will sponsor its annual symposium for women Thursday, May 3, under the continuing theme, "American Women: Crossroads for Change in the '70s'."

Two panel discussions are on the afternoon program, to be held in the Skyroom on the 18th floor of the University Center. An evening banquet will be held at 7 p.m. at Kishwaukee Country Club on Sycamore Road.

The first panel, entitled "An Encounter with New Dimensions in the Voluntary Sector," is scheduled from 1:15 to 2:50 p.m. Speakers will be Mrs. Vee Timlin, director of the Voluntary Action Center, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Margorie Wood, director of the Council for Community Services, Chicago.

The second panel from 2:45 to 4 p.m., entitled "An Encounter with New Dimensions in the Legislative Sector — a Political Happening," will have as speaker Mrs. Henry W. Maier, wife of the mayor of Milwaukee.

Speaker for the evening banquet is to be announced.

Price for the total package is $6, payable by May 1 to Northern Illinois University, Conference Bureau, University Center, Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Ill. 60115. Afternoon sessions only are $2; banquet only, $5.25.

Registration is at 1 p.m.

For moms who see double

The Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area may not be able to boast of quintuplets, but it does have its share of twins — so many, in fact, that these busy mothers with double pleasures and problems are seeking to form a mothers of twins club right in their own area.

In a single block in Hanover Park that borders on Schaumburg there are three sets of twins and just within walking distance of Mrs. Henry Cornet's home at 921 Yorkshire Drive are three more.

Mrs. Cornet, who has 16-month-old identical boys, will be hostess Tuesday, May 22, for an organizational meeting of the new club which will eventually be chartered into the state organization. Members will also be residents of Palatine, Streamwood and all areas not served by Double Dyde Mothers of Twins Club which has been active in the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area for more than a decade.

MEETINGS OF the new group will be educational with doctors, adult twins and other guest speakers sharing their experiences and knowledge with the mothers. Family picnics and dances will be included in the social activities. The club will also maintain a library with helpful information on the rearing of twins.

All mothers of multiple births are invited to the organizational meeting and to join the club. Those interested may call Mrs. Cornet at 289-3484.

The conference is open to anyone involved in planning women's programs, including colleges, universities and non-profit organizations. A registration fee of $10 includes lunch.

Enrollment is limited, according to Doris Voelz, conference chairman and project director of women's programs for College of DuPage. Registration should be mailed with check payable to College of DuPage to seminar secretary, office of admissions, College of DuPage, Glen Ellyn, Ill. 60137.

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

Have you ever found yourself stuck with unsatisfactory merchandise? And had to continue making payments to the bank or loan company because they said your beef with the merchant was none of their affair?

If so, the Federal Trade Commission would like to hear about it. They will be holding public hearings on consumer credit and installment problems May 7-9 at 10 a.m. in the LaSalle Hotel, 10 North LaSalle St., Chicago.

If you are not able or willing to give oral testimony, you may simply send in a written statement detailing the problem you experienced.

The hearings are in connection with a proposed regulation that would permit consumers to stop payment on unsatisfactory merchandise or services financed by installment sales, through a bank or loan company, or with credit cards. The consumer would have the legal right to the same defenses against creditors as against the retailer.

AS THE LAW stands now, the consumer has no legal recourse in this situation. He has no leverage on the retailer.

Making payments on poor goods? Tell the FTC to obtain adjustment on the merchandise, and if he retaliates against the bank or loan company by stopping payments, they can haul him into court.

The proposed regulation would also forbid credit card issuers from requiring consumers to waive their legal rights in credit card transactions. Most credit cards now include such a clause in the fine print, which means you must pay your credit card bill even if the merchandise you bought with the card is unsatisfactory.

If you have had an experience along these lines, contact Jerome Lamet at the Federal Trade Commission, 55 E. Monroe St., Suite 1437, Chicago, Ill., 60603; phone number is 353-4430.

Ever since the days of snake oil and Lydia Pinkham's pills, Americans have been devoted medicine takers — even in the face of mounting evidence that a great many patent medicines are considerably less effective than their advertiser's claim.

Perhaps the greatest loyalty of home remedy-seekers has been to cold cures and pain relievers. But the Federal Trade Commission has been steadily chipping away at the credibility of the claims made for these drugs.

In calling for ad substantiation from 18 manufacturers of 25 cough and cold remedies, the FTC has so far received over 3,000 pages of data — much of which the FTC reports "little more than plays on words." The agency offers these examples:

—A "miracle cough suppressant as effective as codeine, but non-narcotic" is really a common ingredient contained in almost every cough remedy sold.

—The "fever reducer" of a popular sinus tablet is really just plain aspirin, five grains per tablet, the same amount found in ordinary aspirin tablets.

—There is no difference whatsoever between "summer" cold tablets and regular cold tablets.

—Some cough syrups, including a "night time" syrup, contain up to one-quarter alcohol.

—SOME "children's" cough syrups contain 10 per cent alcohol.

ALTHOUGH THE FTC has made no official judgments concerning the ad substantiations, officials say off the record that much of the documentation seems insufficient.

The agency has also ordered the makers of the pain reliever Vanquish to stop advertising that Vanquish is "more effective in relieving pain than aspirin or buffered aspirin" and that it will "cause gastric discomfort less frequently than any other non-prescription internal analgesic not containing buffers."

In addition, future advertisements must disclose that Vanquish contains caffeine and aspirin, which can be injurious to persons with certain medical conditions and may cause undesirable side effects. Aspirin and caffeine have been found to be the major ingredients of nearly all over-the-counter pain relievers, despite their specialized claims.

Whether they're buying medicine, cosmetics, or baby equipment, consumers tend to equate a higher price with better quality. But it's just not necessarily so — certainly not in any of these categories.

A report filed this week by UPI auto writer Edward S. Lechtzin points out that the only three infant auto seats judged acceptable by Consumers Union are all considerably less costly than seats that were judged poor.

The CU-approved seats are the General Motors Infant Carrier, which sells for about $13, Ford's Tot Guard, $20, and Sears' child safety harness — less than $10. But two infant seats rated poor by CU retail for $40 and $50.

ALL OF THE seats tested by CU met government safety standards — which many safety experts believe are inadequate. According to the National Safety Council, nearly 1,000 children under age 5 are killed and about 60,000 are hurt each year in automobile accidents.

Safety experts believe many of these deaths and injuries could be averted by proper restraints. But even if better grade restraints become available, it is incumbent upon parents to buy and use them, an inclination few seem to have. In the last six years, Ford and GM combined have sold only around 175,000 seats.

Registrations still accepted for weekend analysis sessions

Couples and individuals may still register for the Transactional Analysis Weekend, May 4-6, at Greenerfields Unlimited, continuing education center at 318 Happ Road, Northfield.

Theme of the workshop is "Change." TA, a theory of human behavior, is used to facilitate that change. Dr. Ted Novey, an example of change himself with a Ph.D. in physical chemistry and an M.S. in counseling psychology, will conduct the workshop. He is a clinical member of the International TA Association.

Fee for the weekend workshop is $48 per person or $90 per couple.

A TA LIFE SCRIPT Workshop for women will begin May 18 at Greenerfields. The three-day workshop will identify the roles women are expected to play and will help participants re-script their lives. Women will have an opportunity to support each other in making the changes they wish.

The course will be conducted by Muriel Adler, a psychologist with advanced training in TA. Fee is $48 per person.

Brochures containing information on the weekends and on four summer courses are available at the Greenerfields office, 446-0525.

AACW vicariate spring lunch

The ughcdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, Vicariate 1, invites all women in the vicariate to a spring luncheon Wednesday, May 16, at Lancer's Steak House, Schaumburg. Vicariate 1 membership includes all parishes in Lake County and northwest suburban Cook County.

The luncheon theme will be "Peace," and red carnations with white doves will be used as table decorations. Wheeling High School's contemporary singing group New Dawns, will present the musical entertainment.

Members of the luncheon committee are Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Hoffman Estates, Mrs. Robert Rebmam and Mrs. Robert O'Reilly, Elk Grove, and Mrs. Nick DiGiola and Mrs. John Trunda, Wheeling.

The luncheon will begin with cocktails at 11:30, followed by serving at noon. Admission is $5 and reservations are due Monday with Mrs. O'Reilly, 439-2232. Lancers is located on Algonquin Road at Meacham Road, Schaumburg.

Leisurely lunch, better health

BONN (UPI) — The busy executive who grabs a bite at his desk is going to be sick more frequently than the man who insists on taking a more leisurely noon meal at a restaurant.

So say physicians who surveyed 31,476 men and women on behalf of the Baden-Wuerttemberg Ministry of Labor and Welfare.

Men and women who bring sandwiches to work and eat them hurriedly at their desk or workbench, or who lunch quickly at their office canteen, are the most frequent applicants for sick leave, the physicians said in their study.

Those who leave their place of employment to eat in restaurants or at home are healthier, they said.

The study also showed that the frequency of sickness increases with the length of time an employee travels to and from work each day.

HAND TOUCHES HAND across the globe as Church Women United plans a May Fellowship Day luncheon at Harper College Friday, May 4. Among the women to be honored for giving a helping hand to others are Mrs. Melvin Born of First Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights (seated); Mrs. H. L. McCaskey, Christ Lutheran Church, Palatine; and Mrs. Donald Hoeck, Community Presbyterian Church, Mount Prospect.

Church Women United salutes volunteers at May 4 luncheon

May Fellowship Day will be celebrated by Church Women United on Friday, May 4, saluting women who reach out to help others in their own communities as well as those all over the world.

The Northwest Cook County unit will have a luncheon that day at Harper College, honoring women from Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox churches in the area who have been serving as volunteers for all types of agencies.

Mrs. Esther Rabchuk, director of the area wide Volunteer Service Bureau, will speak on the topic which sets the theme for the day, "As Hand Touches Hand."

THE BUREAU is instrumental in bringing together the approved agencies needing help and the volunteers who want to serve in some capacity.

Since the first May Fellowship Day observance in 1933, it has been traditional for church women across the country to use the first Friday in May to emphasize the creative and healing relations possible among people in every community.

This year's celebration will honor volunteers from local units who have initiated programs in health care, education for adults and children, and services to the aging and the imprisoned.

Volunteers are also working as monitors of legislation, as advocates for self-help programs, and as educators in the areas of consumerism, ecology, peace building, international trade and human rights.

IN ADDITION, for the past eight years Church Women United has been a major partner in WICS (Women in Community Service), which is the nationwide coalition of women's groups dedicated to helping young women from poverty backgrounds to achieve a fuller life.

Reservations for next Friday's luncheon (May 4) should be made this week by contacting Marion Born, 253-0876, or Ethel McCaskey, 358-0052.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I love lilacs but can't seem to keep them fresh for longer than a day. I'm sure there's some way to keep lilacs — or any other cut flowers, for that matter — fresh for some days, but what's the trick? — Georgia Wynn

Obviously you haven't been introduced to the mashing technique. I was "educated" to it by Mary Helen Byck, who has a talent with growing things. You crush the lower part of the cut branch with a mallet or hammer so that water will go into the branch easier. Florists do this with all woody branches — dogwood, laurel, lilacs, even certain mum plants.

I've been experimenting lately with keeping fresh flowers longer, pouring equal parts of water and a lemony soft drink into the vases. Seems to me the flowers last longer, but I'm well aware that imagination is a powerful thing when one wants a thing to be so, and I'm waiting for further, longer testing.

Dear Dorothy: I also have a suggestion for pulled threads on a looped carpet. I save scraps for that purpose from newly laid carpet.

In case long, pulled threads cannot be crocheted back into the canvas backing with a crocheting needle, use a regular needle and the same color thread as the carpet. Make your own loops from threads pulled from the carpet scraps and sew the bottom of each loop onto the carpet canvas. Glue and cut-up threads only work on a cut-pile carpet. — E.J.

Dear Dorothy: Just a hint for those who are always counting calories. A mixture of French-style green beans and green spinach noodles offers twice the bulk with half the calories. A sprinkling of Parmesan cheese and diet margarine completes the dish. — Pearl F. Schwartz
(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

With Easter out of the way, it gives me full throttle to the project at hand — getting my garden plants growing.

Many new seed-starting products have been developed in recent years to help combat the problem of growing failures and dirt and mess attending this venture.

This year I'm using every device as a means to the end, beginning with starter cubes (they have peat, nutrients and binders married together), peat pellets and other helpers.

If you try peat pellets, remember to plant two seeds in every pellet. If they both germinate, pinch off one seedling. Peat pellets (also called Jiffy-Sevens or One-Steps) sell for about $4 a hundred.

THE JIFFY SEED starter greenhouse ($2.95) is an ingenious inexpensive kit of the house, so they will be able to survive when the time comes to move them outside.

You can make a cold frame right outside your patio door that will get the heat from your foundation, and be portable enough to be moved away when sunbathing season puts the patio to use again. Collect an old window or four wooden boards and a large piece of fibreglass. The addition of heat cables will keep more heat in and the cold out.

WEATHERPROOF tomatoes with a Tomato Gard (Park Seed Co., Greenwood, S.C., sells them $2.50 for three) or an "outdoor greenhouse" ($2.65 each from same source). The greenhouse is five feet long, one foot high and one foot wide. Both the greenhouse and the To-Operating a power tool?

Make sure you know how to use it

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Do-it-yourself, long a way of American life, is far more sophisticated these days than just hammer and saw, paint brush and wallpaper paste.

Millions of power tools are in use across the land in the hands of amateurs — some skilled, others more eager than knowledgeable. Saws of all kinds shear through thick stock in seconds. Electric trimmers make it easy for the female gardener to add sculptured hedges to her talents. The same lady probably uses a power sander in her furniture refinishing projects.

It's a turn that calls for special attention to safety.

The professional knows his tools — and knows how to use them. The do-it-yourselfer is all too likely to pick up a new power whistis Saturday morning and embark on a project without so much as glancing at the operating manual.

Calling attention to the pressing need for safety, the Power Tool Institute offers some tips, headlined by one cardinal rule: Respect for the tool on the part of the operator. Without that respect, PTI says, the best safety features a manufacturer can build into his tool cannot make it safe to use.

According to PTI's safety experts, the two areas deserving the most attention are electrical safety and operating safety. It offers the following suggestions:

ELECTRICAL SAFETY — Ground all tools — unless they are double insulated. If a tool is equipped with a three-pronged plug, it should be plugged into a three-hole grounded receptacle. If an adapter is used to accommodate a two-pronged receptacle, the adapter wire must be attached to a known ground. Never remove third prong from plug. Double insulated tools require only a two-prong outlet or cord.

—Don't abuse cord. Never carry tool by cord, or yank on cord to disconnect it.

Keep cord from heat, oil and sharp edges.

—Maintain proper environment. Keep work area clean and dry. Don't use any power tool in wet or even damp locations. Keep area well lighted.

—Perform regular maintenance on your power tool. Consult manual of instructions for proper tool care. If not operating properly, take it to an authorized service outlet.

—Store idle tools. Keep them in dry locations — high, or locked away from the reach of children.

OPERATING SAFETY — Always keep guards in place and in perfect working order.

—Wear proper apparel. Loose clothing and jewelry can become entangled in moving parts. Rubber gloves and footwear are recommended, especially when working outdoors.

—Secure work. Use clamps or a vise. It's much safer than using your hand and it frees both hands to operate the tool. Never overreach. Keep proper footing and balance at all times.

Disconnect tools when not in use; before servicing; when changing accessories such as blades, bits, cutters.

—Remove adjusting keys and wrenches. Form the habit of checking to see they are not in tool before turning it on. Never carry a plugged-in tool with a finger on trigger or switch.

POWER TOOLS OUTSIDE — Using power tools out of doors poses a whole new set of electrical safety procedures in addition to the standard ones.

PTI says one of the primary considerations is proper grounding. If an extension cord is used it should be a heavy duty Underwriters' Laboratory approved cord compatible with the tool's grounding system — either three-wire grounded or two-prong for double insulated tools.

Power tools must never be operated outside when the grass is wet — or even damp. Electricity and water do not mix. To avoid possible electric shock, rubber gloves should be worn, especially when working with hedgetrimmers. Rubber-soled footwear is always a good idea when working outside.

A level work space is essential for sure footing of sawhorses and benches, as well as for the operator. Be sure to secure work.

Indoors, or out, keep children and visitors at a safe distance.

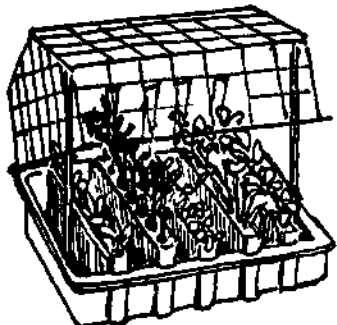

Above all, read your owner's manual carefully, and respect your tool.

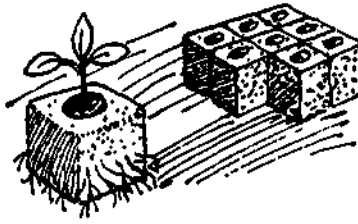

PEAT PELLETS—

JIFFY SEED STARTER GREENHOUSE.

STARTER CUBES.

New aids to seed starting that employs silvers of soil in neat little compartments so that you can grow 40 plantlets to transplant-size in a very small space. The outer container is molded to hold seed modules upright at proper spacing with water channels at the base. The clear dome when closed holds in humidity for successful germination; it may be raised or removed for ventilation as seedlings grow.

The ultimate in saving time and mess — and it really works if you follow directions — is the new pre-seeded container. The obvious point here is the cost. Like TV dinners, the pre-seed containers are a luxury and definitely geared to the weekend gardener who hates to waste too much time fussing, but still enjoys growing things. The pre-seeders are nothing more than a tray, six peat pellets with six seeds. Cost runs about 89 cents for the unit of six. You can buy a lot of seeds for 89 cents but, of course, this is more convenient.

ANOTHER GARDEN — new this year — is Gro-stik. The creators of the Gro-stik must have a big advertising campaign in progress because it seems like every other time I open my mail there are freebie Gro-stiks in it. The Gro-stiks look like midget Popsicle sticks with a hole bored out, to which seeds and fertilizer have been added and sealed with wax coating. Theoretically, you push the Gro-stiks into the earth up to a line marked on the stick — and stand back. Here again, the consumer is paying for convenience — six Gro-stiks cost 89 cents.

The next step, once you've got your plants started, is to keep them growing. Gradually harden your indoor-grown plants by moving them to a cooler part into Gard will protect tender plants from the elements. However, you can improvise your own with a giant plastic bag or roll of polyvinyl and several croquet wickets.

Hot Kaps are another device you may want to investigate to weather-proof your garden. They are heavy waxpaper cones that keep out wind, rain, birds and insects until the plants can shift for themselves. (Great for repelling cucumber beetles too.) These run about $2.25 for a set of 20 with a setter from Shumway Seed Co., Rockford, Ill. 61101, or any of a host of seed catalogs.

Powdered shadow

If you prefer a powdered eye shadow, but find that it cakes and creases, try using a bit of eye cream underneath or apply the powdered shadow with a bit of water. The color will last longer and the look is unpowdered.

Wedding months

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is still the traditional June bride, but there are almost as many brides in July and August. In fact, the historical concentration on June weddings is a thing of the past.

"Modern Bride" reports that June accounts for only 11.8 per cent of the total. In fact, there are more marriages in the second half of the year, which doesn't include June. The bridal market truly is a market for retail sales 'round the calendar.

Lake County site

Accord due on $1.2 million reservoir at Buffalo Creek

Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) officials yesterday said an agreement is expected soon for construction of a $1.2 million reservoir on Buffalo Creek.

The project is a cooperative venture by Buffalo Grove, the Lake County Forest Preserve District and the MSD. The reservoir is to be constructed on a 100-acre site just west of Arlington Heights Road in Lake County.

Roy Carlson, principal MSD civil engineer, said MSD attorneys have drawn up a preliminary draft of the agreement. He said the agreement will be submitted to the other agencies for review as soon as possible.

CARLSON DID not know when final approval of the agreement could be expected.

"It's impossible to say when it will be finalized," he said.

Buffalo Grove officials are anxious to see construction begin on the facility that is expected to provide a significant part of the solution to area flooding problems.

Village Mgr. Dan Larson said condemnation proceedings by the Lake County Forest Preserve District on the site will probably take about six months. He expects construction to begin late this year or early next year and take four months to complete.

THE MSD IS scheduled to assume the major portion of the cost of the proposed facility. About $1,800,000 will be needed for the land and $300,000 for the construction of the dam and reservoir. The forest preserve district has applied for a federal grant that would reimburse the MSD for half the land acquisition cost.

The MSD will engineer the project, and Buffalo Grove will assume the responsibility for maintenance of the proposed spillway and 700-foot dam.

Plans are to develop the reservoir site as a public park with recreational facilities. MSD officials have said the area surrounding the lake would probably be inundated about five per cent of the time. This area is expected to drain in about two or three days and be suitable for picnics and sports activities.

Blood commission's first meet tonight

The newly appointed Buffalo Grove Blood Donor Commission will conduct its first meeting tonight at 7:30 in the village hall to discuss the establishment of a village blood replacement program.

The village board, which appointed the commission last month, voted in December to join several other communities in a guaranteed blood replacement program conducted by the North Suburban Association of Health Resources (NSAHR).

The NSAHR program provides free blood replacement anywhere in the country for all residents of the participating community if four per cent of its residents donate one pint of blood each year.

The community program operates on the same principle as blood replacement programs currently conducted by many local fraternal, church and civic organizations. In addition to the community program, there is an individual guaranteed blood replacement program.

IF BUFFALO GROVE should fall short of its four per cent goal in the community program, the groups and individuals who donated blood would continue to be eligible for free replacement even though the village-at-large would not.

Although the eventual community commitment is for four per cent of the village, the free blood replacement program would go into effect as soon as one-half of one per cent of the village residents have donated. The community must then donate blood at a rate of one per cent each quarter.

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter, a member of the commission, said the success of the program will depend on the degree of participation by community organizations.

"This plan has great potential for the well-being of all residents of the village, but will only work with the cooperation of all organizations within the village," he said.

Winter urged representatives from the organization to attend tonight's meeting.

Other members of the blood commission are Dr. Harold Gianopoulos, chairman; Sylvia Bogart, Burton Chotiner, and Carol Lauter.

Police seeking farm house thief

Buffalo Grove Police yesterday were searching for leads in a burglary Monday night at a farm house at Box 132

Checker Road, Prairie View. Two watches, a lantern, $50 and an undetermined amount of jewelry were taken.

Anna J. Raupp, a resident of the house, told police she discovered the burglary when she returned home after going out for the evening. Police believe the burglary occurred between 7:30 and 11:30 p.m.

Police said the burglar entered the house by kicking in the front door. He then ransacked the three bedrooms in the home before he fled.

Police said no one apparently saw the burglar enter or leave the house. Two footprints, believed to be the burglar's, were found under the windows near the southwest corner of the house, police said.

Doctors vote to OK abortions at Northwest

by JOANN VAN WYE

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said

Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and non-denominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Chotiner also said he did not know how long it would take to set up abortion facilities at the hospital, if board approval is given.

"OKLAHOMA!" will be presented Friday and Saturday at Adlai Stevenson High School in Prairie View. Greg Frantz is one of more than 200 students, teachers and parents who will combine their talents to produce the show. Performances are set for 8 each evening. Admission is $2 and seats may be reserved by calling the school.

Big diggings planned for Arbor Day

by JOE FRANZ

A tree planting ceremony at the Buffalo Grove Village Hall Saturday will highlight the village appearance commission's Arbor Day program. The commission has sold more than 700 trees and seedlings to residents of the village commemorating the holiday.

Although Arbor Day is tomorrow, the village has chosen to observe it Saturday.

The ceremony outside the village hall will consist of planting 15 sugar maple trees. The trees have been purchased by sponsors whose names will be placed beside them. Ronald Helms, a member of the appearance commission, said the village hopes in the future to have similar plantings at other public places within the village.

The trees at the village hall will be planted in accordance with plans of a landscape architect. The trees will be tightly grouped to produce a grove effect, Helms said.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS and the public are invited to attend the ceremony which begins at 9 a.m.

Following the tree planting, residents can go to the Ranchmart shopping center to pick up their own trees or seedlings for planting around their homes. The trees will be distributed between 10 a.m. and noon. The trees must have been ordered in advance.

Residents will be given written instructions on planting and care of the trees when they pick them up. The village has asked no trees be planted on public parkways in front of homes, because the village plans to plant parkway trees at a later date.

In addition to the distribution of trees and seedlings, the appearance commission will also hand out seedlings tomorrow to students at several Buffalo Grove schools to encourage student participation in Arbor Day.

The kinds of trees being sold by the village are Russian olive, amur maple, zumi crab, snowdrift crab and Newport plum.

THE IDEA OF setting aside a specific day each year for tree planting began in 1872 when Julius Sterling Morton, a member of the Nebraska Board of Agriculture, introduced a resolution calling for Arbor Day.

On April 10 of that year the first Arbor Day was observed in Nebraska. More than one million trees were planted in Nebraska on that day.

Preschool sign-up scheduled May 5

Registration for the Buffalo Grove Park District preschool program is scheduled for Saturday, May 5 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Children participating in the program must be four years old by Dec. 1, 1973. Parents must bring proof of their child's age at the time of registration. A non-refundable deposit of $10 is also due at the time of registration.

Parents should register their children for either the morning session from 9 a.m. to noon or the afternoon session from 1 to 3 p.m.

For additional information call 337-0356.

City's emergency gas supplier cuts discounted rate

Chicago's gasoline shortage reached Des Plaines this week when the city's emergency gas supplier requested discount contract cancellation.

The contract, awarded last month by the city council, begins May 1.

The supplier, Rich's Route 12 Service Station, notified the council discount will be suspended because of the gas shortage. The station offered to sell gas to the city for pump price less sales tax.

The station at 1489 Rand Rd., won the city's 1972 gas contract — to supply police, fire and ambulance gas, nights and weekends — with a 27.4 cent per gallon bid for regular gas and a 29.9 cent bid for ethyl. The bid was awarded for "accessibility, hours and location," despite an 24.8 cent offer from Ye Old Towne Pump.

THIS YEAR, Rich's was the only gas bidder, offering gas for the same price as in 1972. The council defeated last month a motion to readvertise the bid, seeking more prices, before awarding the contract with an 11 to 2 vote.

"I don't think he's legally entitled to evade the obligation of the contract," City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi told the council after reading the station's price increase letter.

The contract terms include a 30-day cancellation clause.

The council authorized Mayor Herbert Behrel to inform the owner that the station's letter will be interpreted as notice to cancel the contract, and that Des Plaines discount price should continue for 30 days. The contract could be rebid.

"YOUR SOLE remedy would be to sue and attempt to recover damages for the difference in price between pump price or a new bid and the contract price," DiLeonardi said.

Because the contract is not in effect "we may run into a legal problem" if the city demands the discount price for 30 days, the mayor said.

Rich Kopacs, owner of the station, "doesn't want to cancel the contract," Behrel said. "I talked to him Wednesday morning, but with changes in price and supply, he can't sell gas to us at that discount."

"I would hate to see us lose a supplier in this critical situation," Ald. Robert Hinde (4th) told the council.

"We would be very foolish if we don't play this very carefully," the mayor said.

THE STATION HAS given the city a five per cent discount, in addition to the contract price cut, since 1972. "He said he would continue the five per cent as long as his supplier does."

"I would recommend that we go along with this increase. We can't expect a guy to lose money on our business."

"The problem is that we would need to hire someone to operate the pumps. I don't want every police officer or fireman to have a key to the pumps and garage. That wouldn't be good business," the mayor said.

City officials have talked for more than a year about hiring a night mechanic and helper for the garage. "This might be the time to make that move. They could watch the pumps," the mayor said.

If the garage is open nights and weekends, only police motorcycles — which use ethyl gas — would need an outside supply. The garage stocks regular gas only. The city budgeted $51,500 for gas this year.

Des Plaines' gas problem is similar to Chicago's, the mayor said. Yesterday, five major oil refiners refused for the second time to bid at any price on 3.2 million gallons needed by Chicago.

IN OTHER ACTION at this week's city council meeting, aldermen voted not to seek certification of Des Plaines' recent special census.

The census showed a drop in population from 87,239 in April, 1970, to 55,573 in March, 1973. State motor fuel tax and sales tax and federal revenue sharing funds are based, in part, on census totals.

"We could not find any errors in our favor," Behrel told the council while reporting the census result. "I'm disappointed. I have no answer for it. I just can't understand it."

City officials hoped the census would boost Des Plaines population over 60,000 and increase revenue from state taxes and revenue sharing.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER found the heavily flooded Des Plaines River to be an ideal place to launch a canoe. Richard Frisbie, Arlington Heights, and his daughter, Margaret, paddled their canoe from Dam No. 1 to downtown Des Plaines where the swollen river covered Camp Ground Road and Forest Preserve land.

Hearing slated for Oakton guard

An Oakton Community College security guard suspended by the school administration has been granted a hearing before the college's Board of Trustees.

William Calkins, 921 Kathleen Dr., Des Plaines, was suspended by Oakton business manager David Hilquist April 13. College Pres. William Koehnline told the Herald the suspension was based on falsification of employee records by Calkins, refusal to perform reasonably assigned duties and actions detrimental to the welfare of the college.

Calkins was arrested by Des Plaines police and charged with impersonating an officer April 5. According to police Calkins stopped a Des Plaines woman who had driven through a red light at Oakton Street and Mt. Prospect Road at 1 a.m. and asked to see her driver's license. Calkins was dressed in street clothes but reportedly wore his college security badge. He later went to the woman's house and her husband asked to see further identification.

A service station attendant who saw Calkins stop the woman recognized him and called the college. Calkins was released on $1,000 bond; a court hearing was set for May 24.

IN APPEALING to the Oakton board of trustees Tuesday night, Calkins said the suspension without pay was "unwarranted and discriminatory." He said college officials "prejudicially acted" before the facts in his arrest by Des Plaines police were presented in court, the misdemeanor does not involve the college and does not "reflect in any way on my personal honesty." He said the arrest is "not an ample single reason" for a suspension which he said was intended to humiliate him.

Calkins asked the college board for "a full, complete and public hearing." Paul Gilson, chairman of the board said a hearing would be held after the May 24 court date.

Koehnline told the Herald Calkins' arrest is "irrelevant" to his suspension, but the fact that the incident occurred at 1 a.m. and college records showed Calkins left the campus at 1:30 a.m. shows falsification of employee records. Koehnline said Calkins left the premises before completing his duties against orders from the Oakton chief of security at Oakton.

In other action Tuesday night, trustee

Stephen Loska cast the only no vote to a resolution granting pay raises to college administrators. He said the percentage increase in pay for administrators averaging about 6.2 per cent should be known to the public. The board delegates a certain degree of responsibility in evaluating employees, said Loska, but the board should take part in the evaluation of "key" administrators.

TRUSTEE ROBERT Gutschick told the Herald the pay raises were warranted and in his opinion the administrators deserved even more money.

Student test scores dropping off—why?

Students in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 have been dropping in achievement test scores — and Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent of curriculum, has to figure out why.

Stevenson reported to the school board earlier this month that in the five-year period from 1968 to 1973, the overall score of sixth graders dropped from 6.8 to 6.5. During the same period, seventh graders went from 7.9 to 7.6.

Statistics are now being compiled for the third, fourth and fifth graders in the district.

The scores were from the "Iowa Achievement Test" which is annually given in mid-school year to all Dist. 59 students. The tests are designed to measure proficiency in various skills such as reading comprehension, spelling, arithmetic problem solving, punctuation and capitalization. The overall score is the average for the various tests.

SCORES MEASURE ability in comparison to educational experience. For example, an "average score" for children in the second month of sixth grade would be 6.2. "Average" children in the fifth month of seventh grade would score 7.5.

Stevenson cautioned parents and teachers against "over-reacting" to the drop in scores. "You have to keep reminding people that we don't suffer the problem of being below the national average. We just have the urgency to do better," he said.

Stevenson also said scores should not be interpreted on an individual student basis. "The tests are designed to measure large groups. The test authors say the validity of the test decreases as the number of people being tested goes down. Obviously, when you discuss tests in a one on one situation, you've got problems," he said.

What is important in the test scores, said Stevenson, is the overall results from the district. The drop in sixth and seventh grade scores, "should be cause for me to look into the problem," he said.

According to Stevenson, declining scores could be caused by a variety of factors, ranging from a drop in the economic status of the district's parents to

Two charged in window breaking

Two Elk Grove Village youths were arrested after Des Plaines police said they broke the picture window of a Des Plaines home causing $250 damage late Sunday.

Larry Newton, 18, of 80 Grange Rd. and a 15-year-old youth were stopped by police after Dale Olson, 357 Walnut Ave., described the youth who had thrown a brick through his picture window, according to Des Plaines police.

Police also said they found two BB guns and a knife in the car and a bicycle in the trunk believed to have been stolen.

The 15-year-old later told police he was seated in the car when Newton threw the brick.

POLICE SAID Newton admitted to breaking several other windows in the past few months.

Newton was charged with criminal damage to property and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was released on $5,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court May 24.

Arlington Heights authorities have also brought property damage charges against Newton.

The other youth was turned over to Des Plaines juvenile officers.

A Chicago newspaper recently ran a scandalous expose on "death houses" known as animal shelters. They lambasted the Anti-Cruelty Society and others for destroying hundreds of perfectly healthy cats and dogs without attempting to put them up for adoption.

A national weekly newspaper carried a front page piece on the animal population explosion. They told of thousands of pets being conceived, born and killed. There aren't enough American homes to house all the American pets.

I talked with a Des Plaines woman who owns more than a dozen dogs and cats as well as a number of hamsters, gerbils and other small animals. She's considered the neighborhood cuckoo because of her soft spot for abandoned animals but she ignores the gossip mongers and keeps adding to her collection.

Earlier this week my plain old ordinary, "hot him for free" alleycat Peter was hit by a car. His leg was shattered. The vet's bill is going to be enormous and we're not sure yet when he'll be coming home. At least he's coming home — we're lucky.

HOW DOES it all tie together?

For two days I've been told by co-workers, friends and relatives to have my cat "put to sleep" rather than be faced with the mounting cost of keeping him in the animal hospital. I've had offer of kittens "they're really darling and if the owner doesn't get rid of them they'll have to be put to sleep." I've had people look at me like I'm crazy to put so much value on a run-of-the-mill cat.

The articles, the animal lady and my experience seem to point to one conclusion. There is a local, area, state and national attitude pets are playthings with little value.

Why else would Anti-Cruelty and other shelters condemn so many animals to death — even when the owner of the pet or a future owner waits in another room?

Why else would people allow their own pet to reproduce several times a year when there are thousands in shelters, pet shops and kennels waiting for homes?

WHY ELSE would people call a woman a crank who really cares about what happens to animals, who pulls them from garbage cans and rivers and nurses them to health?

Why else would people feel the life of my cat is so worthless?

When you decide to bring an animal into your home — be it St. Bernard or parakeet — you've taken on a responsibility. Animals have emotions, they feel pain, they know fear, they are able to love.

I'm not a fanatic "love me, love my cat" animal defender but although my Peter may mean little to anyone else, he's a member of my family and treated as such.

Sure he's just a cat and he eats cat food and isn't allowed on the tables and sleeps on the bathroom rug and doesn't join us when we go out.

AT THE same time he's a contributing member of the family. Peter's contribution is giving us joy, crawling up on a lap, curling himself around someone's leg, doing crazy cat things that keep us smiling.

People who can't handle the responsibility of having an animal shouldn't have one. Simple as that.

But how can you change a national attitude? I can't do it with a few words in a column. Maybe the only way it could happen is if animals could talk, beg, plead, cry and demand their rights.

Township finally gets its revenue share check

Elk Grove Township finally received a check for its portion of federal revenue sharing, but the check is not for the full amount and no one is certain what should be done next.

Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the check received was for $7,000. The township also received a letter from Washington stating the township's share of revenue should be $56,000.

The letter, however, did not state when the balance would be received. Township officials are not sure if they are supposed to keep the check and wait for additional money or if they should send the incorrect check back and wait for the correct one.

Getting revenue sharing funds has been a problem for the township. The first application was sent in late. The second application hit a bureaucratic snarl when the township was mistakenly considered as a non-taxing agency by the federal government. Non-taxing agencies are not eligible for revenue sharing.

THE TOWNSHIP has spent the past few months trying to clear up the mistake. Bernard Lee, township auditor, said the township sent all the necessary forms to correct the error whenever it was requested to do so.

On one of the forms the township officials had to certify that all Eskimos living in villages within the township would be properly taken care of. U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, was even asked to intercede for the township in its efforts to get the money.

Once the snarl is finally cleared up and the money received, the township will have to determine how to spend it.

Township officials have indicated they will hold special budget hearings to allocate the revenue sharing funds.

Lee said among the areas which may be considered for the allocation of revenue sharing are elderly assistance, youth committee, mental health and environmental problems.

Thieves get $540 worth of radios from car

Thieves stole $540 worth of radio equipment and a spare tire early Monday from the car of Thomas Bock, 6634 California Ave., Chicago police said.

A citizens band radio amplifier and antenna were among the stolen equipment. Police said the theft occurred outside 1500 Birchwood Ave.

Northfield Twp. delays decision on junior college

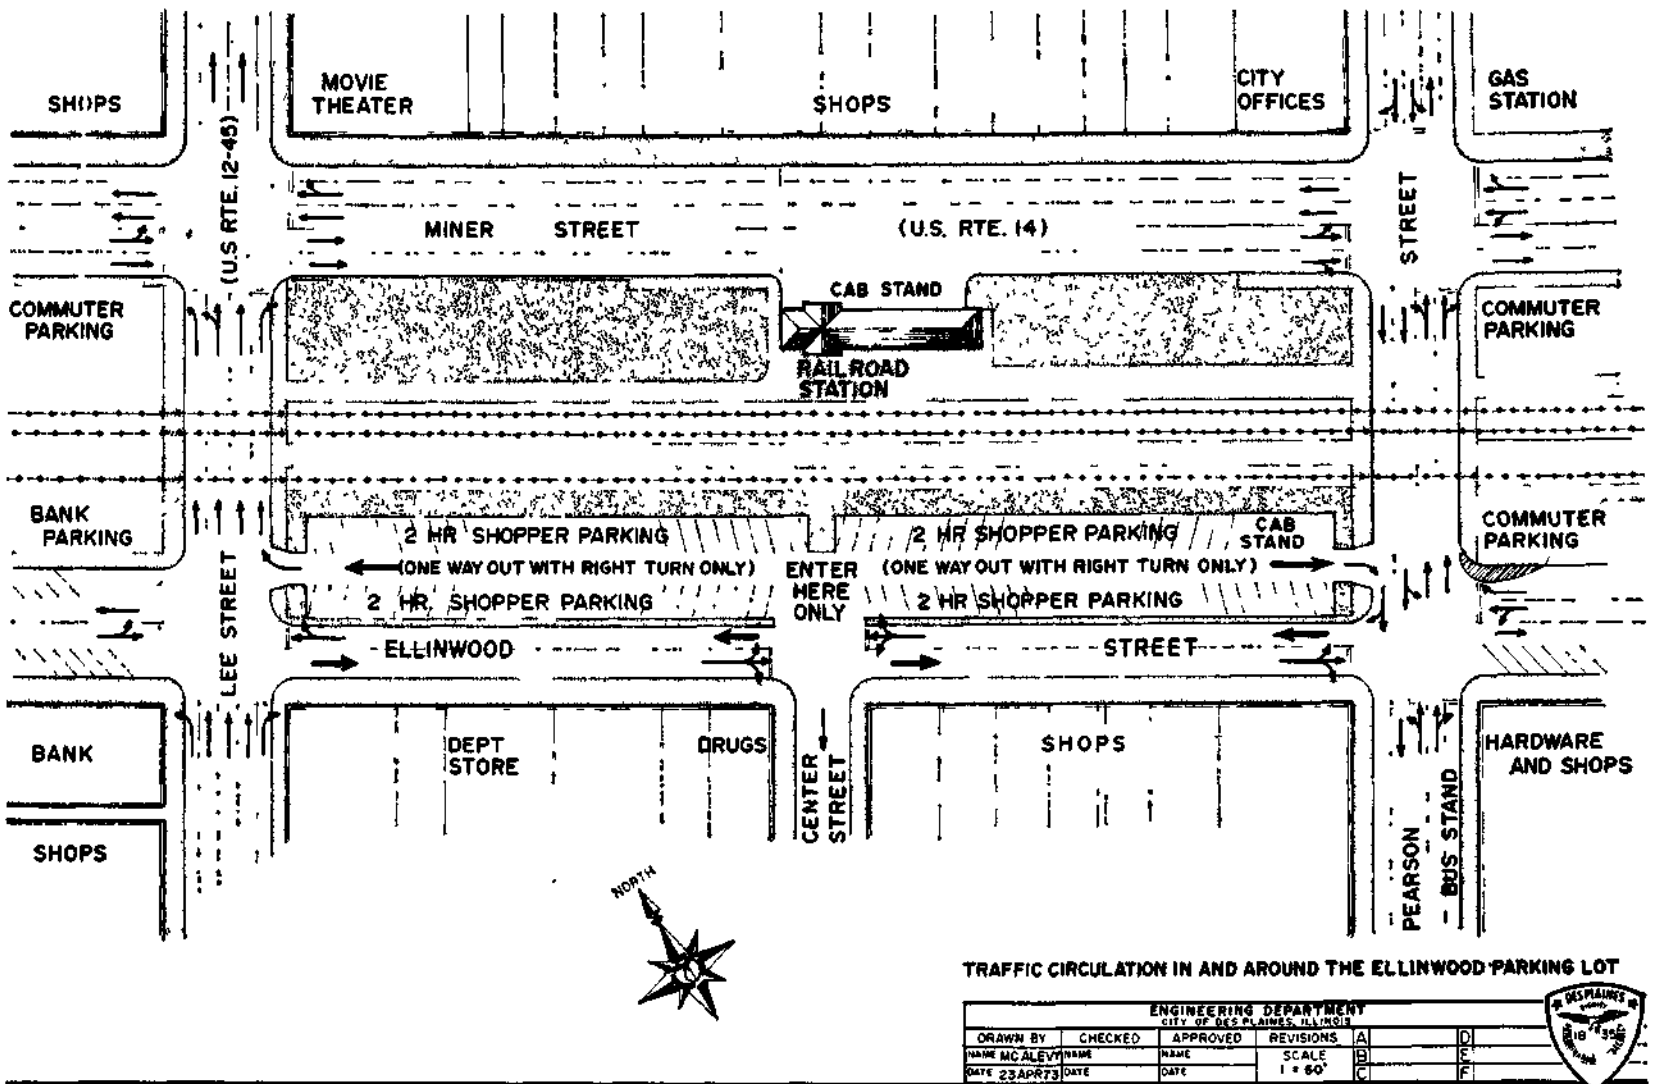

High school officials in Northfield Township have delayed until April 30 a decision to annex to a junior college or form their own college district.

Northfield's high school district, Glenbrook Dist. 225, and four other high school districts on the North Shore are not part of a junior college district but will be forced to join one or form one of their own by the end of this year, under state law.

If Glenbrook decides to annex to Oakton Community College the college will have more available land open to it for a permanent campus site.

The Glenbrook board of education appointed a citizens' committee to study junior college options available to them. The board was scheduled to hear the committee report and choose an option at its board meeting Tuesday night but due to a long agenda for that meeting, the junior college question was continued to April 30.

A committee of superintendents from the five school districts will meet May 9 to present the junior college choices of each of their school districts.

DES PLAINE'S DOWNTOWN parking will center around the recently paved Ellinwood Street lot next week as the city begins use of a token parking system. Traffic into the 118-car lot will enter from Ellinwood or Center streets and will exit north into Lee street or south into Pearson Street. Token sale may begin Monday at city hall and downtown banks.

'Free' parking kickoff soon

Des Plaines will launch its token parking system by next week with a "free parking" fanfare by local merchants.

Mayor Herbert Behrel announced this week that the city will begin sale of 40 parking tokens for $1.75 "possibly by Friday, definitely by Monday" at city hall and three downtown banks. The tokens will allow 30-minute meter parking.

Token sale will coincide with installation of two-hour meters in the recently paved, 118-car Ellinwood Street lot. Downtown shoppers have parked free in the lot since initial paving in November, 1972.

City meters were changed last month to accept either tokens, nickels or dimes.

"The gimmick in the free parking is that merchants will give these tokens to the people as a form of free parking," the mayor said.

A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce said a merchant committee is "setting up final plans to extend an invitation to the public and introduce them to the parking system."

"By giving away tokens we can avoid people complaining about no free parking," he said.

Louis Capozzoli, head of the Chamber's retail committee, said local merchants will advertise "three days of token parking to get the idea across."

The campaign is tentatively planned May 3-5.

"The merchants will be giving tokens with every purchase. Shoppers will be able to accumulate the tokens. How the stores handles it is an individual problem," he said.

In a few minutes the world wakes up

Your world begins each day at a certain time. If you're like most Northwest Suburban people, your day begins in a comfortable bedroom, in a warm home. Most of what you cherish is in that home. People you love, the intimacies that bind you to them, the security you've provided for them.

These are the things that make home ownership so important to most people. They're the same things that make our job so rewarding. For at First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Des Plaines, we've always considered home loans as more than mere financing of four walls and a roof. We've always tried to make home loans with the knowledge of the very personal and private satisfaction they can bring to people. And that is why our Home Loan with a Heart is more than a slogan. It's an important part of the lives of thousands of people in this area. And, we aim to keep it important for thousands more.

improper techniques of administering the tests. He said he is not going to consider causes which are only "rationalizations" or beyond the district's control, but will concentrate his efforts on possible causes over which the district has some control.

STEVENSON SAID the first step would be to meet with principals and teachers to determine what is expected of students and then to look at the test results to see where expectations are not being met. Different techniques can then be tried to see if test results meet expectations.

Among the alternatives open to the district are:

- Changing curriculum emphasis.
- Offering more consultancy and supervisory help to the classroom teacher.
- Studying the effects of the district's current philosophy of emphasizing individual student instruction without reducing class size.
- Determining if other goals, not measured by the achievement tests, are more important to the district.

STEVENSON SAID there is a problem of "time lag" between implementing a change and being able to measure the effects of change. For example, the district has a new English program which was started in September. The effects of the program cannot be measured until after the start of the next school year.

Even the results after the first year are not valid because test scores can fluctuate widely from year to year. Testing requires several years to determine the trend of the scores.

Resolution must be approved by board of trustees

Doctors vote to OK abortions at Northwest

by JOANN VAN WYE

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and nondenominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Chotiner also said he did not know how long it would take to set up abortion facilities at the hospital, if board approval is given.

THE U.S. SUPREME Court ruled on

Jan. 22 women have the right to obtain an abortion from a doctor during the first three months of pregnancy.

The ruling was followed March 1 by an order signed by a federal court judge putting Illinois law in compliance with the High Court's decision.

Local approval of performance of abortions would make Northwest Community Hospital the first in the Northwest suburbs to approve such action.

Lutheran General Hospital in Park

Ridge has formed a study group of physicians, theologians, administrators and trustees to study the abortion issue and report back to the trustees. The hospital does perform abortions when a pregnancy is a threat to the mother's life.

Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Resurrection Hospital in Park Ridge are following the directive of John Cardinal Cody and are not performing abortions.

University official to speak

Eugene Eldenberg, vice-chancellor for public service at the University of Illinois-Chicago Circle campus, will be the keynote speaker at the first of a series of evening symposia which will be held at Oakton Community College, 7900 N. Nagle, Morton Grove.

The symposium will be held in Building 4, on the OCC campus, at 8 p.m. on Thursday, May 10.

Called the Green Turnip Community Survival Symposium, it is an extension of a seminars program in a study of personal and community survival which will be given at Oakton this summer and next fall.

Dr. Eldenberg will discuss the "Role of Higher Education in Urban Public Service."

Moderator for the symposium will be Ron Rogers, education writer for the Lerner Newspapers. Three respondents will also appear on the program. They are E. Lawrence Chalmers, president, Art Institute of Chicago; Stuart Schar, director of the Center for Urban Studies, University of Illinois-Chicago Circle campus, and Sheldon Kirshner, associate professor of psychology, Oakton Community College. William A. Koehnline, president of Oakton, will open the session.

The Green Turnip Community Survival Symposium will center around certain generic themes dealing with social, political, economic, and moral aspects of community and personal survival.

Residents of the community are invited to attend the symposium. There is no admission charge.

The suburbs' giant shopping center towns will be asked shortly to join forces and hire a Springfield lobbyist.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg revealed plans this week to start a movement for such communities to band together and pay for a permanent representative in Springfield.

He plans to ask his board at its next meeting to approve spending approximately $2,500 as Schaumburg's share of the cost.

The lobbyist would be in Springfield whenever the state legislature is in session, to keep local communities informed on pending bills and to present the reactions of the communities to the legislature.

Atcher indicated the catalyst for his plan was a bill now pending which would redistribute local shares of sales taxes collected at regional shopping centers. Under current state law, the community in which a center is located now receives 1-cent for every dollar in sales.

House Bill 1162 would take half of that local amount, and distribute it among other communities in a 6-mile radius of the home municipality.

THIS BILL would "just take half our sales tax and hand it over to towns around us," said Atcher. Schaumburg would lose income from sales taxes generated by Woodfield. He noted Mount Prospect also would be affected by the measure, losing some of its revenues from sales taxes collected at Randhurst. But since Schaumburg is within six miles of Randhurst, and Mount Prospect is within six miles of Woodfield, each community would receive a portion of the sales tax revenue generated by the other village's shopping center.

"There is much wrong with this thing," said Atcher, predicting the legislature would turn it down but adding the village cannot afford to assume it will be defeated.

This bill, and others like it that probably will be introduced in the future, will need "on going attention in Springfield," said Atcher. While Schaumburg and Mount Prospect both are members of the Illinois Municipal League, communities that would gain from these bills also are members, Atcher noted. The league often cannot take a position on pending measures, since not all its members react similarly, he said.

A solution would be for "all towns in the area with regional shopping centers to get together and help defray the cost of permanent representation in Springfield when the legislature is in session," he said.

Atcher defended his position opposing H. B. 1162 by saying, "We're not so selfish that we feel other people don't have anything coming at all. But we don't necessarily feel it should be coming from us."

Allen, a 24-year fire department employee is currently on vacation in Wisconsin.

Wants 2-year trustee post

Krasnow says he'll challenge 5-vote village election loss

Alvin Krasnow, unsuccessful candidate for a two-year trustee term in Elk Grove Village, says he will contest the election in which he lost to Michael Tosto by five votes. The race, which was one of the closest in village history, also will be the first ever to be contested.

Krasnow said yesterday he will file a petition contesting the election this week or as soon as his attorney has it ready. Until Tosto is defeated by a new recount of the entire vote, he will be seated as a trustee.

The village trustees made their official canvass of the vote Tuesday which elected Tosto with 1,054 votes over Krasnow's 1,049. A third candidate, James Gibson, tallied 587 votes for the two-year trustee post.

AS SOON as the trustees completed the canvass, Krasnow submitted a "petition of discovery" to Pres. Charles Zetek asking for a partial recount. Such a petition allows an unsuccessful candidate who received 95 per cent of the winning vote to obtain a recount of 25 per cent of the precincts.

Krasnow requested recounts of the Grant Wood School, Clearmont School and Salt Creek School precincts, saying, "I feel these precincts had too many defective ballots, and I'd like a recount for my own satisfaction."

Zetek suggested that the recount of the three precincts be held immediately and both Krasnow and Tosto signed waivers for the required three-day waiting period.

"I feel the ballots were counted correctly, and I'll go with a recount any time Mr. Krasnow likes," Tosto said.

During the recount of the three precincts, Mrs. Krasnow and Mrs. Tosto look ed over the shoulder of Village Clerk Richard McGrenera as he broke the seal on the ballots and called out the vote. The two candidates watched Trustee Nanci Vanderweel as she tallied the vote as it was called.

IN THE END, both Krasnow and Tosto picked up one vote each in the Clearmont School precinct, and Krasnow received an additional vote in the Grant Wood School precinct, narrowing their margin from five to four votes.

Later, Krasnow said he would contest the election and ask for a complete recount. "I figure if I had two votes out of three precincts counted, I just might pull out a few more votes in the other (predicts)," he said.

Until the trustees are reconvened as a canvassing board to recount all ballots the official vote will stand as 1,054 for Tosto and 1,049 for Krasnow. Tosto will be sworn in with the other newly elected trustees Tuesday and will serve on the board until he is unseated.

The certified vote for the other candidates was: for president, Robert "Bud" Lindahl — 628, Richard McGrenera — 109, Charles Zetek — 2,107; and for three 4-year trustee terms, Nanci Vanderweel — 2,326, Melvin Bytnar — 614, George Spees — 2,036, Kevin McCarthy — 944, and Ted Staddler — 1,959. The total vote cast was 2,692.

Village to gain 23 trees

A total of 23 trees will be planted in Elk Grove Village Sunday in honor of Arbor Day. The Elk Grove Park District will also dedicate a park on Sunday to J. Sterling Morton, founder of Arbor Day.

Most of the trees will be planted in Morton Park, located south of the Elk Grove Village Public Library at Brantwood Avenue and Kennedy Boulevard.

The trees, costing about $805, were purchased through a program in which the park district matched every dollar donated by an organization with a dollar of park district funds. Among the organizations that contributed to the Arbor Day fund were Woman's Auxiliary of the Queen of the Rosary Knights of Columbus, Elk Grove Village Jaycees and Jay-ettes, Girl Scouts, Elk Grove Boys Football, Inc., Camp Fire Girls, Sportsman's Club, Industrial Lions Club and the Clearmont School PTO.

Money donated by the Jaycees and Jayettes will be used to plant two trees in Jaycee Park at Kennedy Boulevard and Brantwood Avenue, across from the library building. Two trees will also be planted at Clearmont School.

Morton Park dedication will be at 2 p.m. Sunday. Speakers will be: Edward Hauser, president of the park district; Charles Zetek, village president; and Richard Wason, of the Morton Arboretum.

Trees will be planted in the park after the dedication ceremonies. Each of the trees is a different species. Most of them are of the crab tree variety.

LOOKING DOWN on construction at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village, builders are working on the second-floor level. The $9 million addition to the hospital is expected to be completed next year.

Alexian fund drive at 80 pct.

Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village has hit the 80 per cent mark toward a $1.8 million building fund goal.

The hospital is in the midst of a $9 million expansion program that will more than double the size of the original facility at 800 Biesterfeld Rd. A hospital spokesman said yesterday a total of $1.47 million has been donated, including nearly $5,500 during March.

"We are hopeful of reaching our $1.8 million goal by December of this year and with the encouraging response we are getting this spring from businesses, industry and friends in the area, I think we will make the December (campaign) completion date," Marcella Niehoff, campaign chairwoman, said.

The new facility, under construction in front of the main building, will house an emergency care complex five times larger than current facilities and an outpatient department 17 times larger. Both the five-story ambulatory care center and the two-story community health building will be connected to the present hospital building.

Besides more out-patient facilities, the expansion will increase the number of hospital beds from the current 340 to a possible 420 beds.

Doctors urge abortion OK at Northwest

by JOANN VAN WYE

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and nondenominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Chotiner also said he did not know how long it would take to set up abortion facilities at the hospital, if board approval is given.

THE U.S. SUPREME COURT ruled on Jan. 22 women have the right to obtain an abortion from a doctor during the first three months of pregnancy.

The ruling was followed March 1 by an order signed by a federal court judge putting Illinois law in compliance with the High Court's decision.

Local approval of performance of abortions would make Northwest Community Hospital the first in the Northwest suburbs to approve such action.

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge has formed a study group of physicians, theologians, administrators and trustees to study the abortion issue and report back to the trustees. The hospital does perform abortions when a pregnancy is a threat to the mother's life.

Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Resurrection Hospital in Park Ridge are following the directive of John Cardinal Cody and are not performing abortions.

VFW urges residents fly flag on Loyalty Day

The Elk Grove Village post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Ladies Auxiliary are urging all business and residents to fly the U.S. flag on Loyalty Day, May 1.

A spokesman said the day was set aside to reaffirm loyalty to the United States. He said with the return of the POW's from Vietnam "it is most appropriate to fly our flag to proclaim our loyalty and allegiance to our country."

Student test scores dropping off—why?

Students in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 have been dropping in achievement test scores — and Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent of curriculum, has to figure out why.

Stevenson reported to the school board earlier this month that in the five-year period from 1968 to 1973, the overall score of sixth graders dropped from 6.8 to 6.5. During the same period, seventh graders went from 7.9 to 7.6.

Statistics are now being compiled for the third, fourth and fifth graders in the district.

The scores were from the "Iowa Achievement Test" which is annually given in mid-school year to all Dist. 59 students. The tests are designed to measure proficiency in various skills such as reading comprehension, spelling, arithmetic problem solving, punctuation and capitalization. The overall score is the average for the various tests.

SCORES MEASURE ability in comparison to educational experience. For example, an "average score" for children in the second month of sixth grade would be 6.2. "Average" children in the fifth month of seventh grade would score 7.5.

Stevenson cautioned parents and teachers against "over-reacting" to the drop in scores. "You have to keep reminding people that we don't suffer the problem of being below the national average. We just have the urgency to do better," he said.

Stevenson also said scores should not be interpreted on an individual student basis. "The tests are designed to measure large groups. The test authors say the validity of the test decreases as the number of people being tested goes down. Obviously, when you discuss tests in a one on one situation, you've got problems," he said.

What is important in the test scores, said Stevenson, is the overall results from the district. The drop in sixth and seventh grade scores, "should be cause for me to look into the problem," he said.

According to Stevenson, declining scores could be caused by a variety of factors, ranging from a drop in the economic status of the district's parents to improper techniques of administering the tests. He said he is not going to consider causes which are only "rationalizations" or beyond the district's control, but will concentrate his efforts on possible causes over which the district has some control.

STEVENSON SAID the first step would be to meet with principals and teachers to determine what is expected of students and then to look at the test results to see where expectations are not being met. Different techniques can then be tried to see if test results meet expectations.

Among the alternatives open to the district are:

- Changing curriculum emphasis.
- Offering more consultancy and supervisory help to the classroom teacher.

- Studying the effects of the district's current philosophy of emphasizing individual student instruction without reducing class size.
- Determining if other goals, not measured by the achievement tests, are more important to the district.

STEVENSON SAID there is a problem of "time lag" between implementing a change and being able to measure the effects of change. For example, the district has a new English program which was started in September. The effects of the program cannot be measured until after the start of the next school year.

Even the results after the first year are not valid because test scores can fluctuate widely from year to year. Testing requires several years to determine the trend of the scores.

Psychiatrist Elizabeth Ross urges talking it over

Children should learn to realize death is a fact of life

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Johnny's mother died when he was 6. Johnny was a good little boy and took his mother's death well.

Many children regress to babyish behavior or throw temper tantrums when they lose a parent or sibling, but not Johnny. He was a perfect child. He helped with the family chores, did dishes, dressed himself and made his own bed.

Johnny got good grades in school, too. He played with the other children, participated in every school event and soon became one of the best students in his first grade class.

Still, Dr. Elizabeth Ross, psychiatrist at the Cook County Family service and mental health center in Chicago Heights thought she should pay Johnny a visit.

WHEN DR. ROSS arrived at Johnny's house, the little boy was smiling brightly. He showed the doctor his homework papers and told her how he helped his father with the housework and how he always went to bed on time without being told. Dr. Ross concluded Johnny was a healthy, normal child who understood and accepted his mother's death.

As Dr. Ross was leaving the house she saw an apple on the window sill and asked Johnny what it was doing there. The boy lowered his eyes to the floor and his face stiffened. Dr. Ross repeated the question.

"Mommy likes big, red apples," said Johnny. "So I put it on the window sill to ripen. Then Mommy will like it and come back and she won't be mad at me any more."

Guilt is a normal reaction to the death of a loved one, but it is a reaction too often repressed, only to reappear decades later to plague the adult, says Dr. Ross. It's often a feeling not visible to others. The child, trying hard to be good to make up for the wrong he thinks he has committed, appears to be happy and well-adjusted to those around him.

A young child who represses such feelings fantasizes about death. He may feel he is to blame for the death. He often feels unloved and abandoned by the person he has lost. He may fear impending punishment for his wrongdoing.

Such unexpressed feelings remain with the child to grow and take root in the subconscious, said Dr. Ross. A high percentage of adults under psychiatric care harbor this kind of guilt which often can be traced to a death that occurred in the patient's early childhood.

IT IS IMPORTANT for the child to tell someone how he feels about the death, said Dr. Ross, and it is important to teach every child, by the time he is old enough to walk, that death is a normal part of life.

Dr. Ross is considered an expert on emotional problems related to death, by her colleagues. She is the author of two books on the subject, "On Death and Dying," and "On Children and Death."

Just as a family discusses the impending birth of a child to the other children in the family, the family should also discuss an impending death, said Dr. Ross. "Adults often protect the child from a subject the adult finds painful. 'We don't like to protect them, we protect ourselves,' she said.

A good way to teach children about death at home is with a story book, said Dr. Ross. One she recommends is "Why Did He Die," by Audrey Harris from Lerner Publications, Minneapolis, Minn., which is designed for preschool children.

An "ideal moment" to teach a child about death is when the family pet dies or when the child finds a dead animal, said Dr. Ross. Many mothers are taken aback when a child brings home a dead bird and they quickly ask the child to take the animal away. Dr. Ross said the parent should talk to the child, explaining how the animal could have died and what it means to be dead. The parent should tell the child that death is natural — everything dies, and should not convey a dread or revulsion for the dead animal to the child.

AS A CHILD matures, he passes through learning stages that determine the way he understands death, said Dr. Ross.

For an infant or toddler, death is connected with the fear of separation from his parents, brothers and sisters or other people who care for him. These children, are too young to comprehend what death is, said Dr. Ross. They know someone who once cared for them is now gone and they don't know why. They feel abandoned, she said.

At age 3, many children fear death in the same way they fear physical mutilation, said Dr. Ross. A child at this age is especially afraid of going to the doctor. The parent shouldn't lie to the child, telling him the injection of serum he is about to receive, won't hurt him.

The mother should tell the child it will hurt just a little bit and if possible she should show the child what's going to happen by practicing on a stuffed animal toy. It probably won't make the child stop crying, said Dr. Ross, but it may relieve some of his fears.

At age 4, children often play games associated with death. "Bang, bang you're dead," says the child. To this child death is not final, it is just a game that everyone plays and can be ended like a game. Death seems temporary, and because the child has the power to make sister fall down dead in play, he thinks he has the power to bring her back to life, she said.

If someone does die, the child can't bring him back and as a result he often feels a deep sense of guilt and shame. If the child doesn't express these feelings, said Dr. Ross, he can go through life with the threat of punishment hanging over his head.

BETWEEN THE ages of 5 and 9, children personify death as a ghost, skeleton or the "boogie-man," Dr. Ross said. He often thinks he can escape death by hiding, running fast to get away or by leaving a light on when he sleeps.

As a child progresses through adolescence and adulthood, he should come to realize death is not only final and happens to everyone, but it is inevitable. The way most adults feel about death can be visualized as an "iceberg," says Dr. Ross. What we see is a simple fear of death and dying, she says, but what is hidden underneath is a fear of a "catastrophic, destructive event." It is important for everyone, children and adults, to talk about death as a means of relieving this fear, she says.

Children let you know when they want to talk, says Dr. Ross, but the adult must be willing to listen. Almost anyone close to the child can help him talk about death, a member of the family, a school counselor, a minister or a doctor. Under no circumstances should a child be forced to attend a wake or a funeral if he is afraid to go, she says.

Using religion to explain death should be done with caution, says Dr. Ross. "If it is just nice, phony words," it may be harmful, she says, but if the parent has a genuine belief "it can help tremendously." The parent should not tell the child what he ought to believe, but should present religious belief as one of the ways to understand death, she said.

ONE OF THE changes in society that causes problems in understanding death is the removal of elderly family members from the home, Dr. Ross said. Children should see the aging process firsthand. Now many children are afraid of old people, thinking they are sick and harmful. "Children in our society don't grow up knowing this is just a part of life," she said.

Dr. Ross blames the rules of many

DEATH, TO CHILDREN, is a mystery. Psychiatrist Elizabeth Ross says children should be allowed to talk about a death in the family to relieve feelings of rejection and guilt. Such unexpressed feelings can cause mental and emotional problems in later life, she says.

Ma Bell to build a 118-foot tower here

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. will build a 118-foot communications tower in Elk Grove Village as part of a new paging system for the metropolitan Chicago area.

The Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees approved the telephone company's request to build the tower this week, overriding a negative recommendation from the plan commission. The plan commission has opposed the antenna on the grounds it would be an aviation hazard with Elk Grove Village so close to O'Hare Airport.

Illinois Bell attorney Thomas Phillips told trustees Tuesday that Federal Aviation Administration officials have said there was no objection to the tower being built on phone company property at 10 N. Scott St. He added that his company's tower will be half the height of nearby electric power transmission towers.

The 100-foot structure with a 19-foot antenna will be used for a one-way paging system, which will send beeping signals to notify customers to telephone their offices for messages.

Illinois Bell spokesmen have testified the tower will be able to withstand 170-mile-per-hour winds and will not interfere with radio and television reception.

ALSO AT THE meeting, the trustees directed the village manager to draw up a resolution supporting Arlington Heights' attempts to convert the Nike Missile base at Wilke and Central roads into a recreation area. The federal government has plans to construct 140 housing units on the site for Navy personnel based at the Glenview Naval Station.

In other business: A resolution was passed honoring the late President Lyndon Baines Johnson for his service to the country and his work with the war on poverty and civil rights.

Trustee Ed Kenna was appointed chairman of a committee to plan an awards dinner for the Elk Grove High School gymnastics team. The team placed second in the state.

The village Lions Club was granted permission to hold a Fourth of July carnival July 3 and 4 or alternate days in case of bad weather.

The firm of Ross, Hardies, O'Keefe, Babcock and Parsons, of Chicago, was hired as special legal counsel at a cost not to exceed $2,000. The plan commission requested the firm be hired to help in the upcoming hearing on the Devon-53 housing project. The proposed 267-acre project will include single-family homes and apartments.

Fire Lt. Fred Henning was authorized to attend the International Municipal Signal Association Midwestern meeting today and tomorrow in St. Paul, Minn., at a cost not to exceed $150.

hospitals for a child's fear of sickness and death. Because small children are usually not permitted in the hospital ward, they don't understand what a hospital does and may dream about it as an evil place full of Frankenstein tortures and death. They see Mommy being taken away in an ambulance and maybe the next time they see her is in a coffin, said Dr. Ross.

Local-option clause in Sunday racing bill

The Village of Arlington Heights will be able to decide if it wants Sunday horse racing at Arlington Park, if bills introduced by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, are passed by the Illinois General Assembly.

Juckett said yesterday his horse racing bills will include a provision for local control over Sunday racing. The Park Ridge Republican has introduced legislation allowing race tracks to operate whenever they want to, including Sundays.

"We do not preclude local people from regulation. But I certainly hope that any locality, before it restricts any business, would weigh carefully the consequences on free enterprise," Juckett said yesterday.

In the absence of locally-imposed regulations, Juckett said he would like to see race tracks operate competitively without being told by the state when they can and cannot hold races.

"IT WAS APPARENT to me that there was just too much opportunity for collusion and corruption to secure racing dates," Juckett said, referring to recent scandals involving the racing board's allocation of racing schedules for Illinois tracks.

"Race tracks should be treated like any other free enterprise. When they want to race, let them race. I don't see the distinction between Arlington, Washington or Sportsman's race tracks and Wrigley Field, White Sox Park or the Chicago Stadium."

The possibility of Sunday racing has been welcomed by Arlington Park officials, including race track president Jack Loomer and general manager William Thayer.

Juckett said he did not know what chances for passage his racing bills had because the proposed changes were introduced in the House this week and have not yet been assigned to committee.

Rep. Robert Juckett

But Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, assistant majority leader of the Senate, told the Herald yesterday Juckett's bill likely will not pass this session.

GRAHAM, ALONG with Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, already submitted a package of racing bills, which Graham said should pass. Graham's bill does not include Sunday racing, but deals with the make-up of the Illinois Racing Board proposing it be changed from part-time officials to full-time employees.

Juckett said another important provision of his bills is the fixing of a 10 per cent state tax on the dollars bet at race tracks in place of the present graduated tax.

"In the past, the racing board has awarded two separate racing meets to one track. This has allowed tracks to pay lower taxes because they have been able to divided the total dollars bet," he said. ARLINGTON PARK is currently defending a suit filed by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott charging the track owes $4.2 million in back taxes as a result of the twin meets held at Arlington in recent years.

"I am proposing a flat 10 per cent tax, which is the same tax base imposed on bingo. If that's good enough for the grandmas and grandpas who play bingo, it's good enough for the horse players," Juckett said.

The present graduated tax stops at 9.25 per cent after the total dollars bet at a track in a season reaches $60 million.

Long hours on budget face village trustees

Elk Grove Village trustees have a busy month ahead if they are to complete their budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year by June 1.

Trustee Ron Chernick, budget committee chairman, said he wanted the budget to be completed by the end of May. Although the village's fiscal year starts May 1, the plan for spending money does not have to be passed until Aug. 1, under state law.

Chernick last night called a public meeting of the budget committee for 7:30 p.m. May 2 at the village hall, 901 Wellington Ave.

CHERNICK SAID he believed the budget could be completed by the start of the fiscal year, even though that isn't required. "I feel we're a month late already, and we will be meeting as often as possible to finish it (the budget)."

Salaries for village employees is the next policy decision to be made, and Chernick said he plans to call a salary meeting within a week. "Wages amount to 75 per cent of the village's general budget, and we can't do anything until they are taken care of."

As proposed in the budget drawn up by the village staff, there would be a 3.2 per cent increase in the village pay scale based on the official cost-of-living increase for 1972. All employees, except department heads, are paid according to a set pay plan.

THERE ALSO are proposals to institute a longevity pay plan. The suggested plan calls for a 3 per cent adjustment in salary for persons completing five years of service and a 5 per cent longevity increase for 10 years.

The budget committee also has been given proposals to improve the employees' holiday, vacation and overtime benefits.

Chernick said he wants to meet with all department heads to discuss their manpower needs and programs for the coming year. The proposed budget calls for 20 additional part-time or full-time personnel, including five policemen and four firemen.

Seatbelts for school buses backed by Atcher

Seatbelts could be required for all school buses in Illinois if a suggestion from Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher is followed.

Atcher proposed the Schaumburg Village Board initiate action to amend to state laws regulating boards of education and cities and villages. The amendment would empower local governments to regulate school buses.

This "is a criticism of our own legislature for not having come up with the answer" to problems of school bus safety, Atcher told the board this week.

The discussion developed from a complaint by Barry Jacobs, 1506 Syracuse Ln., Schaumburg, that children are allowed to stand on school buses. He asked the board to pass an ordinance requiring all children be seated while a bus is in motion.

VILLAGE ATTY. Jack Siegel said the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled municipalities do not have the power to regulate school buses. Only the local school board or the state school superintendent have that authority, he said.

Atcher proposed the village fight for legislation granting such power to villages, and other legislation requiring seats belts on school buses.

Atcher and Siegel suggested Jacobs take his request to the board of education of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54. Jacobs said he had, but added, "I get the feeling nobody cares."

Jacobs said he was concerned that children could be seriously injured if they were standing when the school bus stopped suddenly, or when an accident occurred. Local police can only check now to see buses are not overloaded. Jacobs said he has tried to make spot checks himself.

WAYNE SCHABIE, Dist. 54 superintendent, yesterday reported the district already prohibits children standing when buses are moving, and Schaumburg Transportation Co., the district's bus contractor, has a similar regulation.

"We want the kids to be seated also, and so does the bus company," said Schabie. Occasionally, he said, children ride a different bus than their normal one, which may mean the listed capacity is exceeded for one trip.

Schabie also noted that a bill recently introduced in the State Senate would have required seatbelts. He was notified yesterday it failed in committee. Such measures "should be left to be stated," he said.

A woman at the village board meeting Tuesday, who identified herself only as a fulltime school bus driver, objected to the seat belt proposal, saying she believed small children could panic in an emergency, and not be able to release the seat belts.

This could delay their getting off the bus, and might cause more serious injury than if they had not been restrained in place, she said. She also said bus drivers are very careful not to exceed their legal capacity. Although a change in the number of pupils on their routes might cause a slight overload for a few days, pupils are quickly shifted to other buses to eliminate any excess, she said.

Atcher added his plan is not meant as a criticism of bus drivers or bus companies.

Lobbyist would keep cash in shop center towns: Atcher

The suburbs' giant shopping center towns will be asked shortly to join forces and hire a Springfield lobbyist.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg revealed plans this week to start a movement for such communities to band together and pay for a permanent representative in Springfield.

He plans to ask his board at its next meeting to approve spending approximately $2,500 as Schaumburg's share of the cost.

The lobbyist would be in Springfield whenever the state legislature is in session, to keep local communities informed on pending bills and to present the reactions of the communities to the legislature.

Atcher indicated the catalyst for his plan was a bill now pending which would redistribute local shares of sales taxes collected at regional shopping centers. Under current state law, the community in which a center is located now receives 1-cent for every dollar in sales.

THIS BILL would "just take half our local amount, and distribute it among other communities in a 6-mile radius of the home municipality."

House Bill 1162 would take half of that sales tax and hand it over to towns around us," said Atcher. Schaumburg would lose income from sales taxes generated by Woodfield. He noted Mount Prospect also would be affected by the measure, losing some of its revenues from sales taxes collected at Randhurst. But since Schaumburg is within six miles of Randhurst, and Mount Prospect is within six miles of Woodfield, each community would receive a portion of the sales tax revenue generated by the other village's shopping center.

"There is much wrong with this thing," said Atcher, predicting the legislature would turn it down but adding the village cannot afford to assume it will be defeated.

This bill, and others like it that probably will be introduced in the future, will need "on going attention in Springfield," said Atcher. While Schaumburg and Mount Prospect both are members of the Illinois Municipal League, communities that would gain from these bills also are members. Atcher noted: The league often cannot take a position on pending measures, since not all its members react similarly, he said.

A solution would be for "all towns in the area with regional shopping centers to get together and help defray the cost of permanent representation in Springfield when the legislature is in session," he said.

Atcher defended his position opposing H. B. 1162 by saying, "We're not so selfish that we feel other people don't have anything coming at all. But we don't necessarily feel it should be coming from us."

Resolution must be approved by board of trustees

Doctors vote to OK abortions at Northwest Hospital

by JOANN VAN WYE

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and nondenominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Chotiner also said he did not know how long it would take to set up abortion facilities at the hospital, if board approval is given.

THE U.S. SUPREME Court ruled on Jan. 22 women have the right to obtain an abortion from a doctor during the first three months of pregnancy.

The ruling was followed March 1 by an order signed by a federal court judge putting Illinois law in compliance with the High Court's decision.

Local approval of performance of abortions would make Northwest Community Hospital the first in the Northwest suburbs to approve such action.

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge has formed a study group of physicians, theologians, administrators and trustees to study the abortion issue and report back to the trustees. The hospital does perform abortions when a pregnancy is a threat to the mother's life.

Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Resurrection Hospital in Park Ridge are following the directive of John Cardinal Cody and are not performing abortions.

Park budget up 11% to $805,000

Palatine park commissioners this week approved a budget of $805,000, an 11 per cent increase over last year's budget.

The 11 per cent hike is expected to be countered by a similar increase in the district's equalized assessed valuation, which would bring in proportionately more revenue.

Taxpayers will be paying about 12 cents more per $100 equalized assessed valuation on their tax bill this year, as a result of a $1.4 million October referendum for park improvements. The current tax rate is 39.4 cents per $100. The budget for the referendum is kept separate from the district's operating budget.

Palatine Park Director Fred P. Hall got a 15 per cent raise when park commissioners increased his salary from $16,500 to $19,001 in the 1973-74 budget.

PAUL JENSEN, president of the park board, said the increase was an effort to bring Hall's salary in line with directors' salaries in other area park districts. And it was for "general recognition of a good job," Jensen said.

Hall headed the park district drive last year to get a $1.4 million October referendum approved by Palatine voters.

Most other raises for administrators and park district employees range from 6 to 10 per cent, Jensen said.

Fees for certain summer programs and season passes for the swimming pools will also go up this year, according to Bruce Beiner, assistant director of parks and recreation.

"THE COST OF the programs, the cost of everything, is up," Beiner said. Most of the registration fee increases are one dollar more than last year, with 16 of some 40 summer programs affected by the new rates.

Swimming pool passes have cost substantially less than in surrounding districts, Beiner said, and the increase in rates is designed to keep the pool on a break-even basis. Besides being hurt by the low fees, Beiner said unusually bad weather last summer caused fewer people to buy the season tickets, a chief source of revenue for the swimming pools. An infiltration system installed last year also cut into the swimming pool budget.

For park district residents, season passes will go up $3 for families, and $2 for individual adults and children. Non-residents will pay an additional $10 for all passes, or $70 for families, $50 for adults and $45 for children.

Library meeting reset for May 8

The regular meeting of the Rolling Meadows Library Board has been changed to May 8 at 8 p.m. at the Rolling Meadows Public Library, 3110 Martin Ln. It had been scheduled for May 1.

Tickets still on sale for Y benefit dance

Tickets for tomorrow's Countryside YMCA dinner-dance are available for Y members and friends at the YMCA office, 115 W. Johnson St., Palatine. The tickets are $16 a couple.

The event begins with a 7 p.m. social hour, followed by dinner at 8:15 in the grand ballroom of the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Northwest Highway at Ill. Rte. 53, Palatine.

The fifth annual meeting will follow the dinner. Members will vote on several by-law changes and additions, including naming the newly-constructed Y after Albert C. Buehler and his family.

The Buehlers gave $750,000 in 1971, on the condition that the same amount be raised through membership drives. As part of the arrangement, YMCA board members promised Buehler that they would name the new facility in honor of his family, for their work with the Y and for the major gift. The official name change will require a two-thirds vote of the members attending tomorrow's meeting.

Under Juckett's bill

Sunday racing local option

The Village of Arlington Heights will be able to decide if it wants Sunday horse racing at Arlington Park, if bills introduced by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, are passed by the Illinois General Assembly.

Juckett said yesterday his horse racing bills will include a provision for local control over Sunday racing. The Park Ridge Republican has introduced legislation allowing race tracks to operate whenever they want to, including Sundays.

"We do not preclude local people from regulation. But I certainly hope that any locality, before it restricts any business, would weigh carefully the consequences on free enterprise," Juckett said yesterday.

In the absence of locally-imposed regulations, Juckett said he would like to see race tracks operate competitively without being told by the state when they can and cannot hold races.

"IT WAS APPARENT to me that there was just too much opportunity for collusion and corruption to secure racing dates," Juckett said, referring to recent scandals involving the racing board's allocation of racing schedules for Illinois tracks.

"Race tracks should be treated like any other free enterprise. When they want to race, let them race. I don't see the distinction between Arlington, Washington or Sportsman's race tracks and Wrigley Field, White Sox Park or the Chicago Stadium."

The possibility of Sunday racing has been welcomed by Arlington Park officials, including race track president Jack Loomer and general manager William Thayer.

Juckett said he did not know what chances for passage his racing bills had because the proposed changes were introduced in the House this week and have not yet been assigned to committee.

But Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, assistant majority leader of the Senate, told the Herald yesterday Juckett's bill likely will not pass this session.

GRAHAM, ALONG with Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, already submitted a package of racing bills, which Graham said should pass. Graham's bill does not include Sunday racing, but deals with the make-up of the Illinois Racing Board proposing it be changed from part-time officials to full-time employees.

Juckett said another important provision of his bills is the fixing of a 10 per cent state tax on the dollars bet at race tracks in place of the present graduated tax.

"In the past, the racing board has awarded two separate racing meets to one track. This has allowed tracks to pay lower taxes because they have been able to divide the total dollars bet," he said.

ARLINGTON PARK is currently defending a suit filed by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott charging the track owes $4.2 million in back taxes as a result of the twin meets held at Arlington in recent years.

"I am proposing a flat 10 per cent tax, which is the same tax base imposed on bingo. If that's good enough for the grandmas and grandpas who play bingo, it's good enough for the horse players," Juckett said.

The present graduated tax stops at 9.25 per cent after the total dollars bet at a track in a season reaches $60 million.

Trial under way in death of Cook County policeman

The wife of a Cook County Sheriff's Police lieutenant from Mount Prospect went on trial yesterday in Cook County Criminal Court charged with murdering her husband.

Ruth Carbone, 29, of 206 Euclid, Mount Prospect, is charged with shooting her husband Joseph, 34, with his service revolver the morning of Dec. 22, 1971.

The state contends Lt. Carbone was shot in the back by his wife on a stairway in their home.

The defense argues the death was an accident and that the revolver went off in a struggle after Carbone himself cocked the gun and threatened his wife with it.

In a brief opening statement, Asst. State's Atty. Anthony Montemurro promised to show the jury that Mrs. Carbone shot and killed her husband.

DEFENSE ATTY. Bernard Brody promised the evidence would show the 6-foot, 200-pound Carbone had cocked his service revolver, pointed it at his wife's head and "using some profane language, threatened to blow her brains out."

"There was a struggle at the top of the stairs during which one shot was fired, resulting, unfortunately, in the demise of the lieutenant," Brody told the jury.

He said Carbone had been drinking heavily the night of Dec. 21 and in the early morning hours of Dec. 22 the policeman struck his wife with his car in the driveway of their home, throwing her into the bushes and bruising her leg. He said Carbone also struck his wife with his fists and that an autopsy after Carbone's death showed bruises on his knuckles from the beating he gave her.

BRODY SAID before the shooting Carbone had also struck his wife several times with the revolver. He said incidents on other occasions had included Carbone threatening to kill his wife, beating her, destroying furniture in their home, and ripping the telephone from the wall of their home.

He said after the shooting Mrs. Carbone called Cook County Sheriff's policemen rather than Mount Prospect police because her husband was a sheriff's policeman.

Buckley, who had been on patrol in Wheeling, was first to arrive at the Carbone home in Mount Prospect.

He said Mrs. Carbone was outside when he arrived and called him to "hurry, please, please help me." He said he found Lt. Carbone lying on his back on the floor of a foyer just inside the door of the home. He said Carbone's eyes were half-way open and his feet were resting on a landing two steps up from the floor.

"I asked her what happened, she (Mrs. Carbone) said 'He's been shot.' I said where, she said 'I don't know, we had a fight,'" Buckley testified.

HE SAID although Lt. Carbone appeared to be dead, he called an ambulance. He said Mrs. Carbone bent over and was holding her husband's head saying, "Joe, please don't leave me."

He denied seeing any bruises or a black eye on Mrs. Carbone but said she was crying.

Shaw testified he came to the home from the Cook County Sheriff's Police station in Niles. He said when he arrived Mrs. Carbone said to him, "Hurry, Don, hurry, Joe's been hurt."

He quoted her as saying, "Help him, Don, he wanted to hurt me and Joe got hurt. Tell me he is all right."

Shaw said there was a large quantity of men's clothing scattered on the stairs and that the policeman's revolver was lying on the second step up from the landing. He said there was a blood smear halfway up the stairs, four feet up on the wall.

SHAW SAID he accompanied the body to Holy Family Hospital where he found two holes left in the body by the bullet, one in the back and one in the chest. The wound in the back was higher, he said. He also reported Carbone had "severely bruised knuckles," and said there was a "bruising effect caused by the entrance of the bullet to the body" around the wound in the back.

He also denied seeing any bruises on Mrs. Carbone. Both policemen said she was "hysterical" when they arrived at the house and both said Carbone has been their supervising officer. Shaw said he had met Mrs. Carbone once before two weeks earlier when she had called for police assistance.

Testimony in the trial is expected to continue for the rest of the week.

Seatbelts urged for all school buses in state

Seatbelts could be required for all school buses in Illinois if a suggestion from Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher is followed.

Atcher proposed the Schaumburg Village Board initiate action to amend to state laws regulating boards of education and cities and villages. The amendment would empower local governments to regulate school buses.

This "is a criticism of our own legislature for not having come up with the answer" to problems of school bus safety, Atcher told the board this week.

The discussion developed from a complaint by Barry Jacobs, 1506 Syracuse La., Schaumburg, that children are allowed to stand on school buses. He asked the board to pass an ordinance requiring all children be seated while a bus is in motion.

VILLAGE ATTY. Jack Siegel said the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled municipalities do not have the power to regulate school buses. Only the local school board or the state school superintendent have that authority, he said.

Atcher proposed the village fight for legislation granting such power to villages, and other legislation requiring seats belts on school buses.

Atcher and Siegel suggested Jacobs take his request to the board of education of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54. Jacobs said he had, but added, "I get the feeling nobody cares."

Jacobs said he was concerned that children could be seriously injured if they were standing when the school bus stopped suddenly, or when an accident occurred. Local police can only check now to see buses are not overloaded. Jacobs said he has tried to make spot checks himself.

WAYNE SCHAIBLE, Dist. 54 superintendent, yesterday reported the district already prohibits children standing when buses are moving, and Schaumburg Transportation Co., the district's bus contractor, has a similar regulation.

"We want the kids to be seated also, and so does the bus company," said Schaible. Occasionally, he said, children ride a different bus than their normal one, which may mean the listed capacity is exceeded for one trip.

Schaible also noted that a bill recently introduced in the State Senate would have required seatbelts. He was notified yesterday it failed in committee. Such measures "should be left to be stated," he said.

A woman at the village board meeting Tuesday, who identified herself only as a fulltime school bus driver, objected to the seat belt proposal, saying she believed small children could panic in an emergency, and not be able to release the seat belts.

This could delay their getting off the bus, and might cause more serious injury than if they had not been restrained in place, she said. She also said bus drivers are very careful not to exceed their legal capacity. Although a change in the number of pupils on their routes might cause a slight overload for a few days, pupils are quickly shifted to other buses to eliminate any excess, she said.

Atcher added his plan is not meant as a criticism of bus drivers or bus companies.

Come fly with me... in my 1937 Cessna

by PAT GERLACH

Nine years ago George Roots picked up a fast little model. His wife Jean has so far offered only limited objections even though Roots and his second love spend many evenings and most weekends together.

At the apex of the triangle stands a 1937 Cessna Airmaster — which makes Mrs. Roots' attitude more believable. Her tolerance, though, is still to be admired.

The Airmaster, being more than 25 years old, qualifies as an antique and the single-engine model is being painstakingly rebuilt by Roots, a 58-year-old Hoffman Estates resident.

IF ALL GOES well, reassembly should be completed this summer and after nearly a decade, the splendidly aging beauty will again be airborne.

"Only flew her once. Back in January, 1964, when I ferried her in from Elgin to Schaumburg Airport where we've been ever since," Roots said.

But he knows she is fast. "Cruises at about 145 mph," he said, adding, the Airmaster model was voted the world's most efficient plane in 1937. Roots is a member and avid booster of the Antique Airplane Association based at DuPage County Airport.

An A & P (airplane and power plane) mechanic for TransWorld Airlines, Roots purchased the plane in good condition from its former owner, a Fox River Valley automobile dealer.

BEING A perfectionist, though, he immediately disassembled the plane and started rebuilding from scratch.

While the plane is being restored as closely as possible to its original state, Roots has added a significant innovation — a swing-out engine which makes repairs a snap.

The modification required obtaining drawings of the Cessna 1935 swing-out engine and mount with proper adaptations for the Airmaster. Federal Aviation Administration certification for the newly engineered mount was also required, Roots said.

A fabric model, the plane is covered with Ceconite, a dacron material, applied and tightened by Roots using an iron borrowed from his wife. Cotton tape reinforcements were also ironed on. The original wing fabric was left intact since Roots determined early in the game that it "tests good."

Radars have now been installed and Roots soon plans to begin upholstering the interior of the four-place aircraft.

THAT COMPLETED. Roots and his nextdoor hangar neighbor, Hank Starman, will begin applying seven, or possibly eight coats of "dope" to the exterior fabric sanding and rubbing down the Ceconite between applications. Then the sleek little bird will have her fuselage painted red with wings and tail becoming a frosty white.

"After a final FAA inspection — away we'll go," said Roots, eager with anticipation. With a "loaded" weight of 2,400 pounds Roots expects the Airmaster to lift-off at between 45 and 50 mph and slow land at about the same speed.

"If there are no obstructions, she'll land in a quarter-mile field," he boasted. And with between 2,000 and 3,000 hours of flying time logged over the past 36 years, George Roots knows what he's talking about.

But why go to all the trouble of rebuilding an old plane instead of going out and buying brand new?

"Because the Airmaster is something that everyone just doesn't see every day," Roots explained. "It brings back a lot of memories," he commented wistfully. His plane just happens to have been built the same year he earned a private license.

BACK IN southwestern Kansas, a young George Roots was known as the kid who was "always nuts about airplanes." Because of this he took a job as a farm hand which brought with it a chance to learn to fly.

"We worked ten hours a day for 20 cents an hour, were given room, board and $15 a month spending money — everything left over went into the promised flying lessons," Roots said.

An apt student, George soloed after eight hours. "I'll never forget, it was in a brand new Aeronica two-cycle engine model — really snazzy." Later when he and Jean were married, their wedding present from a good friend was — you guessed it — a ride in another new plane.

But, after all, what else do you give a young couple like the Roots?

But George confided that Jean is not always thrilled about the time he spends working in a hangar at Schaumburg Airport.

"She sometimes doesn't really like my being gone from home all that much, but she lets me do it anyway," he said.

But in a few years, George and Jean plan to get into that Airmaster and leave Schaumburg permanently to retire in their "now almost-paid-for other home" in Gardner, Kansas, "right near another nice little airport."

Electronics firm hit for $5,000

A break-in at Executone Co. in Palatine Tuesday night resulted in an estimated loss of $5,000 in electronic equipment.

The company, located at 453 S. Vermont St., manufactures intercom systems, and had moved to the Palatine area five months ago from Chicago. The theft was discovered at 7:30 yesterday morning. According to Palatine police Det. Richard Sikorski, a burglar alarm was in the process of being installed and was inoperable at the time of the break-in.

A door to the building had been pryed open in the theft, and items from different areas of the company were stolen, Sikorski said. Police are continuing the investigation.

Resolution must be approved by board of trustees

by JOANN VAN WYE

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and nondenominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Chotiner also said he did not know how long it would take to set up abortion facilities at the hospital, if board approval is given.

THE U.S. SUPREME Court ruled on Jan. 22 women have the right to obtain an abortion from a doctor during the first three months of pregnancy.

The ruling was followed March 1 by an order signed by a federal court judge putting Illinois law in compliance with the High Court's decision.

Local approval of performance of abortions would make Northwest Community Hospital the first in the Northwest suburbs to approve such action.

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge has formed a study group of physicians, theologians, administrators and trustees to study the abortion issue and report back to the trustees. The hospital does perform abortions when a pregnancy is a threat to the mother's life.

Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Resurrection Hospital in Park Ridge are following the directive of John Cardinal Cody and are not performing abortions.

Medical clinic gains city's OK

A medical clinic to be built on Wilmette and Hicks Avenue in Rolling Meadows has been approved by the city council.

The clinic will provide office space for three family doctors, according to Dr. Douglas Finlayson, the doctor who will build the clinic and maintain one of the offices there.

The clinic will specialize in family and industrial medicine — the treatment of accident cases occurring in industry jobs. Severe accident cases will be referred to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Finlayson said.

Before approving the clinic, aldermen had some question about the structural plans of the proposed building, particularly where the front of the building would be located. Finlayson said the clinic will probably front on Wilmette Avenue since placing the building on the lot in this way would allow more space between the boundaries of the property and the building.

ALD. KENNETH RETZKE (5th) was not satisfied with the placement of the clinic and was the only councilman to vote against the clinic.

A different concern was raised by Ald. Thomas Scanlan (1st) who asked Finlayson to answer rumors that the site was to become an abortion clinic. Scanlan said the rumors had been circulated by an unsigned letter sent to aldermen.

"I do not intend and have never intended to do abortions at this clinic," Finlayson said. "This is purely a medical-industrial clinic." Finlayson, who is affiliated with Northwest Community Hospital, said that hospital's medical staff had recently voted to perform abortions.

Finlayson said yesterday the vote of the medical staff was taken last week during a staff meeting but added a decision to allow abortions at the hospital rests with the hospital's board of trustees.

Trustees are expected to vote Monday on an abortion policy.

IN URGING passage of the clinic proposal, Ald. Frederick Jacobson (5th) said he felt the site should be approved because more physicians are needed in the city. A recent medical study pointed to the need for a doctor for every 1,000 persons, Jacobson said. He added that only four or five doctors now practice in the city, which has a population of almost 20,000.

"We need to encourage doctors in this area to provide for the health needs of the city," Jacobson said.

DRUMMING UP SUPPORT for the city-wide cleanup day to be held in Rolling Meadows Saturday are these volunteers. The cleanup will be held as a local effort on national Keep America Beautiful Day. More than 35 city groups and hundreds of individuals will participate in the Saturday morning drive to clean away litter and debris around the city. The effort is being headed by the recycling, ecological and beautification committee.

City council doubles allocation for social welfare services

An expenditure of $19,100 for social welfare services in Rolling Meadows will be included in the city's new budget approved Tuesday.

The sum, which includes $10,000 for emergency family assistance, and $9,500 for youth and family referral service, is more than twice the amount spent for the two categories a year ago, figures show. Last year, the city allocated $3,000 for family assistance and $5,000 for referral service.

The welfare and referral categories are part of the city's record $3,320,547 budget for 1973-74 approved Tuesday. The sum is $505,000 more than last year's budget but will not carry with it a tax increase because the additional revenues will come from the fire tax levy, sales tax revenues, and federal revenue sharing.

Rolling Meadows has no city real estate tax.

TWO ALDERMEN criticized the increased welfare expenditure Tuesday, saying the amount was not needed. Both 5th Ward aldermen, Frederick Jacobson and Kenneth Retzke, said past figures show the two categories have never required more than several thousand dollars to operate.

Retzke said in the present budget year ending Monday, a total of $9,000 was allotted to the two categories, yet only $7,500 was spent. "We have more than doubled this fund. We have only accepted about 8 or 9 major cases (in the welfare department) and to budget this much I think is too large a sum," he said.

Mayor Roland Meyer said the higher budget was needed to account for additional services the city will have to provide if the Northwest Opportunity Center is forced to curtail certain programs for lack of federal funding.

Two weeks ago the city, after bitter debate on whether to contribute $2,000 to the center refused the contribution and instead voted to add another $2,500 to the city welfare budget for "outside services." The category would pay for services the city could not directly offer needy residents.

Meyer had opposed funding the center, which he said is simply a referral agency that provides no direct help to families.

THE CENTER provides among other things legal counseling for families, food, including a special nutrition program for children under six years old, clothing, referral assistance, food stamps, and housing assistance for needy families.

The city welfare office has provided assistance to persons in need of employment, and has made available gift certificates for food purchases at local stores. Housing referrals have also been offered as part of the office's work.

Meyer told Retzke Tuesday the expanded city budget will help families that cannot be helped by the center because "the $130,000 center budget is for referral." But Jacobson then pointed out $1,800 of the city welfare budget has now been allocated for salaries for the director, Phillip Prete, and the assistant director, Nicholas Schmitt.

JACOBSON SAID the welfare officers in the past had donated their time and had indicated they did not want payment for their work. He then moved to delete the $1,800 for salaries from the budget.

"We've been getting these services free until now," Jacobson said. "I feel $1,800 to administer a $6,000 department is too much."

Meyer admitted both Prete and Schmitt said they did not want to be paid for their work in the welfare department. "But I think a category should be included to compensate for their out-of-pocket expenses," Meyer added.

Jacobson's motion to cut the $1,800 salaries was defeated when all but Retzke voted against the proposal.

Under Juckett's bill

Sunday racing local option

The Village of Arlington Heights will be able to decide if it wants Sunday horse racing at Arlington Park. If bills introduced by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, are passed by the Illinois General Assembly.

Juckett said yesterday his horse racing bills will include a provision for local control over Sunday racing. The Park Ridge Republican has introduced legislation allowing race tracks to operate whenever they want to, including Sundays.

"We do not preclude local people from regulation. But I certainly hope that any locality, before it restricts any business, would weigh carefully the consequences on free enterprise," Juckett said yesterday.

In the absence of locally-imposed regulations, Juckett said he would like to see race tracks operate competitively without being told by the state when they can and cannot hold races.

"IT WAS APPARENT to me that there was just too much opportunity for collusion and corruption to secure racing dates," Juckett said, referring to recent scandals involving the racing board's allocation of racing schedules for Illinois tracks.

"Race tracks should be treated like any other free enterprise. When they want to race, let them race. I don't see the distinction between Arlington, Washington or Sportsman's race tracks and Wrigley Field, White Sox Park or the Chicago Stadium."

The possibility of Sunday racing has been welcomed by Arlington Park officials, including race track president Jack Loomie and general manager William Thayer.

Juckett said he did not know what chances for passage his racing bills had because the proposed changes were introduced in the House this week and have not yet been assigned to committee.

But Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, assistant majority leader of the Senate, told the Herald yesterday Juckett's bill likely will not pass this session.

GRAHAM, ALONG with Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, already submitted a package of racing bills, which Graham said should pass. Graham's bill does not include Sunday racing, but deals with the make-up of the Illinois Racing Board proposing it be changed from part-time officials to full-time employees.

Juckett said another important provision of his bills is the fixing of a 10 per cent state tax on the dollars bet at race tracks in place of the present graduated tax.

"In the past, the racing board has awarded two separate racing meets to one track. This has allowed tracks to pay lower taxes because they have been able to divide the total dollars bet," he said.

ARLINGTON PARK is currently defending a suit filed by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott charging the track owes $4.2 million in back taxes as a result of the twin meets held at Arlington in recent years.

"I am proposing a flat 10 per cent tax, which is the same tax base imposed on bingo. If that's good enough for the grandmas and grandpas who play bingo, it's good enough for the horse players," Juckett said.

The present graduated tax stops at 9.25 per cent after the total dollars bet at a track in a season reaches $60 million.

Trial under way in death of Cook County policeman

The wife of a Cook County Sheriff's Police lieutenant from Mount Prospect went on trial yesterday in Cook County Criminal Court charged with murdering her husband.

Ruth Carbona, 29, of 206 Euclid, Mount Prospect, is charged with shooting her husband Joseph, 34, with his service revolver the morning of Dec. 22, 1971.

The state contends Lt. Carbona was shot in the back by his wife on a stairway in their home.

The defense argues the death was an accident and that the revolver went off in a struggle after Carbona himself cocked the gun and threatened his wife with it.

In a brief opening statement, Asst. State's Atty. Anthony Montemurro promised to show the jury that Mrs. Carbona shot and killed her husband.

DEFENSE ATTY. Bernard Brody promised the evidence would show the 6-foot, 200-pound Carbona had cocked his service revolver, pointed it at his wife's head and "using some profane language, threatened to blow her brains out."

"There was a struggle at the top of the stairs during which one shot was fired, resulting, unfortunately, in the demise of the lieutenant," Brody told the jury.

He said Carbona had been drinking heavily the night of Dec. 21 and in the early morning hours of Dec. 22. The policeman struck his wife with his car in the driveway of their home, throwing her into the bushes and bruising her leg.

He said Carbona also struck his wife with his fists and that an autopsy after Carbona's death showed bruises on his knuckles from the beating he gave her.

BRODY SAID before the shooting Carbona had also struck his wife several times with the revolver. He said incidents on other occasions had included Carbona threatening to kill his wife, beating her, destroying furniture in their home, and ripping the telephone from the wall of their home.

He said after the shooting Mrs. Carbona called Cook County Sheriff's policemen rather than Mount Prospect police because her husband was a sheriff's policeman.

Buckley, who had been on patrol in Wheeling, was first to arrive at the Carbona home in Mount Prospect.

He said Mrs. Carbona was outside when he arrived and called him to "hurry, please, please help me." He said he found Lt. Carbona lying on his back on the floor of a foyer just inside the door of the home. He said Carbona's eyes were half-way open and his feet were resting on a landing two steps up from the floor.

"I asked her what happened, she (Mrs. Carbona) said 'He's been shot'. I said where, she said 'I don't know, we had a fight'," Buckley testified.

HE SAID although Lt. Carbona appeared to be dead, he called an ambulance. He said Mrs. Carbona bent over and was holding her husband's head saying, "Joe, please don't leave me."

He denied seeing any bruises or a black eye on Mrs. Carbona but said she was crying.

Shaw testified he came to the home from the Cook County Sheriff's Police station in Niles. He said when he arrived Mrs. Carbona said to him, "Hurry, Don, hurry, Joe's been hurt."

He quoted her as saying, "Help him, Don, he wanted to hurt me and Joe got hurt. Tell me he is all right."

Shaw said there was a large quantity of men's clothing scattered on the stairs and that the policeman's revolver was lying on the second step up from the landing. He said there was a blood smear halfway up the stairs, four feet up on the wall.

SHAW SAID he accompanied the body to Holy Family Hospital where he found two holes left in the body by the bullet, one in the back and one in the chest. The wound in the back was higher, he said. He also reported Carbona had "severely bruised knuckles," and said there was a "bruising effect caused by the entrance of the bullet to the body" around the wound in the back.

He also denied seeing any bruises on Mrs. Carbona. Both policemen said she was "hysterical" when they arrived at the house and both said Carbona has been their supervising officer. Shaw said he had met Mrs. Carbona once before two weeks earlier when she had called for police assistance.

Testimony in the trial is expected to continue for the rest of the week.

Company seeks OK for new hospital here

by MARILYN HEISER

A corporation in the business of building proprietary, or for-profit, hospitals has asked Hoffman Estates to approve construction of a health-care facility.

American Medicorp, a Pennsylvania-based firm, said it "is anxious to construct a new hospital on Barrington Road in Hoffman Estates." The statement came in a letter to Richard Regan, chairman of the village's plan commission.

The firm asked for all approvals and permits necessary to commence immediate construction. The sites mentioned in the letter were a 25-acre site owned by Robin Construction Co. at the corner of Higgins and Barrington roads, and a 30-acre site owned by Kenroy Co. at Bode and Barrington roads.

Richard P. Vogel, president of American Medicorp, in the letter said he would like "an expression of interest from the village regarding construction of the hospital."

ACCORDING TO Regan, American Medicorp has built 40 hospitals across the country and is in the process of building another 15. The for-profit nature of the hospital would be a major factor for the village board to consider in its reply to the letter, Regan said.

The board will discuss the hospital at its May 7 meeting, Regan added. Within 17 months from the granting of approval, the hospital would be up and admitting patients, he quoted the corporation as saying.

American Medicorp brings in its own doctors or solicits area physicians to staff and be affiliated with the hospital, Regan said. A group of physicians in the area have expressed interest in establishing a hospital, but it is not known if they are interested in the American Medicorp proposal.

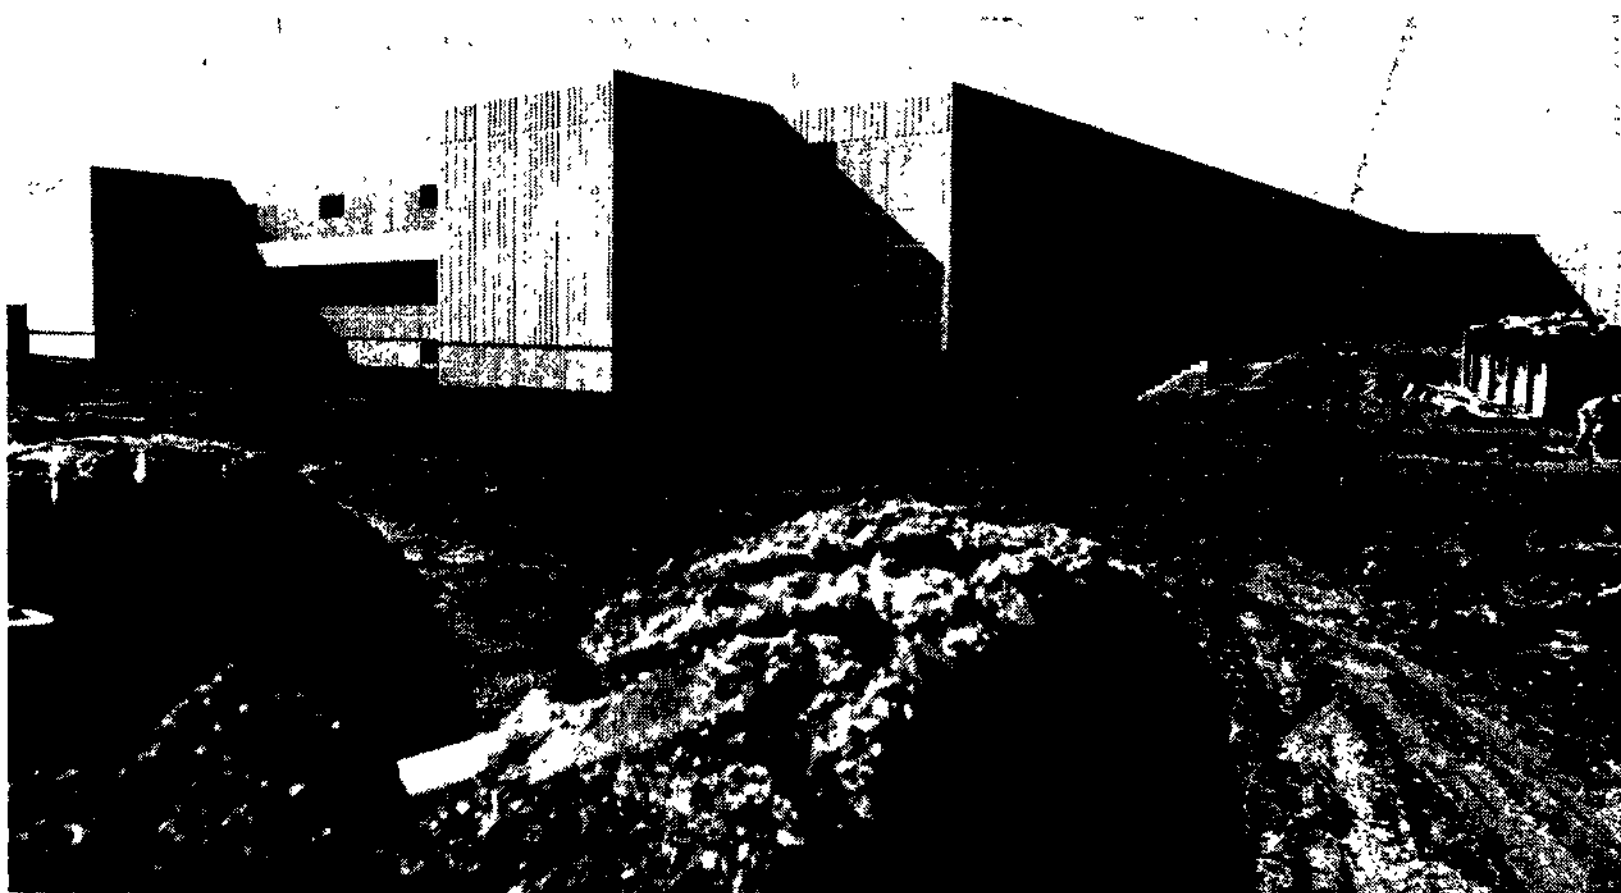

While American Medicorp needs no financial contribution from the community to construct a hospital, Regan said the firm has agreed to include community participation in its bylaws. This would mean community representation on the board of directors, Regan said.

The corporation also agreed it would never turn away a patient because he could not afford to pay for care, he said.

THE PROPRIETARY hospital's letter is the first firm request to build a hospital in Hoffman Estates. However, several other proposals, including two from physician groups, and one from Mt. Sinai Hospital and Medical Center have been reported recently by the Herald.

The Mt. Sinai report was not confirmed by Mt. Sinai officials, but representatives of the hospital have held some discussions with the village. The hospital

Tom Hillesheim plans to move into his May 14, and if he does, he will be the office at Hoffman Estates High School on first full-time occupant of the building which has been growing on Higgins Road during the past year.

Hillesheim is principal of Hoffman Estates High School since last July, even though the school at that time was mostly a hole in the ground. On a recent tour of the building, scheduled for completion in mid-summer, the principal showed the easy familiarity of someone who has watched his own house custom-built.

He proudly pointed to a large room, almost entirely filled with scaffolding.

"That will be the auditorium," he said. "We'll be able to divide it into three lecture halls for team teaching. It will be one of the focal points of the building."

The other building focal point, Hillesheim says, will be the library — or the "instructional materials center" as he is training himself to call it.

"THERE WILL BE space for students to work independently and we've done our best to make it as attractive as possible," he says.

The classrooms around the library and those on the other floors will have removable walls covered by floor to ceiling blackboards. The walls are solid and when installed will provide plenty of separation for classes, but, Hillesheim says, "They also give us flexibility and that's something we're not used to in our district."

Hoffman Estates High School was the first school in High School Dist. 211 designed with the help of a blue ribbon planning committee made up of staff members. The committee worked with the architects from Unteed and Associates within a tight $7.5 million budget, but even so, Hillesheim says, "We're going to have an ideal educational plan."

Another change from past procedure for the district was the naming of Hillesheim as principal a full year before the school was scheduled for completion. The result has been that the principal has been in on all the planning for the school from the ground up.

In addition to watching the construction, Hillesheim has met with the students who will be going to Hoffman Estates next year. The students have chosen the Hawk as their school mascot and royal blue and orange as their colors.

IN TALKING about the school to students, Hillesheim says, he has emphasized that the school provides room for student freedom if students show they can be responsible.

"I've told them we'll start out traditionally and after that there will be as much responsibility as they can take," he says.

Hillesheim was associate principal at Schaumburg High School when that school opened and he is familiar with the student complaints the building "looks like a prison."

In Hoffman Estates, he has had a hand in picking the color schemes and in "trying to make this building clean and relaxed." He adds, "I want the atmosphere to be good, not like a jail, and if I hear any student call it that, I'll say it's his problem — not the building."

Hillesheim is now in the process of staffing the building with teachers and he has gotten between 50 and 75 requests from teachers within the district to transfer to the new building — and considers that a good sign.

The blue ribbon planning committee members, he says, have also kept close watch on the building, even if they won't be working there. "You start to get a lot of pride from the whole staff in the district in this building," he says. "I hope in the next two or three years, big things will be coming from Hoffman Estates High School."

Doctors vote to perform abortions at Northwest

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and nondenominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Fire at Woodfield causes minor damage

A fire of unknown causes at Woodfield Mall last night caused smoke and fire damage to approximately seven stores in the vicinity of Marshall Field and Co.

At press time, police and fire officials estimated extensive water damage to Rags and Riches, Nina's Boutique, the Tinker Box, and Mary Del's. Possible smoke damage may have occurred in Young Folks, Elber Luggage, and SoPro Fabrics, Asst. Mgr. Gary Miller said.

According to Miller, a large red trash basket was the only item that actually burned. The fire started in a second level construction space next to The Glass Shop, below Florsheim Shoes.

By midnight, an hour after Schaumburg Fire Department firemen arrived on the scene, water was still pouring through the ceiling into the Rags and Riches and adjacent shops.

Smoke filled the entire grand court area. Reports of a second fire in Marshall Fields turned out to be false. Smoke filled the men's store at Field's, but firemen said it seeped from the next door area through open sky lights.

There were no injuries reported, and the fire was under control by midnight. Damage estimates were unavailable at press time. This was the first fire inside the Woodfield Mall, Miller said.

The suburbs' giant shopping center towns will be asked shortly to join forces and hire a Springfield lobbyist.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg revealed plans this week to start a movement for such communities to band together and pay for a permanent representative in Springfield.

He plans to ask his board at its next meeting to approve spending approximately $2,500 as Schaumburg's share of the cost.

The lobbyist would be in Springfield whenever the state legislature is in session, to keep local communities informed on pending bills and to present the reactions of the communities to the legislature.

Atcher indicated the catalyst for his plan was a bill now pending which would redistribute local shares of sales taxes collected at regional shopping centers. Under current state law, the community in which a center is located now receives

1-cent for every dollar in sales.

THIS BILL would "just take half our local amount, and distribute it among other communities in a 6-mile radius of the home municipality."

House Bill 1162 would take half of that sales tax and hand it over to towns around us," said Atcher. Schaumburg would lose income from sales taxes generated by Woodfield. He noted Mount Prospect also would be affected by the measure, losing some of its revenues from sales taxes collected at Randhurst. But since Schaumburg is within six miles of Randhurst, and Mount Prospect is within six miles of Woodfield, each community would receive a portion of the sales tax revenue generated by the other village's shopping center.

"There is much wrong with this thing," said Atcher, predicting the legislature would turn it down but adding the village cannot afford to assume it will be defeated.

This bill, and others like it that probably will be introduced in the future, will need "on going attention in Springfield," said Atcher. While Schaumburg and Mount Prospect both are members of the Illinois Municipal League, communities that would gain from these bills also are members, Atcher noted. The league often cannot take a position on pending measures, since not all its members react similarly, he said.

A solution would be for "all towns in the area with regional shopping centers to get together and help defray the cost of permanent representation in Springfield when the legislature is in session," he said.

Atcher defended his position opposing H. B. 1162 by saying, "We're not so selfish that we feel other people don't have anything coming at all. But we don't necessarily feel it should be coming from us."

THE GYMNASIUM at Hoffman Estates High School is nearing completion. Other major features of the school will include an auditorium that can be divided into lecture halls and a large library, also called a "instructional materials center." currently operates a 430-bed facility on Chicago's West Side.

The site most often mentioned for Mt. Sinai is near Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway. It is not known if the hospital is considering a branch facility or complete relocation to Hoffman Estates.

The physicians were reportedly interested in a site at Barrington and Schaumburg roads which was recommended in a study by the Northwest Area Health Resources Association Study Committee.

Robin Construction Co. was reported in April, 1971, as interested in an extended care facility and possibly a hospital on its land at Barrington and Higgins roads.

REGAN HAS SAID there is a possibility the various interested parties would merge and build one hospital. However, more than one hospital could be built, as the state does not grant operating permits on the basis of need.

The number of beds American Mediacorp plans to provide in its hospital is not known. However, Regan said he told the firm to take into consideration the number of beds recommended for the area by the health resources study.

Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center North on Schaumburg Road just west of Roselle Road will contain 200 beds.

Kiss off! Village board warns pesky mosquitos

The Village of Schaumburg has joined Hoffman Estates in contracting with private industry to supplement mosquito control efforts already provided by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District.

Schaumburg approved a contract Tuesday with Clarke Outdoor Spraying Co. Inc., the same firm hired by Hoffman Estates at a meeting the previous day.

But Schaumburg's contract includes more services than were requested by Hoffman Estates. Additional services are use of light trap devices to measure mosquito population increases or migration, nine inspections of breeding areas over an 18-week period and treatment of ponds and small breeding areas with larvacide. Both communities are contracting for one helicopter treatment with larvacides of marsh areas within their borders and larvaciding of water in open street catch basins.

SCHAUMBURG CURRENTLY is involved in a suit filed by the mosquito abatement district seeking voiding of a village ordinance barring use of mala-

Malathion is a chemical used in fog or spray insecticides, which some environmentalists contend is dangerous to small animals and humans. The village ordinance does not prohibit use of other chemicals, or larvacides.

The suit currently is scheduled for trial May 11, but the promotion of the presiding judge and reassignment of the case to another Cook County Circuit Court judge may result in another continuance. The case already has been continued numerous times.

The Village of Palatine also is a defendant in the district's suit. It has a similar ordinance, but Palatine's newly elected village board is seriously considering settling the suit out of court, possibly by revising or repealing its ordinance. Such action was discussed this week.

SCHAUMBURG'S CONTRACT with Clarke is for a total of $5,797, with most of that money going for the helicopter treatment.

The board also approved a contract for repaving at Fire Station No. 1 on Schaumburg Road east of Springguth Road, and opened bids for purchase of a back hoe.

The paving contract, for $14,611.25, was awarded to J. A. Johnson Paving Co. of Arlington Heights, apparent low bidder for four competing firms. Completion was promised in 45 days.

Five firms bid on the back hoe, but a contract was not awarded because of great differences in quotations. The bids were referred to committee for study. Village officials commented it appeared not all the competing firms inspected a back hoe the village is offering in trade, since the amounts allowed for the trade ranged from $300 to $12,307. Base bids, before deducting for the trade, ranged from $14,999 to $26,148.

ALSO APPROVED were contracts using village motor fuel tax receipts for roadway marking materials. For street sign reflector facing, 3-M Co. received a $3,759 contract. Vulcan Signs and Facings, Inc., won a $2,309.15 contract for supply of blank sign plates. Chemitrol Chemical Co. received a $536.50 contract to supply pavement marking paint.

In other action, the board agreed to increase its contribution to a cooperative project with the state for improving signs at the intersection of Algonquin and Meacham roads. The board already had authorized $6,000 for the work, but this week increased that amount by an additional $2,143.

Village engineer Joe Zgonina has begun designing reconstruction of Library Lane. He estimates the work will cost $44,654. The board voted to accept the estimate and authorize Zgonina to seek state approval, as is required since the job is to be financed with motor fuel tax receipts. He anticipates bids will be opened in late June or early July.

Zgonina also reported a bid opening date for installation of traffic signal lights and pavement improvements at Roselle and Schaumburg roads and at Roselle and Wise roads has been delayed by Cook County until June 2. The opening originally was set for May 9. Work will start within 30 days of the awarding of a contract, he said.

Quadros' OK requires repairs

Although the Schaumburg Village Board granted approval for the third phase of Levitt and Sons' Sheffield Manor quadros development, Levitt will not be able to start construction for some time.

The board's approval carried the condition Levitt satisfy complaints from residents of the first two phases of the quadrohome area, and of Sheffield Towne, an adjoining townhouse development, before it can obtain any building permits for Phase III.

Homeowners from both areas attended Tuesday's village board meeting complaining of poor drainage, uncompleted or improperly completed sidewalks, wall sliding falling off buildings in which persons are living and poor roads within the development.

Jerry Harker, representative of Levitt, agreed some of the complaints were valid, and disputed others. However, he said Levitt has every intention of correcting legitimate problems as soon as weather permits. Heavy rains last summer and this spring have hindered service efforts, he said.

Trustee Herbert Aigner suggested the withholding of building permits as a means of ensuring satisfaction for Levitt's customers, and also of ensuring compliance with village demands.

Aigner said Levitt agreed to construct recreational facilities in the first phase of the manor project, but it still has not done so. While Harker did not respond to that remark Tuesday, he has said at meetings with the village plan commission recreational facilities were to be part of each development phase, and a swimming club opening is not due until June 1.

The village requirement that complaints be satisfied is limited to public improvements and building code violations. Mayor Robert O. Atcher emphasized the village has no control over "shoddy workmanship" when it does not involve building codes, adding he did not mean to imply Levitt is guilty of it.

Wife finds mate, 51, dead in garage

A Hoffman Estates man was found in the garage of his home yesterday morning the victim of carbon monoxide poisoning in what police termed an accidental death.

James Rowe, 51, of 411 Kingsdale Rd., was apparently drinking in his car and listening to the radio with the engine running, police said.

When he started feeling the effects of the exhaust fumes he attempted to exit through the garage door but was overcome, police said.

The body was discovered by his wife yesterday morning who suffered a head and leg injury after finding Mr. Rowe.

Police said she went into the garage, turned off the car engine, saw his body, became ill and fainted in the bathroom of the house, striking her head on a vanity.

She later regained consciousness and notified authorities of the incident. Police were alerted at 10:35 a.m.

Mrs. Rowe was reported in fair condition yesterday at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village. She was being treated for a leg fracture.

Seatbelts for school buses backed by Atcher

Seatbelts could be required for all school buses in Illinois if a suggestion from Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher is followed.

Atcher proposed the Schaumburg Village Board initiate action to amend to state laws regulating boards of education and cities and villages. The amendment would empower local governments to regulate school buses.

This "is a criticism of our own legislature for not having come up with the answer" to problems of school bus safety, Atcher told the board this week.

The discussion developed from a complaint by Barry Jacobs, 1506 Syracuse Ln., Schaumburg, that children are allowed to stand on school buses. He asked the board to pass an ordinance requiring all children be seated while a bus is in motion.

VILLAGE ATTY. Jack Siegel said the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled municipalities do not have the power to regulate school buses. Only the local school board or the state school superintendent have that authority, he said.

Atcher proposed the village fight for legislation granting such power to villages, and other legislation requiring seats belts on school buses.

Atcher and Siegel suggested Jacobs take his request to the board of education of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54. Jacobs said he had, but added, "I get the feeling nobody cares."

Jacobs said he was concerned that children could be seriously injured if they were standing when the school bus stopped suddenly, or when an accident occurred. Local police can only check now to see buses are not overloaded. Jacobs said he has tried to make spot checks himself.

WAYNE SCHABLE, Dist. 54 superintendent, yesterday reported the district already prohibits children standing when buses are moving, and Schaumburg Transportation Co., the district's bus contractor, has a similar regulation.

"We want the kids to be seated also, and so does the bus company," said Schable. Occasionally, he said, children ride a different bus than their normal one, which may mean the listed capacity is exceeded for one trip.

Schable also noted that a bill recently introduced in the State Senate would have required seatbelts. He was notified yesterday it failed in committee. Such measures "should be left to be stated," he said.

A woman at the village board meeting Tuesday, who identified herself only as a fulltime school bus driver, objected to the seat belt proposal, saying she believed small children could panic in an emergency, and not be able to release the seat belts.

This could delay their getting off the bus, and might cause more serious injury than if they had not been restrained in place, she said. She also said bus drivers are very careful not to exceed their legal capacity. Although a change in the number of pupils on their routes might cause a slight overload for a few days, pupils are quickly shifted to other buses to eliminate any excess, she said.

Atcher added his plan is not meant as a criticism of bus drivers or bus companies.

Wife charged with slaying

Trial under way in shooting death of county policeman

The wife of a Cook County Sheriff's Police lieutenant from Mount Prospect went on trial yesterday in Cook County Criminal Court charged with murdering her husband.

Ruth Carbona, 29, of 206 Euclid, Mount Prospect, is charged with shooting her husband Joseph, 34, with his service revolver the morning of Dec. 22, 1971.

The state contends Lt. Carbona was shot in the back by his wife on a stairway in their home.

The defense argues the death was an accident and that the revolver went off in a struggle after Carbona himself cocked the gun and threatened his wife with it.

In a brief opening statement, Asst. State's Atty. Anthony Montemurro promised to show the jury that Mrs. Carbona shot and killed her husband.

DEFENSE ATTY. Bernard Brody promised the evidence would show the 6-foot, 200-pound Carbona had cocked his service revolver, pointed it at his wife's head and "using some profane language, threatened to blow her brains out."

"There was a struggle at the top of the stairs during which one shot was fired, resulting, unfortunately, in the demise of the lieutenant," Brody told the jury.

He said Carbona had been drinking heavily the night of Dec. 21 and in the early morning hours of Dec. 22. The policeman struck his wife with his car in the driveway of their home, throwing her into the bushes and bruising her leg. He said Carbona also struck his wife with his fists and that an autopsy after Carbona's death showed bruises on his knuckles from the beating he gave her.

BRODY SAID before the shooting Carbona had also struck his wife several times with the revolver. He said incidents on other occasions had included Carbona threatening to kill his wife, beating her, destroying furniture in their home, and ripping the telephone from the wall of their home.

He said after the shooting Mrs. Carbona called Cook County Sheriff's policemen rather than Mount Prospect police because her husband was a sheriff's policeman.

Buckley, who had been on patrol in Wheeling, was first to arrive at the Carbona home in Mount Prospect.

He said Mrs. Carbona was outside when he arrived and called him to "hurry, please, please help me." He said he found Lt. Carbona lying on his back on the floor of a foyer just inside the door of the home. He said Carbona's eyes were half-way open and his feet were resting on a landing two steps up from the floor.

"I asked her what happened, she (Mrs. Carbona) said 'He's been shot'. I said where, she said 'I don't know, we had a fight'," Buckley testified.

HE SAID although Lt. Carbona appeared to be dead, he called an ambulance. He said Mrs. Carbona bent over and was holding her husband's head saying, "Joe, please don't leave me."

He denied seeing any bruises or a black eye on Mrs. Carbona but said she was crying.

Shaw testified he came to the home from the Cook County Sheriff's Police station in Niles. He said when he arrived Mrs. Carbona said to him, "Hurry, Don, hurry, Joe's been hurt."

He quoted her as saying, "Help him, Don, he wanted to hurt me and Joe got hurt. Tell me he is all right."

Shaw said there was a large quantity of men's clothing scattered on the stairs and that the policeman's revolver was lying on the second step up from the landing. He said there was a blood smear halfway up the stairs, four feet up on the wall.

SHAW SAID he accompanied the body to Holy Family Hospital where he found two holes left in the body by the bullet, one in the back and one in the chest. The wound in the back was higher, he said. He also reported Carbona had "severely bruised knuckles," and said there was a "bruising effect caused by the entrance of the bullet to the body" around the wound in the back.

He also denied seeing any bruises on Mrs. Carbona. Both policemen said she was "hysterical" when they arrived at the house and both said Carbona has been their supervising officer. Shaw said he had met Mrs. Carbona once before two weeks earlier when she had called for police assistance.

Testimony in the trial is expected to continue for the rest of the week.

Doctors vote to perform abortions at Northwest

by JOANN VAN WYE

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and nondenominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Chotiner also said he did not know how long it would take to set up abortion facilities at the hospital, if board approval is given.

THE U.S. SUPREME COURT ruled on Jan. 22 women have the right to obtain an abortion from a doctor during the first three months of pregnancy.

The ruling was followed March 1 by an order signed by a federal court judge putting Illinois law in compliance with the High Court's decision.

Local approval of performance of abortions would make Northwest Community Hospital the first in the Northwest suburbs to approve such action.

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge has formed a study group of physicians, theologians, administrators and trustees to study the abortion issue and report back to the trustees. The hospital does perform abortions when a pregnancy is a threat to the mother's life.

To look at Jack Hogan, you'd never think he was a golf pro. Hired recently as the new professional at the Mount Prospect Park District golf course, Hogan has neither the sun-tanned look of a Jack Nicklaus or the fancy dress of a Chi Chi Rodriguez.

But there's something about a golfer's manner that gives him away — an easy-going look that seems to say that everything is sunny and all is right with the world. Hogan, 41, has that look.

He also has the background. Born in Downers Grove, Hogan grew up in Norwood Park in the shadow of the Tam O'Shanter Country Club. He started caddy at the club when he was nine. "I used to caddy for my dad," he said.

FROM CADDY, he moved on to a job at the club's pro shop. "Then I turned pro at 19," he said. Jumping from amateur to professional status was not an easy feat. According to the Professional Golf Association (PGA) rules, a pro must be able to shoot under 80 consistently.

As soon as Hogan received the new status however, he got an invitation from Uncle Sam and was sent to Germany for two years. "But he did not go far from golf. 'I played on the golf team in Germany and helped build a little nine-hole golf course there,'" he said.

While in Germany, Hogan was planning more than just playing golf as a hobby when he got out. "I had wanted to play the (pro) tour," he said.

But when he returned to the states, Hogan's plans had changed. "I had gotten married. I had a family and then it's difficult," he said. "My ambition now is to play the local tournaments as best I can around here."

Since returning from the service, Hogan has compiled an impressive record of experience. He has worked as an assistant pro at Tam O'Shanter and Brookwood Country Clubs and served as both assistant and head professional at the River Forest Country Club. He came to the park district course in April after one year as head pro at the Salt Creek Country Club in Itasca.

"I think I've adjusted pretty well," he said in explaining the change from working as a golf pro at a country club to one at a park district course. He is especially happy with the teaching situation at the park district course, he said. "There's a noticeable difference in students," he said. "They just seem like they're more hungry for golf here. Because there's a daily fee, they can't play more than once or twice a week."

THOUGH THERE has been a great deal of vandalism at the golf course the past year, Hogan said he and Ken Goodman, greens superintendent, are working on eliminating the problem.

He said the greatest difficulty seems to be with kids coming through the creek to the golf course not to play golf but just to fool around.

Hogan said right now his primary goal as pro at the park district is to teach.

"Here I've got an opportunity to teach a lot of beginners and a lot of children. Some day I'd love to be associated with a future (pro) golfer," he confided.

Asked if he thinks there is any potential for a future pro to come up in the park district ranks, Hogan replied, "We've got the nucleus. We've got the kids and it seems like they're very interested in golf."

As for his own four kids, however, he is a lot more pessimistic. Asked if any of them are interested in a professional career, he grinned and said, "Ironically, no." His career hasn't had much of an effect on his wife, either. "She took two lessons from me and then quit," he laughed.

Crosswalk striping, curbs, gutters

Bids on two Motor Fuel Tax fund projects for Mount Prospect will be considered tonight by the village board.

The board will meet at 8 o'clock in the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

The bids are for crosswalk striping and curb and gutter replacement. With a bid of $4,165, Perma-Line Corp. of America, Chicago, was the lowest and recommended bidder for the 7,000 feet of crosswalk striping. Two other bids were received for the project which will cover 80 crosswalks near schools in the village.

North Shore Cement of Skokie was the low and recommended bidder for the 2,700 feet of replacement curbs and gutters along the 12 miles of streets scheduled for repaving this summer. Their bid of $15,435 was lower than the other four bids.

Bids also were received for a third project, but are not being scheduled for discussion tonight. That project is to resurface concrete lanes on Albert and George streets between Central Road and Northwest Highway.

TRUSTEE DONALD B. Furst said he has received at least one request from a homeowner in the area asking whether it would be possible to have curbs and gutters put in also. Furst said he feels this possibility should be investigated first before awarding a street resurfacing contract, as the curbing project may involve partially digging up the road surface.

A special assessment may be necessary for the curbing and gutter work, Furst said, as storm water drains would also be put in. He said he plans to speak with residents of the two streets next week to find out if they would support a special assessment.

Of the six bids received, Glaze Construction Co. of Algonquin submitted the lowest of $19,889.25. According to Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley, the bid was about $4,000 under the village's estimate.

Glaze is the contractor who is currently doing the improvement work on Main Street, from Central Road to Evergreen Avenue.

Sunday racing local option, Rep. Juckett's bill says

The Village of Arlington Heights will be able to decide if it wants Sunday horse racing at Arlington Park, if bills introduced by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, are passed by the Illinois General Assembly.

Juckett said yesterday his horse racing bills will include a provision for local control over Sunday racing. The Park Ridge Republican has introduced legislation allowing race tracks to operate whenever they want to, including Sundays.

"We do not preclude local people from regulation. But I certainly hope that any locality, before it restricts any business, would weigh carefully the consequences on free enterprise," Juckett said yesterday.

In the absence of locally-imposed regulations, Juckett said he would like to see race tracks operate competitively without being told by the state when they can and cannot hold races.

"IT WAS APPARENT to me that there was just too much opportunity for collusion and corruption to secure racing dates," Juckett said, referring to recent scandals involving the racing board's allocation of racing schedules for Illinois tracks.

"Race tracks should be treated like any other free enterprise. When they want to race, let them race. I don't see the distinction between Arlington, Washington or Sportsman's race tracks and Wrigley Field, White Sox Park or the Chicago Stadium."

The possibility of Sunday racing has been welcomed by Arlington Park officials, including race track president Jack Loomis and general manager William Thayer.

Juckett said he did not know what chances for passage his racing bills had because the proposed changes were introduced in the House this week and have not yet been assigned to committee.

But Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, assistant majority leader of the Senate, told the Herald yesterday Juckett's bill likely will not pass this session.

GRAHAM, ALONG with Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, already submitted a package of racing bills, which Graham said should pass. Graham's bill does not include Sunday racing, but deals with the make-up of the Illinois Racing Board proposing it be changed from part-time officials to full-time employees.

Juckett said another important provision of his bills is the fixing of a 10 percent state tax on the dollars bet at race tracks in place of the present graduated tax.

"In the past, the racing board has awarded two separate racing meets to one track. This has allowed tracks to pay lower taxes because they have been able to divide the total dollars bet," he said.

ARLINGTON PARK is currently defending a suit filed by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott charging the track owes $4.2 million in back taxes as a result of the twin meets held at Arlington in recent years.

"I am proposing a flat 10 per cent tax, which is the same tax base imposed on bingo. If that's good enough for the grandmas and grandpas who play bingo, it's good enough for the horse players," Juckett said.

The present graduated tax stops at 9.25 per cent after the total dollars bet at a track in a season reaches $60 million.

Just for the record, Bob Teichert won

The official Mount Prospect village election vote count, released Tuesday, showed that Mayor Robert D. Teichert won reelection by 2,181 votes over challenger Michael Minton.

Unofficial tallies released last week had put Teichert's victory margin at 2,904. Teichert received votes on 56.9 per cent of the 10,706 ballots cast in the April 17 election. Minton had 36.6 per cent and the third mayoral candidate, Albert Motsch, had 6.5 per cent.

With 23,813 residents eligible to vote, the 10,706 represented a turnout of 45 per cent. Precincts 17, 18, 19 and part of 11 contain the area annexed to the village in 1971. The turnout in these four precincts was only 37.6 per cent, or 2,074 voters. This was the first chance for the annexed residents to vote in a village election.

IN THE RACE FOR the three four-year village trustee spots, the officials results were 7,416 for Patrick J. Link; 7,074 for Donald B. Furst; 6,904 for Bud Richardson; and 4,626 for Leo Flores. The first three were all incumbents.

Richard Hendricks was elected unopposed to the two-year trustee post with 8,440 votes, and Donald Goodman was re-elected village clerk with 8,096 votes. He was also unopposed.

In the library board race for two six-year terms, the results were Jack Anderson, 7,312; Miriam Star, 6,187; and Samuel Hees, 4,625.

For village trustee, there were numerous write-ins. Edward Rhea, who had organized a write-in campaign, had the most with 256. The other 41 write-in votes were scattered among 11 persons.

There was a single write-in vote for library trustee and Lloyd Norris' organized write-in campaign for village clerk yielded him 282 votes. Four other village clerk votes were shared by four persons.

700 gallons of gas goes down the drain

More than 700 gallons of gasoline was lost early yesterday from the Checker gas station, Rand and Central roads, when vandals opened five pump hoses and left them discharging on the ground.

Mount Prospect fire apparatus was called at 3:32 a.m. to wash down the area. The station attendant, Douglas Hedlund, 508 N. Emerson St., Mount Prospect, told police he was doing stock work within the station when the incident occurred. He said a customer came in and told him gas was spilling.

Your world begins each day at a certain time. If you're like most Northwest Suburban people, your day begins in a comfortable bedroom, in a warm home. Most of what you cherish is in that home. People you love, the intangibles that bind you to them, the security you've provided for them.

These are the things that make home ownership so important to most people. They're the same things that make our job so rewarding. For at First Federal Savings of Des Plaines, we've always considered home loans as more than mere financing of four walls and a roof. We've always tried to make home loans with the knowledge of the very personal and private satisfaction they can bring to people. And that is why our Home Loan with a Heart is more than a slogan. It's an important part of the lives of thousands of people in this area. And, we aim to keep it important for thousands more.

Wage accord reached with firemen, police

Wage agreements with village policemen and firemen were approved this week by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Each agreement, including the first written contract with the Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA), was approved Tuesday by a unanimous 6-0 vote. The local chapter of the CCPA, a police man's bargaining agent, was formed last year.

The agreements under which policemen get up to 5 per cent wage increases and firemen get 4.5 per cent were tentatively approved by the village board earlier this month.

The police contract includes longevity pay of between $100 to $400, based on the amount of service, for policemen who have been with the department five years or more. Policemen will also be given three weeks vacation after seven years rather than the current 10 years.

HOSPITALIZATION payments by policemen will be lowered from $250.32 for each man to $120. The village will pay the difference. Each man will be allowed one personal day off with pay each year.

The contract with policemen expressly forbids strikes. The new salary schedule shows beginning patrolmen earning $10,960. After 42 months, a patrolman reaches the top salary of $14,074.

The firemen did not receive a written contract. Instead, the village board approved the agreement with firemen by passing a resolution. The firemen were given an across the board 4.5 per cent salary hike which means a beginner will get $10,960. The maximum salary, reached after 3½ years, will be $14,007.

THE FIREMEN'S work week will be reduced from 54 hours to 50 hours, a continuation of a village board effort to get the work week down to 40 hours. This effort began last year when the board cut two hours off the work week.

The reduction in hours for next year (the fiscal year begins Tuesday) means firemen will receive one extra day off per month, or 12 days per year. Part of the agreement, according to Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley, was that further requests for work week reductions would not be made for three years.

Seatbelts urged for all school buses in state

Seatbelts could be required for all school buses in Illinois if a suggestion from Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher is followed.

Atcher proposed the Schaumburg Village Board initiate action to amend to state laws regulating boards of education and cities and villages. The amendment would empower local governments to regulate school buses.

This "is a criticism of our own legislature for not having come up with the answer" to problems of school bus safety, Atcher told the board this week.

The discussion developed from a complaint by Barry Jacobs, 1506 Syracuse Ln., Schaumburg, that children are allowed to stand on school buses. He asked the board to pass an ordinance requiring all children be seated while a bus is in motion.

VILLAGE ATTY. Jack Siegel said the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled municipalities do not have the power to regulate school buses. Only the local school board or the state school superintendent have that authority, he said.

Atcher proposed the village fight for legislation granting such power to villages, and other legislation requiring seats belts on school buses.

Atcher and Siegel suggested Jacobs take his request to the board of education of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54. Jacobs said he had, but added, "I get the feeling nobody cares."

Jacobs said he was concerned that children could be seriously injured if they were standing when the school bus stopped suddenly, or when an accident occurred. Local police can only check now to see buses are not overloaded. Jacobs said he has tried to make spot checks himself.

WAYNE SCHAIBLE, Dist. 54 superintendent, yesterday reported the district already prohibits children standing when buses are moving, and Schaumburg Transportation Co., the district's bus contractor, has a similar regulation.

"We want the kids to be seated also, and so does the bus company," said Schaible. Occasionally, he said, children ride a different bus than their normal one, which may mean the listed capacity is exceeded for one trip.

Schaible also noted that a bill recently introduced in the State Senate would have required seatbelts. He was notified yesterday it failed in committee. Such measures "should be left to be stated," he said.

A woman at the village board meeting Tuesday, who identified herself only as a fulltime school bus driver, objected to the seat belt proposal, saying she believed small children could panic in an emergency, and not be able to release the seat belts.

This could delay their getting off the bus, and might cause more serious injury than if they had not been restrained in place, she said. She also said bus drivers are very careful not to exceed their legal capacity. Although a change in the number of pupils on their routes might cause a slight overload for a few days, pupils are quickly shifted to other buses to eliminate any excess, she said.

Atcher added his plan is not meant as a criticism of bus drivers or bus companies.

Lobbyist asked for shop center towns

The suburbs' giant shopping center towns will be asked shortly to join forces and hire a Springfield lobbyist.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg revealed plans this week to start a movement for such communities to band together and pay for a permanent representative in Springfield.

He plans to ask his board at its next meeting to approve spending approximately $2,500 as Schaumburg's share of the cost.

The lobbyist would be in Springfield whenever the state legislature is in session, to keep local communities informed on pending bills and to present the reactions of the communities to the legislature.

Atcher indicated the catalyst for his plan was a bill now pending which would redistribute local shares of sales taxes collected at regional shopping centers. Under current state law, the community in which a center is located now receives 1-cent for every dollar in sales.

THIS BILL would "just take half our local amount, and distribute it among other communities in a 6-mile radius of the home municipality."

House Bill 1162 would take half of that sales tax and hand it over to towns around us," said Atcher. Schaumburg would lose income from sales taxes generated by Woodfield. He noted Mount Prospect also would be affected by the measure, losing some of its revenues from sales taxes collected at Randhurst. But since Schaumburg is within six miles of Randhurst, and Mount Prospect is within six miles of Woodfield, each community would receive a portion of the sales tax revenue generated by the other village's shopping center.

"There is much wrong with this thing," said Atcher, predicting the legislature would turn it down but adding the village cannot afford to assume it will be defeated.

This bill, and others like it that probably will be introduced in the future, will need "on going attention in Springfield," said Atcher. While Schaumburg and Mount Prospect both are members of the Illinois Municipal League, communities that would gain from these bills also are members, Atcher noted. The league often cannot take a position on pending measures, since not all its members react similarly, he said.

A solution would be for "all towns in the area with regional shopping centers to get together and help defray the cost of permanent representation in Springfield when the legislature is in session," he said.

Atcher defended his position opposing H. B. 1162 by saying, "We're not so selfish that we feel other people don't have anything coming at all. But we don't necessarily feel it should be coming from us."

Pupil test scores down—why?

Students in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 have been dropping in achievement test scores — and Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent of curriculum, has to figure out why.

Stevenson reported to the school board earlier this month that in the five-year period from 1968 to 1973, the overall score of sixth graders dropped from 6.8 to 6.5. During the same period, seventh graders went from 7.9 to 7.6.

Statistics are now being compiled for the third, fourth and fifth graders in the district.

The scores were from the "Iowa Achievement Test" which is annually given in mid-school year to all Dist. 59 students. The tests are designed to measure proficiency in various skills such as reading comprehension, spelling, arithmetic problem solving, punctuation and capitalization. The overall score is the average for the various tests.

SCORES MEASURE ability in comparison to educational experience. For example, an "average score" for children in the second month of sixth grade would be 6.2. "Average" children in the fifth month of seventh grade would score 7.5.

Stevenson cautioned parents and teachers against "over-reacting" to the drop in scores. "You have to keep reminding people that we don't suffer the problem of being below the national average. We just have the urgency to do better," he said.

Stevenson also said scores should not be interpreted on an individual student basis. "The tests are designed to measure large groups. The test authors say the validity of the test decreases as the number of people being tested goes down. Obviously, when you discuss tests in a one on one situation, you've got problems," he said.

What is important in the test scores, said Stevenson, is the overall results from the district. The drop in sixth and seventh grade scores, "should be cause for me to look into the problem," he said.

According to Stevenson, declining scores could be caused by a variety of factors, ranging from a drop in the economic status of the district's parents to improper techniques of administering the tests. He said he is not going to consider causes which are only "rationalizations" or beyond the district's control, but will concentrate his efforts on possible causes over which the district has some control.

STEVENSON SAID the first step would be to meet with principals and teachers to determine what is expected of students and then to look at the test results to see where expectations are not being met. Different techniques can then be tried to see if test results meet expectations.

Among the alternatives open to the district are:

- Changing curriculum emphasis.
- Offering more consultancy and supervisory help to the classroom teacher.
- Studying the effects of the district's current philosophy of emphasizing individual student instruction without reducing class size.
- Determining if other goals, not measured by the achievement tests, are more important to the district.

STEVENSON SAID there is a problem of "time lag" between implementing a change and being able to measure the effects of change. For example, the district has a new English program which was started in September. The effects of the program cannot be measured until after the start of the next school year.

Even the results after the first year are not valid because test scores can fluctuate widely from year to year. Testing requires several years to determine the trend of the scores.

Resolution must be approved by board of trustees

Doctors vote to OK abortions at Northwest Hospital

by JOANN VAN WYE

The majority of the doctors at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has voted in favor of performing abortions there.

The vote came at a full staff meeting about a week and a half ago, according to Burton Chotiner, vice president of administration at the hospital.

"There were mixed feelings" and it was not a clear mandate to the board, said Chotiner. He indicated the resolution the hospital should provide facilities for abortions passed by a slim margin. Approximately 170 physicians voted on the resolution.

THE OUTCOME of the medical staff vote will be presented to the board of trustees at a Monday night meeting when the abortion issue is to be discussed. The board will make the final decision on whether the hospital will perform abortions on demand.

The vote was requested by the board which felt it "needed medical staff input before making such a decision," said Chotiner.

Jack Ryan, a hospital spokesman, indicated there was a "good possibility" the board would allow the performance of abortions because the hospital is private and nondenominational.

Chotiner would not speculate on the vote of the board of directors calling the abortion issue "emotional."

Chotiner also said he did not know how long it would take to set up abortion facilities at the hospital, if board approval is given.

THE U.S. SUPREME Court ruled on Jan. 22 women have the right to obtain an abortion from a doctor during the first three months of pregnancy.

The ruling was followed March 1 by an order signed by a federal court judge putting Illinois law in compliance with the High Court's decision.

Local approval of performance of abortions would make Northwest Community Hospital the first in the Northwest suburbs to approve such action.

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge has formed a study group of physicians, theologians, administrators and trustees to study the abortion issue and report back to the trustees. The hospital does perform abortions when a pregnancy is a threat to the mother's life.

Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Resurrection Hospital in Park Ridge are following the directive of John Cardinal Cody and are not performing abortions.

New flood-control vote date asked

The Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding has voted to recommend that a $14.3 million flood control referendum, postponed Monday night by the village board, be rescheduled July 14.

The village board postponed the referendum, which had been set for June 2, pending completion of a special landscape study of Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.

July 14 is the third date to be proposed for a vote on the comprehensive flood control program prepared by R. J. Peterson consulting engineers. Originally the referendum had been scheduled to coincide with the village election April 3, but the date was later changed to June 2.

THE VILLAGE BOARD Monday night authorized the firm of Novak and Carlson landscape architects, to investigate the feasibility of a surface retention basin at Pioneer Park. The special study will cost $2,500 and is expected to be complete in about three weeks.

Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, said the July 14 date was chosen by the committee because it would allow enough time to analyze the Pioneer Park study and then mount a referendum information campaign.

The date also was chosen in light of a two-month moratorium on flood control reservoirs announced April 12 by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD), Palmatier said.

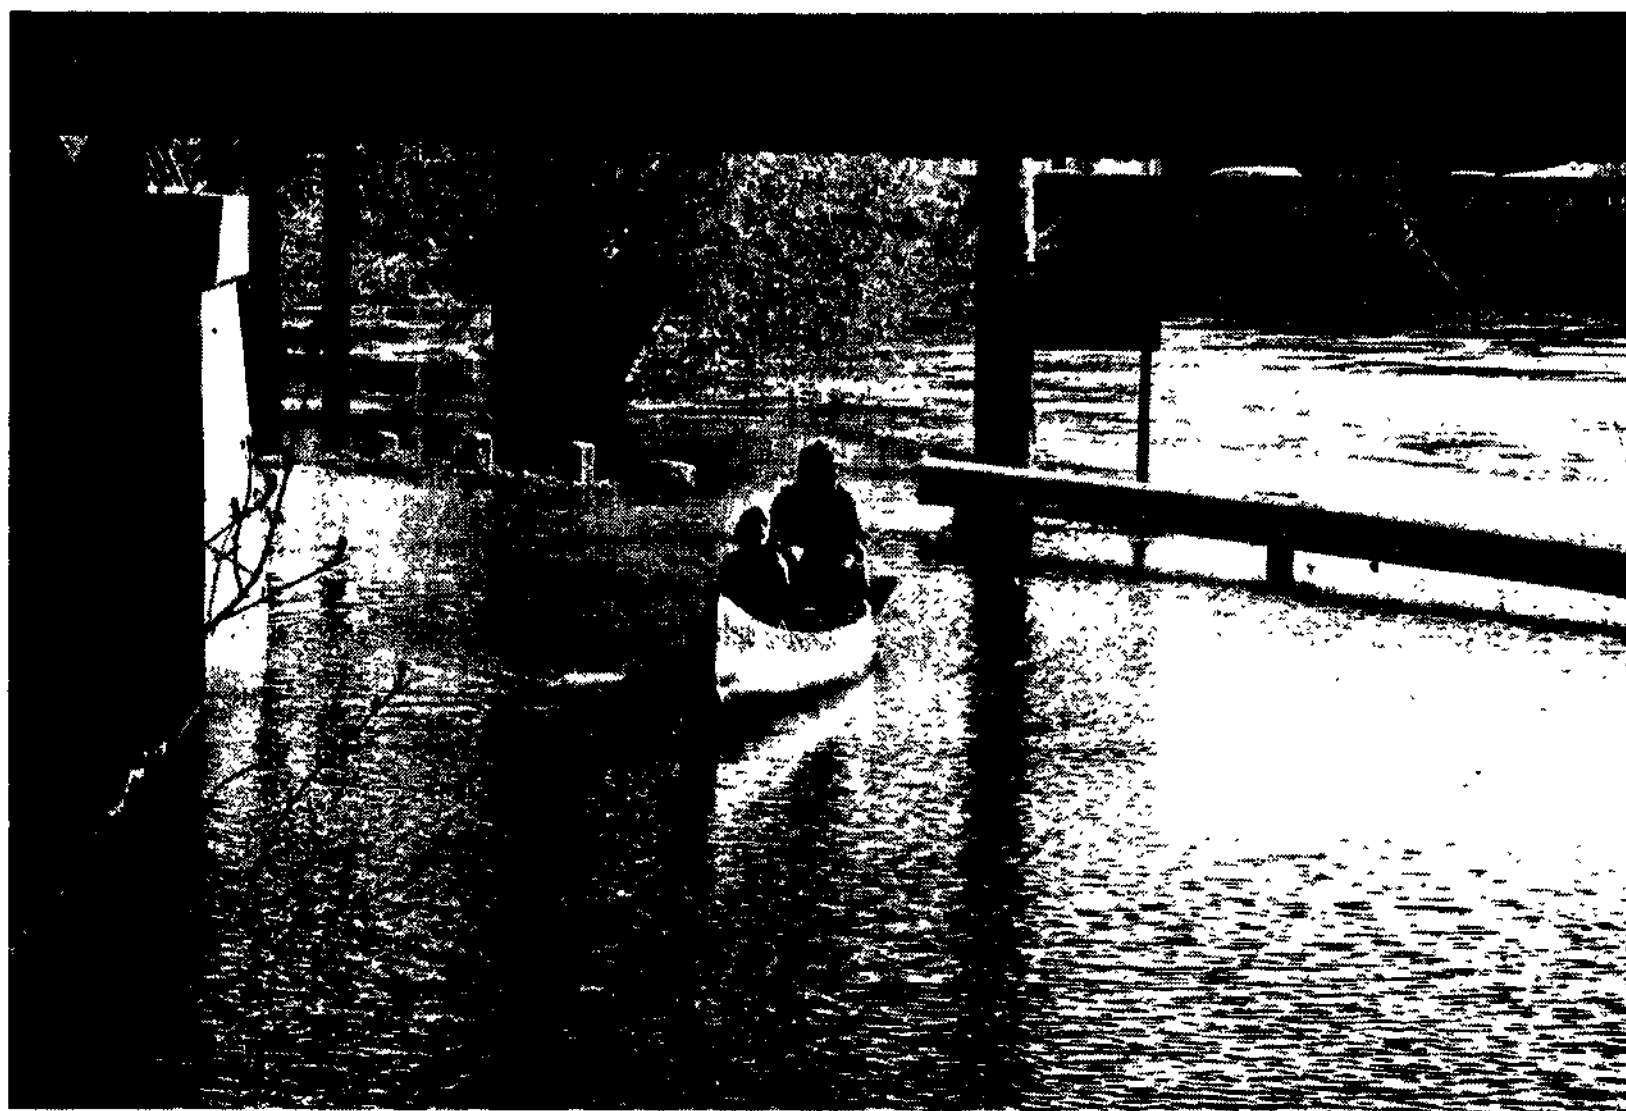

The MSD called for the delay in order to work on a new flood control plan aimed at coordinating projects throughout the metropolitan area.

"The committee thought it best to put the referendum off far enough to give time to react to the new guidelines," Palmatier said.

"AS I UNDERSTAND it, what is being proposed is a system of priorities in which I think we would fare quite well because of the McDonald Creek project that would benefit several communities as well as unincorporated areas."

The Peterson report originally proposed the creation of a 100-acre lake, Lake Arlington, along the McDonald Creek flood plain. The plans were later changed to a 66-acre, dry-bottom basin, after the MSD indicated it would not contribute money to the additional cost of building a permanent lake.

Money was later added to the referendum acquisition along the creek that could be used for development of the lake at some future time.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER found the heavily flooded Des Plaines River to be an ideal place to launch a canoe. Richard Frisbie, Arlington Heights, and his daughter, Margaret, paddled their canoe from Dam No. 1 to downtown Des Plaines where the swollen river covered Camp Ground Road and Forest Preserve land.

Sunday racing a local option, Rep. Juckett's bill says

The Village of Arlington Heights will be able to decide if it wants Sunday horse racing at Arlington Park, if bills introduced by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, are passed by the Illinois General Assembly.

Juckett said yesterday his horse racing bills will include a provision for local control over Sunday racing. The Park Ridge Republican has introduced legislation allowing race tracks to operate whenever they want to, including Sundays.

"We do not preclude local people from regulation. But I certainly hope that any locality, before it restricts any business, would weigh carefully the consequences on free enterprise," Juckett said yesterday.

In the absence of locally-imposed regulations, Juckett said he would like to see race tracks operate competitively without being told by the state when they can and cannot hold races.

"IT WAS APPARENT to me that there was just too much opportunity for collusion and corruption to secure racing dates," Juckett said, referring to recent scandals involving the racing board's allocation of racing schedules for Illinois tracks.

"Race tracks should be treated like any other free enterprise. When they want to race, let them race. I don't see the distinction between Arlington, Washington or Sportsman's race tracks and Wrigley Field, White Sox Park or the Chicago Stadium."

The possibility of Sunday racing has been welcomed by Arlington Park officials, including race track president Jack Loomer and general manager William Thayer.

Juckett said he did not know what chances for passage his racing bills had because the proposed changes were introduced in the House this week and have not yet been assigned to committee.

But Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, assistant majority leader of the Senate, told the Herald yesterday Juckett's bill likely will not pass this session.

GRAHAM, ALONG with Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, already submitted a package of racing bills, which Graham said should pass. Graham's bill does not include Sunday racing, but deals with the make-up of the Illinois Racing Board proposing it be changed from part-time officials to full-time employees.

Juckett said another important provision of his bills is the fixing of a 10 per cent state tax on the dollars bet at race tracks in place of the present graduated tax.

"In the past, the racing board has awarded two separate racing meets to one track. This has allowed tracks to pay lower taxes because they have been able to divide the total dollars bet," he said.

ARLINGTON PARK is currently defending a suit filed by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott charging the track owes $4.2 million in back taxes as a result of the twin meets held at Arlington in recent years.

"I am proposing a flat 10 per cent tax, which is the same tax base imposed on bingo. If that's good enough for the grandmas and grandpas who play bingo, it's good enough for the horse players," Juckett said.

The present graduated tax stops at 9.25 per cent after the total dollars bet at a track in a season reaches $60 million.

Panel urges McKinley rail crossing

A special village board committee has recommended moving a proposed railroad crossing at the eastern end of the village from Arthur Avenue to McKinley Avenue.

The change has been suggested because of engineering difficulties encountered at the Arthur Avenue site.

The Arthur Avenue crossing has been in the works for nearly seven years. Only recently it was discovered by village engineers that a crossing there would be nearly impossible because of construction problems. Village Engineer, Allen Sander, said the project at Arthur Ave. would require track relocations.

The engineering department is currently preparing the McKinley Avenue project for approval by the Illinois Transportation Department. If approved by the department, the plans must also be submitted to the Illinois Commerce Commission before construction begins.

Sander said that construction will not be completed this year.

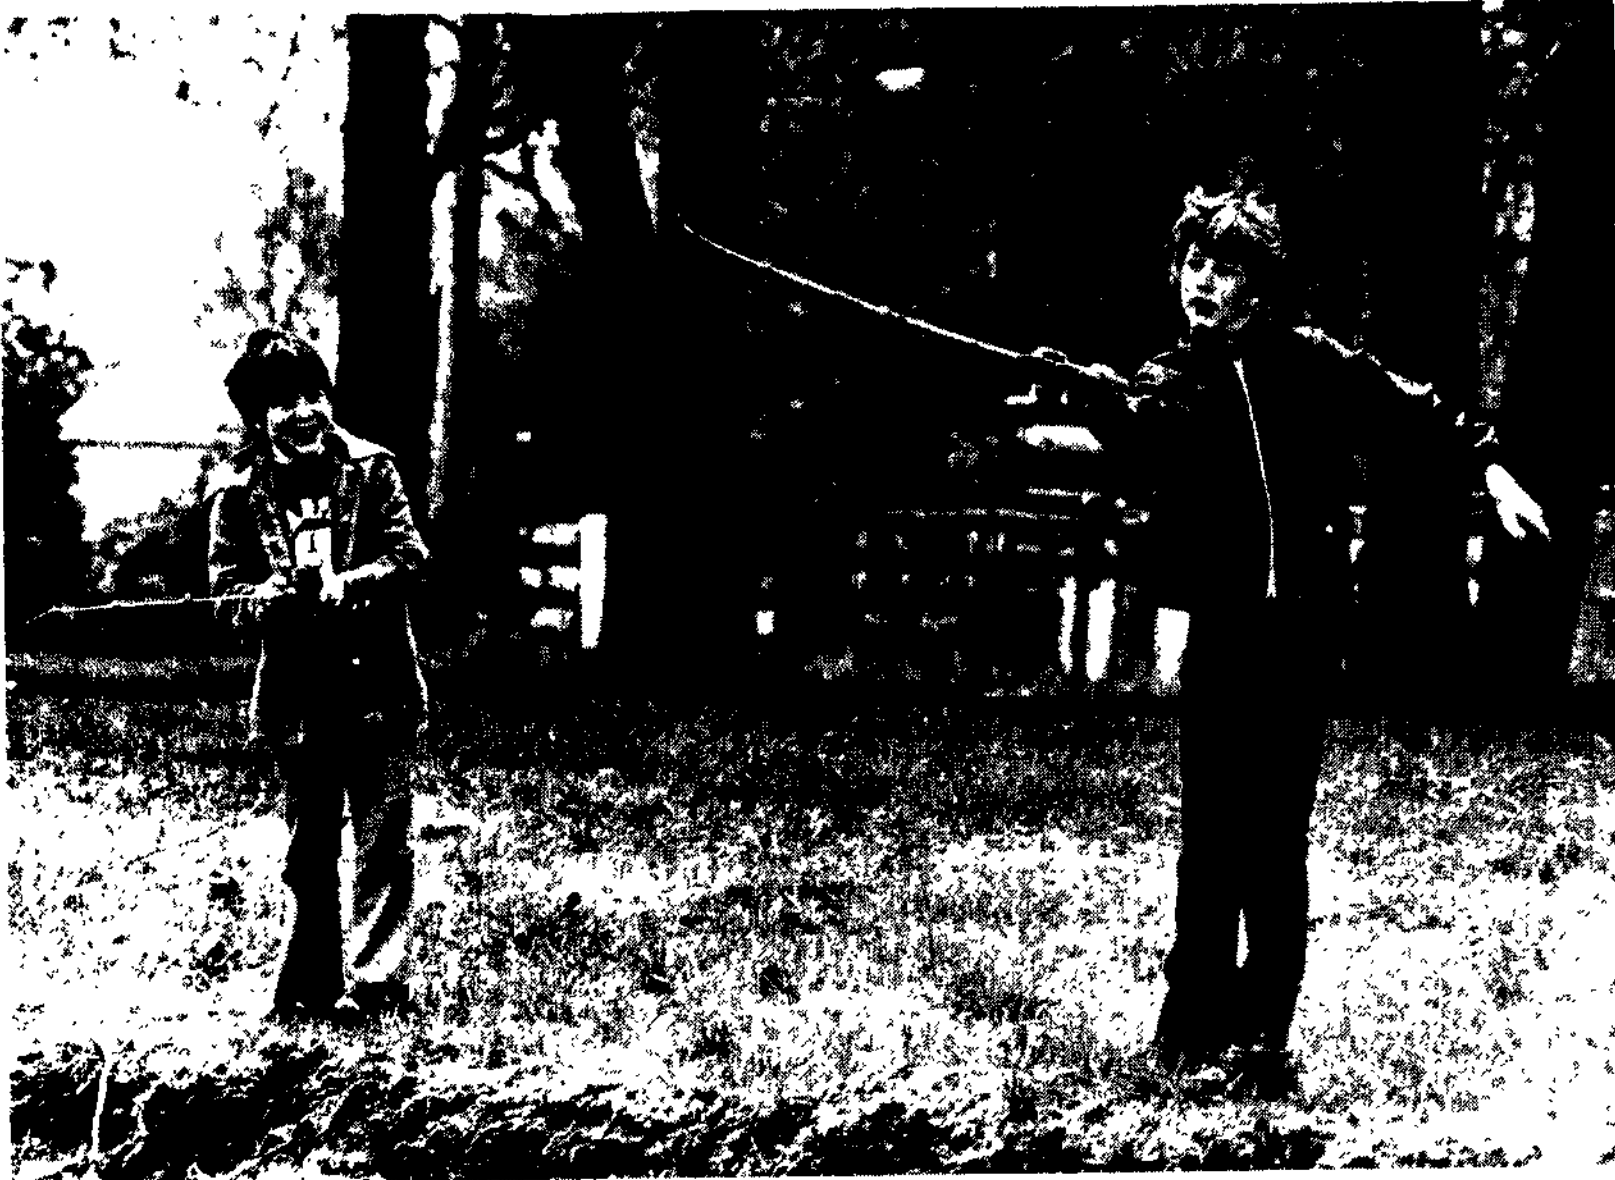

Meanwhile, work is in progress on paving Davis Street from Dryden to Arthur avenues.

The Board has instructed the village consulting engineers to change plans by widening Davis Street to the south from six to eight feet, as suggested by Sander.

Plans to widen Davis Street will accommodate the traffic at the crossing and will not necessitate further paving once the project is finished.

The cost of constructing the McKinley Avenue railroad crossing has not been determined, but Sander estimated it would cost the village "in excess of $100,000."

When completed, the McKinley Avenue crossing will enable residents traveling north on Davis Street and Northwest Highway access to the southeast section of the village.

Elk Grove supports regional park here

The Elk Grove Village Board has voted to support the Village of Arlington Heights in its effort to acquire the Arlington Heights Nike base for a regional park.

Elk Grove Village trustees voted Tuesday night to instruct the village manager to prepare a resolution supporting the park land acquisition effort.

The Village of Arlington Heights, the Arlington Heights Park district, as well as several area state representatives recently have protested plans by the Navy to build 140 housing units at the Nike base, located at Wilke and Central roads.

The Village of Palatine and the Palatine Park District also have endorsed the park proposal.

Trial underway in policeman's death

The wife of a Cook County Sheriff's Police lieutenant from Mount Prospect went on trial yesterday in Cook County Criminal Court charged with murdering her husband.

Ruth Carbone, 29, of 206 Euclid, Mount Prospect, is charged with shooting her husband Joseph, 34, with his service revolver the morning of Dec. 22, 1971.

The state contends Lt. Carbone was shot in the back by his wife on a stairway in their home.

The defense argues the death was an accident and that the revolver went off in a struggle after Carbone himself cocked the gun and threatened his wife with it.

In a brief opening statement, Asst. State's Atty. Anthony Montemurro promised to show the jury that Mrs. Carbone shot and killed her husband.

DEFENSE ATTY. Bernard Brody promised the evidence would show the 6-foot, 200-pound Carbone had cocked his service revolver, pointed it at his wife's head and "using some profane language, threatened to blow her brains out."

"There was a struggle at the top of the stairs during which one shot was fired, resulting, unfortunately, in the demise of the lieutenant," Brody told the jury.

He said Carbone had been drinking heavily the night of Dec. 21 and in the early morning hours of Dec. 22. The policeman struck his wife with his car in the driveway of their home, throwing her into the bushes and bruising her leg. He said Carbone also struck his wife with his fists and that an autopsy after Carbone's death showed bruises on his knuckles from the beating he gave her.

BRODY SAID before the shooting Carbone had also struck his wife several times with the revolver. He said incidents on other occasions had included Carbone threatening to kill his wife, beating her, destroying furniture in their home, and ripping the telephone from the wall of their home.

He said after the shooting Mrs. Carbone called Cook County Sheriff's policemen rather than Mount Prospect police because her husband was a sheriff's policeman.

Buckley, who had been on patrol in Wheeling, was first to arrive at the Carbone home in Mount Prospect.

He said Mrs. Carbone was outside when he arrived and called him to "hurry, please, please help me." He said he found Lt. Carbone lying on his back on the floor of a foyer just inside the door of the home. He said Carbone's eyes were half-way open and his feet were resting on a landing two steps up from the floor.

"I asked her what happened, she (Mrs. Carbone) said 'He's been shot'. I said where, she said 'I don't know, we had a fight,'" Buckley testified.

HE SAID although Lt. Carbone appeared to be dead, he called an ambulance. He said Mrs. Carbone bent over and was holding her husband's head saying, "Joe, please don't leave me."

He denied seeing any bruises or a black eye on Mrs. Carbone but said she was crying.

Shaw testified he came to the home from the Cook County Sheriff's Police station in Niles. He said when he arrived Mrs. Carbone said to him, "Hurry, Don, hurry, Joe's been hurt."

He quoted her as saying, "Help him, Don, he wanted to hurt me and Joe got hurt. Tell me he is all right."

Shaw said there was a large quantity of men's clothing scattered on the stairs and that the policeman's revolver was lying on the second step up from the landing. He said there was a blood smear halfway up the stairs, four feet up on the wall.

SHAW SAID he accompanied the body to Holy Family Hospital where he found two holes left in the body by the bullet, one in the back and one in the chest. The wound in the back was higher, he said. He also reported Carbone had "severely bruised knuckles," and said there was a "bruising effect caused by the entrance of the bullet to the body" around the wound in the back.

He also denied seeing any bruises on Mrs. Carbone. Both policemen said she was "hysterical" when they arrived at the house and both said Carbone had been their supervising officer. Shaw said he had met Mrs. Carbone once before two weeks earlier when she had called for police assistance.

Testimony in the trial is expected to continue for the rest of the week.

A revenue share - finally

Elk Grove Township gets first U.S. check

Elk Grove Township finally received a check for its portion of federal revenue sharing, but the check is not for the full amount and no one is certain what should be done next.

Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the check received was for $7,000. The township also received a letter from Washington stating the township's share of revenue should be $56,000.

The letter, however, did not state when the balance would be received. Township officials are not sure if they are supposed to keep the check and wait for additional money or if they should send the incorrect check back and wait for the correct one.

Getting revenue sharing funds has been a problem for the township. The first application was sent in late. The second application hit a bureaucratic snarl when the township was mistakenly considered as a non-taxing agency by the federal government. Non-taxing agencies are not eligible for revenue sharing.

THE TOWNSHIP has spent the past few months trying to clear up the mistake. Bernard Lee, township auditor, said the township sent all the necessary forms to correct the error whenever it was requested to do so.

On one of the forms the township officials had to certify that all Eskimos living in villages within the township would be properly taken care of.

U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, was even asked to intercede for the township in its efforts to get the money.

Once the snarl is finally cleared up and the money received, the township will have to determine how to spend it.

Township officials have indicated they will hold special budget hearings to allocate the revenue sharing funds.

Lee said among the areas which may be considered for the allocation of revenue sharing are elderly assistance, youth committee, mental health and environmental problems.

Seatbelts urged for all school buses in state

Seatbelts could be required for all school buses in Illinois if a suggestion from Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher is followed.

Atcher proposed the Schaumburg Village Board initiate action to amend to state laws regulating boards of education and cities and villages. The amendment would empower local governments to regulate school buses.

This "is a criticism of our own legislature for not having come up with the answer" to problems of school bus safety, Atcher told the board this week.

The discussion developed from a complaint by Barry Jacobs, 1506 Syracuse Ln., Schaumburg, that children are allowed to stand on school buses. He asked the board to pass an ordinance requiring all children be seated while a bus is in motion.

VILLAGE ATTY. Jack Siegel said the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled municipalities do not have the power to regulate school buses. Only the local school board or the state school superintendent have that authority, he said.

Atcher proposed the village fight for legislation granting such power to villages, and other legislation requiring seats belts on school buses.

Atcher and Siegel suggested Jacobs take his request to the board of education of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54. Jacobs said he had, but added, "I get the feeling nobody cares."

Jacobs said he was concerned that children could be seriously injured if they were standing when the school bus stopped suddenly, or when an accident occurred. Local police can only check now to see buses are not overloaded. Jacobs said he has tried to make spot checks himself.

WAYNE SCHABILE, Dist. 54 superintendent, yesterday reported the district already prohibits children standing when buses are moving, and Schaumburg Transportation Co., the district's bus contractor, has a similar regulation.

"We want the kids to be seated also, and so does the bus company," said Schabile. Occasionally, he said, children ride a different bus than their normal one, which may mean the listed capacity is exceeded for one trip.

Schabile also noted that a bill recently introduced in the State Senate would have required seatbelts. He was notified yesterday it failed in committee. Such measures "should be left to be stated," he said.

A woman at the village board meeting Tuesday, who identified herself only as a fulltime school bus driver, objected to the seat belt proposal, saying she believed small children could panic in an emergency, and not be able to release the seat belts.

This could delay their getting off the bus, and might cause more serious injury than if they had not been restrained in place, she said. She also said bus drivers are very careful not to exceed their legal capacity. Although a change in the number of pupils on their routes might cause a slight overload for a few days, pupils are quickly shifted to other buses to eliminate any excess, she said.

Atcher added his plan is not meant as a criticism of bus drivers or bus companies.

Lobbyist asked for shop center towns

The suburbs' giant shopping center towns will be asked shortly to join forces and hire a Springfield lobbyist.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg revealed plans this week to start a movement for such communities to band together and pay for a permanent representative in Springfield.

He plans to ask his board at its next meeting to approve spending approximately $2,500 as Schaumburg's share of the cost.

The lobbyist would be in Springfield whenever the state legislature is in session, to keep local communities informed on pending bills and to present the reactions of the communities to the legislature.

Atcher indicated the catalyst for his plan was a bill now pending which would redistribute local shares of sales taxes collected at regional shopping centers. Under current state law, the community in which a center is located now receives 1-cent for every dollar in sales.

THIS BILL would "just take half our local amount, and distribute it among other communities in a 6-mile radius of the home municipality."

House Bill 1162 would take half of that sales tax and hand it over to towns around us," said Atcher. Schaumburg would lose income from sales taxes generated by Woodfield. He noted Mount Prospect also would be affected by the measure, losing some of its revenues from sales taxes collected at Randhurst. But since Schaumburg is within six miles of Randhurst, and Mount Prospect is within six miles of Woodfield, each community would receive a portion of the sales tax revenue generated by the other village's shopping center.

"There is much wrong with this thing," said Atcher, predicting the legislature would turn it down but adding the village cannot afford to assume it will be defeated.

This bill, and others like it that probably will be introduced in the future, will need "on going attention in Springfield," said Atcher. While Schaumburg and Mount Prospect both are members of the Illinois Municipal League, communities that would gain from these bills also are members, Atcher noted. The league often cannot take a position on pending measures, since not all its members react similarly, he said.

A solution would be for "all towns in the area with regional shopping centers to get together and help defray the cost of permanent representation in Springfield when the legislature is in session," he said.

Atcher defended his position opposing H. B. 1162 by saying, "We're not so selfish that we feel other people don't have anything coming at all. But we don't necessarily feel it should be coming from us."

Alexian fund drive at 80 pct.

Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village has hit the 80 per cent mark toward a $18 million building fund goal.

The hospital is in the midst of a $9 million expansion program that will more than double the size of the original facility at 800 Biesterfeld Rd. A hospital spokesman said yesterday a total of $1.47 million has been donated, including nearly $6,500 during March.

"We are hopeful of reaching our $1.8 million goal by December of this year and with the encouraging response we are getting this spring from businesses, industry and friends in the area, I think we will make the December (campaign) completion date," Marcella Niehoff, campaign chairwoman, said.

The new facility, under construction in front of the main building, will house an emergency care complex five times larger than current facilities and an outpatient department 17 times larger. Both the five-story ambulatory care center and the two-story community health building will be connected to the present hospital building.

Besides more out-patient facilities, the expansion will increase the number of hospital beds from the current 340 to a possible 420 beds.

Village approves new tennis club proposal

The Arlington Heights Village Board has approved plans for an eight-court indoor tennis club on University Drive in the Arlington Heights industrial park.

The facility, known as the Arlington-Dundee Tennis Club, was approved by a 4-1 vote of the board. The plan commission earlier had turned down the proposal.

Homeowners in the nearby Berkley Square subdivision dropped their original objections to the club after the owners agreed to remove an outdoor swimming pool and three outdoor courts from the plans.
